President Regaining Dems' OK

Douglas Plugged For Second Spot

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) —The Democratic clans, after feuding fiercely for months, closed ranks almost solidly last night behind Harry Truman for president.

But they held the vice-presidential contest wide open for the national convention beginning Monday and ending, it may be, as early as Wednesday.

First the running mate swing was toward Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois. Then it moved toward Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, and then toward Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming.

But there wasn't any doubt about the presidential nominee. The Democrats are going to place in the willing hands of Mr. Truman the banner Franklin D. Roosevelt carried to four victories in a row.

If any clincher was needed, the eldest son of the late F. D. R. supplied it. James Roosevelt announced he was cancelling a caucus he had called with the idea of lining up power behind Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for president.

Up to that point, there had been some suggestions that the caucus might go on anyway, to look over other possibilities than the general. Eisenhower knocked the props from under the campaign for him with a statement Friday that he wouldn't accept the nomination under any terms.

Anti-Truman Southerners kept up gestures of opposition to nominating the president for a full four-year term.

But the talk for Douglas still was strong. Chicago Democratic Chief Jacob M. Arvey and Illinois State Chairman George D. Kells put in plugs for him. Kells said also, however, that Lucas would be a fine compromise.

Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath said Douglas, who has disavowed any eagerness either for first or second place on the party ticket, had asked him months ago to try to prevent the justice's name from going into nomination for vice president. McGrath said he was keeping hands off any effort to boom Douglas.

Both McGrath and Leslie L. Biffle said so far as they knew, Mr. Truman had not decided whom he would prefer for a running mate. Biffle is a close friend of the president and convention sergeant-at-arms.

"Personally," Biffle told a reporter, "I am for Senator Barkley of Kentucky. He would make a fine candidate. But that doesn't mean that the administration is supporting Barkley."

Still unsettled, too, is what the party platform will look like. The big issue is whether to nail in planks calling for laws against lynching, poll taxes and racial discrimination in jobs.

Another friend of the president said the White House has supplied some ideas that could be interpreted as "a gesture of conciliation" toward the South.

FDR'S Son Survives Bitter Ouster Attempt

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— James Roosevelt Saturday survived an embittered ouster attempt by California convention delegates irked over his role in the Eisenhower-for-President movement.

By a 40-to-7 vote, the delegation in a stormy three-hour session finally tabled a motion demanding Roosevelt's resignation as its nominee for national committeeman from California.

Food Train Stop Slated

Mansfield will be one of the concentration points for the first Ohio Food train to be assembled Aug. 26 by CROP (Christian Rural Overseas Program), it was announced yesterday by Carl J. Landes, state CROP director.

The first train carrying food for overseas will move through the state next month and a second is planned for mid-October to handle fall crops, Landes said.

An organization of Richland county religious and farm people is promoting the CROP program in this area, urging contributions to the overseas aid program.

Ceremonies are expected to be conducted here and elsewhere in the state late in August as the first train is assembled.

Landes explained that instead of one giant train, 12 sections will be formed Aug. 26. These sections, containing six to 12 cars, will move independently to the port of embarkation in Philadelphia.

Ex-Prisoner Admits Smuggling Saw Blades Into County Jail

A 29-year-old former Richland county jail prisoner admitted yesterday to Sheriff Frank E. Robinson and Prosecutor Theodore Lutz that on the day he won release from jail by paying a fine he smuggled six hack saw blades to his former fellow prisoners.

Before the escape plot was discovered by jail guards 15 days later two bars from the inner set of bars in the jail had been sawed away, leaving an opening 14 inches square. Participants in the escape plot had started work on the bars on the third-tier window at the east side of the jail.

Sheriff Robinson identified the suspect as Virgil Chaney of Mansfield, R. D. 2. Lutz said charges of assisting in an attempted jail break probably would be filed against Chaney Monday.

Chaney was apprehended Friday after a lengthy weeding out of clues by the sheriff's office. Robinson withheld information on the attempted break until Chaney was apprehended.

Robinson said that four of the six blades were recovered. The other two had been broken and tossed into a lavatory by a prisoner, who has admitted so doing the sheriff said. The sawed-through bars have been replaced.

Chaney was quoted by the sheriff as saying that the escape plot was "cooked up" while he was in jail on conviction of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Robinson said Chaney related he had been asked to take the blades to the jail as a "favor."

Late on the night of his release, June 12, he took the blades to the east side of the jail, attaching them to a wire let out of the first-tier window by "inmates in the know." The prisoners had obtained the wire by unraveling it from a broom.

The sheriff said there were 22 inmates in the jail at the time. He said that those in jail for misdemeanors were not suspected since they had short terms to serve. The investigation consequently was narrowed to prisoners being held for the grand jury.

Investigation to determine the identity of others involved in the case is continuing, Robinson said.

Chaney had been sent to jail June 1 when he was unable to pay a fine of $75 and costs. On June 12 he paid a fine of $55.55 and costs and was released. The fine and costs had been reduced $3 for each day spent in jail.

Salary Plea Of Workers Stymied

Shultz's Promised Meeting Delayed

City workers apparently are no closer to wage increases than they were six months ago when they first requested "job evaluations" studies and salary adjustments to meet the rising cost of living.

The promised meeting of city council's finance and salary committees to discuss increases for policemen, firemen and service department personnel has never materialized and the Finance Committee Chairman Charles N. Shultz has set no date for a meeting.

He promised two weeks ago that a meeting would be called during the week of July 4 and that a special session of council would be convened to put the wage increases in effect by Aug. 1.

Questioned yesterday, Shultz said: "I can't tell you a thing about it."

He has not yet talked with City Auditor Paul J. Kelley concerning the availability of funds for wage increases. A careful study of that point is mandatory before a salary ordinance can be prepared.

Harry Bowman, chairman of the salary committee, said his committee is ready to meet whenever Shultz calls a meeting. Bowman said he had asked Shultz several times to call such a session.

Bowman himself has met with the department heads who have worked out a job evaluation study and have submitted proposed new salary scales.

"I thought about drawing up a bill of our own and presenting to council without meeting with the salary committee," Bowman said. "But that would not help the employes seeking wage increases because the bill would not get the necessary three-fourths majority for the suspension of the rules, and it would be months before any increases could go into effect."

Widower's Petition Gets Results

BATTLE CREEK, Mich.—(AP)—When the woman he wants to marry said she had to think it over, William P. Casey, 56, went to the voters.

Casey, a widower, popped the question to Miss Sylvia Shore, of Milwaukee, Wis. Miss Shore said she needed time before making up her mind.

Casey went to his lawyer and came out with a petition that read:

"We the undersigned registered and qualified voters and residents of Battle Creek, Calhoun county, Michigan, do hereby respectfully petition and beseech Miss Sylvia Shore to assume and faithfully fulfill the office of legal and spiritual wife and helpmate to William P. Casey, a single man."

The petition was signed by 250 of his friends.

Miss Shore replied: "Marry him? Yes, I'll marry him in the spring."

Greeks Issue New Aid Plea

ATHENS—(AP)—The Greek government made fresh demands yesterday for United States military assistance as the Grammos mountain operation against the guerrillas bogged down.

Premier Themistokles Sophoulis told newsmen after a defense council meeting attended by high American officials that the government had submitted a "memorandum" listing military needs.

The exact demands were not disclosed. However, one competent source said the government was asking funds to increase the Greek army by 40,000 and bombers for the air force.

New Hospital Chief 'Pleased'

Copeland Lauds Infant Care

General hospital's new superintendent asserted yesterday "there is not a hospital any place with better precautionary measures" for care of new-born babies.

He pointed to 38 recently-purchased individual-care bassinets to back up his statement.

"I was amazed and greatly pleased to come to Mansfield and find that individual-care bassinets had already been placed in the OB ward and that rules and regulations which New York state is just now deeming necessary had been enforced here for some time," said Supt. Wayne A. Copeland.

"When I left New York to come to Mansfield, a law had just been passed making mandatory the purchase of such individual-care bassinets."

Copeland cited statistics to show how precautionary measures taken to guard new-born babies had caused a sharp decrease in infant deaths.

In 1900, the first year in which records were kept, the death rate among babies under one year old was 162.4 per thousand. By 1943, the rate had decreased to 43 per 1,000.

Last year, 1796 babies were born at General hospital. Only 45 of those babies died shortly after birth. Another 39 were stillborn.

LOW DEATH RATE

The state of Ohio credits Mansfield with a death rate among babies of 36 per 1,000, including both hospital and home births. The rate for the state is 31 per 1,000 live births. In Newark, the 1946 rate was 23 per 1,000, in Mt. Vernon 58 per 1,000 and in Marion, 47 per 1,000.

Much of the reason for the fine showing of Mansfield, Copeland remarked, is the care given to babies in the hospital.

BABIES GET BETTER CARE—Individual care bassinets like this now are in use at General hospital. Thirty-eight of the bassinets have been purchased to permit better precautionary care for new born babies. Above Miss Lois Neiswander prepares to bathe a baby in his own basinette and with his individual equipment.

Some of these precautionary measures include: segregation of normal new-born and premature infants from sick infants or older children, and prohibition of nursing care common to both groups; isolation for at least one week of infants born outside the hospital before admitting them to the nursery for infants born in the hospital; exclusion of infants born to mothers who have or develop respiratory or diarrheal illness from the nurseries for normal new-born or premature infants.

Liberal use of the suspect nursery; prompt isolation away from the nursery area and personnel of infants diagnosed as being infectious; strict enforcement of handwashing by all personnel before and after coming in contact with any infant; elimination of common bath tables; elimination of common dressing tables.

'SUSPECT' EXPLAINED

Miss Carrie Beale, supervisor of nurses, explained the "suspect" nursery.

"Any baby," she said, "who had developed even so much as a pimple is placed in the suspect ward, where it can be watched carefully. Nurses who care for babies in this ward are not permitted to care for the babies who are normal and perfectly well.

"We used to dip our hands in a basin after caring for an infant. Maybe a nurse would dip her hand in that basin 20 times and of course with all the chance in the world to spread infection. Today, they cleanse their hands in running water."

"There's another thing that I think mothers should know. That is our method of washing diapers. I don't imagine there's a mother anywhere who uses our method.

"After they are washed in the laundry through at least three suds, they are brought into the hospital and autoclaved, which means that they are sterilized by steam under pressure. Each child with our new individual-care bassinets, gets his own sterilized pack of garments, plus an individual thermometer, basin and all other equipment."

It is because of these strict precautionary measures that the hospital enforces restriction on visitors.

"It would be unreasonable after we have taken all these precautions to open up our hospital without restriction and take the chance of contamination," Copeland declared.

Red Parties Harass Tito

4 Nations Decline Bid to Slav Parley

LONDON—(AP)—Following Russia's cue, four European communist parties announced Saturday they are refusing to attend Yugoslavia's communist party congress.

Marshal Tito and his Yugoslav Reds are in disgrace, suspended by the nine nation Communist Information bureau, because they insist on equality among Europe's communist organizations and not just a place in the queque behind Stalin's party.

The Czechoslovak, French, Italian and Hungarian communists all disclosed they will not be guests at the Yugoslav meeting which begins July 21. The Yugoslav News agency "Tanjug" announced Monday that all communist parties had been invited.

Russia revealed its "no" Wednesday.

The hard-faced attitude of the red neighbors who earlier hailed Tito as "brother" indicated a nearing showdown on the two interpretations of communism which already have shaken the red world harder than anything since Stalin ousted Trotzky a quarter century ago.

Albania's reaction to the Cominform charges of Tito's heresy front the true faith of communism was to break off economic relations with Yugoslavia. Obviously, the Albanian party will not send delegates to the Yugoslav congress.

Palmiro Togliatti's Italian communist party—the biggest in the world outside Russia—emphasized the Cominform line. The party's newspaper noted that since the Cominform's criticism, the Yugoslavs have done nothing "to recognize their errors like good communists and to correct them."

ATTORNEY STRICKEN

STEUBENVILLE — (AP) — Charles A. Valc, 76, Steubenville attorney since 1902, died Saturday following a heart attack.

Youngsters Thrilled

N-J Contest Winners Start New York Trip

Two excited youngsters, winners in The News-Journal's "Men of Erie" contest, boarded the eastbound Erie train a little after 4 p. m. yesterday thrilled by the prospect of four days in New York.

The two were Miss Emily Campbell, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Wallace Campbell, Lucas road and Harold Leiendecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Leiendecker, 50 South Main street.

Emily, who was graduated from Madison high last year, was most excited about sleeping in a pullman.

"It's the first time I've ever done that," she said. "Then I'm anxious to see one of the ball games between the Yanks and Dodgers."

Harold thought the Empire building would be the zenith of his dreams.

"I want to be a civil engineer some day, so of course I'll be interested in the Empire," he said.

Neither had expected to get a prize.

"I wrote mine at the last minute," Emily said, "on Memorial day. I said I was going to enter when the contest first was announced but I kept putting it off and finally there was the last day and it wasn't done. My family went to Columbus for the holiday but I stayed at home and wrote that essay."

Harold was working in his father's jewelry store when news of his winning was telephoned.

"I guess Dad was going to tease me a little and not tell me right away but I heard the conversation over the telephone and guessed what it was," he said.

3,600 Miles In 55 Days

Youth Sails Ocean Alone

NORTHEAST HARBOR, Me., — (AP) — A 23-year-old merchant marine engineer piloted his 38-foot yawl "Seven Seas" into this harbor Saturday after a 55-day one man, non-stop sea vovage from Setubal, Portugal.

Tanned and bearded, Joseph F. Petterson of Bangor said "the trip was fine" and that he had "no trouble" during the 3,600 mile crossing. He relied mostly on sail, he said, but occasionally used a small auxiliary motor. He left Portugal May 16.

Petterson arrived in Europe aboard the same yawl last summer after a 67-day, crossing from Maine with Stanley Cressey, University of Maine English instructor. Cressey remained in Paris.

"I had to repair my sails frequently during the voyage," Petterson said, "but I enjoyed the trip immensely."

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Petterson of Bangor, knew that he planned to sail, Petterson said, but were surprised to learn he had sailed alone.

Petterson was graduated from the Maine Maritime academy in 1944 and served as an engineer on several ships. He said he plans to reenter the merchant marine.

Arabs Battle For Airport

Jews Agree to Truce If Enemy Complies

TEL AVIV, Israel —(AP)— Arab troops were counter-attacking late Saturday in an attempt to retake Lydda airport, the largest airfield in Palestine. The attack was made by Trans-Jordanian Legionnaires and Arab Irregulars.

An Israeli government source said, however, that Jewish forces had captured the village of Deir Tarif, between Wilhelma and Beit Nabala, indicating that the Arab counter-thrust might have bogged down. All three villages are in the vicinity of the airport.

Hard-driving Jewish units of the Israeli army captured the key air base Saturday in a surprise attack. Despite the Arab counter-attack, the Israel high command announced that the Jewish offensive along a five-mile front southeast of Tel Aviv was "proceeding satisfactorily."

AGREE TO TRUCE

While the war raged there, and also on Palestine's northern and southern fronts, an Israeli foreign office spokesman disclosed that Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok had accepted Count Folke Bernadotte's proposal for a new 10-day truce. The United Nations mediator has left the Middle East for Lake Success.

The Israeli spokesman emphasized that the Jewish government would give the order for a cease-fire in the renewed Holy Land conflict only if given assurances that all the Arab armies had been instructed to stop fighting at a specific hour.

Feeling among government sources, however, was that the Arabs are committed to war and that there is practically no chance for an early end to the fighting. The war has been spreading throughout Palestine since the U.N.-sponsored four-week truce ended Friday.

U. S. Fights Reds' Berlin Supply Block

Russians Issue Ban On Road Transport

BERLIN—(AP)—New Russian bars on the highway exit from Berlin last night all but marooned Western Allied nationals in the city. Americans said they would not submit to any new restrictions.

The air corridor became almost the only link between Berlin and the British zone 120 miles to the west.

British authorities cancelled all leaves for their garrison. The Americans announced that leaves would be granted to their personnel only if they obtain seats on commercial airplanes.

The British-American action followed a Russian announcement in their official press that westbound allied traffic out of Berlin from now on would be permitted only on special permits issued by the Soviets. They said automobiles will be subject to search.

The Russian announcement was read to Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, U. S. deputy military governor, over the telephone.

He said:

"There is no change of our attitude regarding free access to Berlin. We do not intend to submit to any new restrictions. We have a right to free access and we intend to get it."

Highway travel to Berlin from the west has been stopped since June 18 when the Russians closed the road in the wake of the currency reform for western Germany. A few days later they laid down the railway blockade.

The new restrictions came as the Soviet-controlled press suggested Moscow would reply unfavorably to the demand by the U. S., Britain and France to lift the blockade. The press also indicated the Russians would insist on renewing four-power talks on the whole German question.

In the meantime, the British-American food and fuel lift continued to stream into Berlin.

The U. S. Airforce again outdid the 1,000-ton mark, flying 1,035 tons of supplies in 202 sorties for the 24-hour period ended at 9 a. m. E.S.T. The British made 187 flights.

Youth Held In Murder

SEATTLE—(AP)—The nude mutilated body of a young drive-in carhop, gagged with her black brassiere, was found in a vacant lot Saturday and police said a Seattle university student had confessed the slaying.

Detective Don Sprinkle said a tip from a Marine, who had tried to date the girl, Donna Woodcock, 22, resulted in the arrest of John Russell Gasser, 20. Gasser, Sprinkle said, made a statement admitting the slaying while he was being booked.

Sprinkle said a Marine told officers Gasser pulled into the drive-in after the Marine had unsuccessfully tried to get a date with the young girl.

Sprinkle said Gasser was arrested as he was eating dinner with his parents. The youth related, the detective said, that he drove the girl to a vacant lot and that they quarrelled.

Pay Boost Granted

WARREN, O.—(AP)—Bus drivers and garage employes of the Warren Transportation company have been granted a 10-cent hourly pay raise, the firm announced Saturday. For drivers that means $1.25 an hour. Garage men will get $1.39, General Manager Haven H. Mumford said.

Fetter Boy Dies In Hospital

Eighth Traffic Victim of Year

A game of hide and seek with his playmates ended in death late last night for a seven-year-old Auburn street boy.

The child, Raymond Fetter, was fatally injured when he ran into the side of car on Grace street about 9:30 p. m., police said. He died two hours later in General hospital of a skull fracture.

Police said the boy darted into the street from behind a bush where he had been hiding from his playmates. The accident occurred near the intersection with Pearl street.

Richard Waddell, 28, of 105 South Glenn avenue, driver of the car, said the child was wearing dark clothing and he failed to see him until he bumped into the car.

Waddell told police he was on his way to work at the Mansfield Tire plant and was driving about 25 miles an hour. Waddell was not held.

IN FIRST GRADE

The little victim, who was in the first grade at Newman school last year, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Fetter jr., of 332 Auburn street.

The body was taken to the Wappner funeral home. Funeral arrangements were incomplete early today.

The child was the eighth traffic fatality in Richland county this year. Last year's death toll was 10 in a corresponding period.

His death marked the third consecutive Saturday night in which a fatal traffic accident has occurred in the city area. Two weeks ago Russell H. McPeek of Marion was fatally injured in a crash near Mifflin. Last Saturday Joe Zanino, 75, was struck by a car on West Fourth street road and died a short time later in General hospital.

The boy was the fifth traffic fatality in two days in the Richland-Crawford counties area. Two Bucyrus men and a New Washington resident were killed Friday night in a two-car collision near Bucyrus, and a state highway worker was killed earlier Friday in a grade crossing accident at Holmes-Liberty.

Vote Ford Union Shop

90,000 Participate In 'Biggest' Election

DETROIT — (AP) — Employes of the Ford Motor company have voted 90 per cent in favor of a union shop, it was announced Saturday after the largest National Labor Relations Board election of its kind.

There were 98,989 employes eligible to vote. Of these 88,943 favored the union shop, while only 1,214 voted against it.

The CIO United Auto Workers called the vote a "slap in the face of the authors, sponsors and supporters of the vicious Taft-Hartley act."

The Taft-Hartley law makes it necessary to poll employes on the union shop question. Under a union shop all employes covered by the union contract must be union members in order to keep their jobs.

Union leaders warned the company that they considered the vote as "complete support" for wage demands now being negotiated. The UAW-CIO is demanding the equivalent of a 28-cent-an-hour wage increase. The firm has offered an 11-to-14-cent-an-hour boost. The average wage is estimated at slightly over $1.50 an hour at present.

Believers Crowd Visionary's Rites

CANTON — (AP) — Believers crowded St. Peter's Catholic church Saturday for the funeral of Mrs. Rhoda T. Wise, who claimed that Jesus had appeared to her many times in a vision.

"In my personal judgment," said Msgr. George N. Habig, celebrant at the solemn requiem high mass, "she was held in high favor by God. In the midst of a sinful world, holiness is still cherished."

Bank Plans Remodeling

City Issues Permits For Six New Homes

Building permits totaling $55,350 for six new Mansfield homes and garages, additions to residences and for the inside remodeling of the Mansfield Savings and Trust National bank, were issued last week at the city building.

The bank's permit called for inside remodeling and work on the front steps amounting to $2,500. Jacob Wolf was listed as contractor for the job.

New homes represented the bulk of the permit trade as permits for a total of $50,000 were given. Permits for new homes were issued to:

William Schultz, 26 Gibson avenue, for a $9,000 five-room brick veneer residence and $1,000 brick veneer garage at 907 Woodhill road with Raymond McFarren as contractor; Fred Kemley, 181 Fairlawn avenue, for a $9,000, four-room brick veneer home and garage at 349 Taylor road; Luther Hill, 544 Lily street, for a $2,000 four-room, cement block and frame residence and garage at the rear of 544 Lily street with George Henéson as contractor.

J. R. Cogen, 808 Maple street, for three, $10,000 brick veneer residences at 638, 650 and 654 Olivesburg road. All homes were listed as four and a half rooms. Cogen listed himself as contractor.

Permits for remodeling and additions were issued to: Vosie Linsay, 70 Vale avenue, for a $1,100 cement block addition to his residence; Mrs. Fred Stillwell, 774 West Fourth street, for a $350 brick veneer addition to the rear of her home; Ella Mae Jones, 490 Central avenue, for a $400 frame garage to be built at her address; and E. A. Eckert Advertising company to erect a $100 billboard at 162 Bowman street.

6,011 Bonus Checks Mailed In One Day

CINCINNATI — (AP) — A total of 6,011 bonus checks were mailed at Columbus Saturday to Ohio veterans of World War II, setting a new high for a single day, Courtney E. Kirby, assistant director of the State of Ohio World War II Compensation fund, reported in a talk to the 28th annual encampment of the Ohio Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Kirby said Saturday's mailing raised the total number of checks to 177,312 and the amount of payments to more than $58,000,000.

Ohio City Lists 16th Polio Case

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Greater Cleveland's polio count climbed to 16 Saturday with the admission to City Hospital of Leroy Elie, 2.

Seven other victims from nearby counties also are confined in the hospital. There have been four deaths attributed to polio here this year.

Pill Overdose Kills Teacher

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Dr. Charles Frederick Harrold, 50, teacher and author, died Saturday at his home. Police said he had taken an overdose of sleeping tablets.

A teacher of English at Ohio State university since 1943, Dr. Harrold was noted as an authority of nineteenth century literary figures. His best known work was "John Henry Newman," a biography published in 1945.

Dr. Harrold taught at Michigan State Normal from 1925 to 1943. He traveled and studied aboard and gave graduate courses and lectures during summers at the universities of Chicago, North Carolina, Illinois and Columbus. He leaves his widow, Elizabeth Hebblewhite Harrold, and a son, John, 21.

Reported Dead Twice, Texan Reaps Fortune In Paraguay

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ

ASUNCION, Paraguay—(AP)—There's a government warrant out for the arrest of George Lohman, but that's nothing to worry a man who's been reported dead twice.

Lohman, a lanky Texan who came here in 1912, is a legendary figure on the lonely Paraguayan Chaco. He lives 95 miles from the nearest town. He is rich.

He thinks he has about 80,000 head of cattle and his friends say there are a quarter million acres of land in his home ranch. The Indians, nomads who kill their old people, call him "The White Chief."

Right now, Lohman is charged with aiding the rebels who maintained a seven-month civil war last year. Specifically, the government says he supplied cattle to feed the rebel troops. Lohman's friends say that if he did, it was only to keep the rebels from taking them by force.

Anyway, neither they nor his family are much concerned. The part of his family which lives here says "He'll be in pretty soon to fix this thing up."

The fabulous cattleman came here with Tex Rickard in 1912 to find a fortune. Rickard soon went back to New York and found his as a boxing promoter. Lohman stayed on and never has been back to the states. With Robert Stewart, another Texan, helping him, he started out with 12 head of cattle on a few acres of rented land.

Stewart died last year, but Lohman is still active. He has been reported dead twice. Once during the Chaco war Indians brought in word that he had been killed. They said they had seen his body. It turned out to be the body of somebody else. Just last year word spread again that he was dead. This time it turned out to be Stewart.

Lohman married twice, both times to Paraguayans. Two daughters of the first marriage — one of them herself married—live in Asuncion. The second wife was a girl from Concepcion, the nearest town — 95 miles due east of the ranch, Red Spring. They and their four children live on the ranch.

When Lohman's cattle are ready for market, he has a choice of transportation. He can drive them overland to Concepcion and send them down the river by steamer. Or he can drive them all the way to Asuncion — about 350 miles.

The ranch is not bothered with traffic congestion. To get there from Asuncion there is first a 250-mile trip by river steamer to Concepcion. This may take two days, or more if the steamer runs aground on a sandbar. Then there is the overland trip 95 miles due west to Red Spring ranch—where the road ends.

In the dry season a truck might or might not make it. In the wet season an oxcart is the best bet. Since the war, Lohman has bought a jeep. He says it is all right on any road good enough for an oxcart.

Householder Faces 2 Jobs

Insulation Serves A Double Purpose

American householders have two important jobs ahead of them this summer if they are to attain maximum comfort in their homes.

The first is to prepare for another fuel shortage next winter, which government officials say will be fully as severe as last winter's, the second to make the house as cool as possible during the coming summer months.

Both these goals can be attained at the same time and by the same means — thermal insulation — it was declared yesterday by the Construction Research Bureau of New York, clearing house for building information.

FUEL SAVING SHOWN

Application of four inches of mineral wool between the top floor ceiling and the roof will reduce interior temperatures this summer by as much as 15 degrees, as shown by numerous tests; and this same insulation will save at least 17½ per cent of next winter's fuel, according to the National Bureau of Standards. An additional 17½ per cent fuel saving is possible if the walls of the house are insulated, the Bureau of Standards reports.

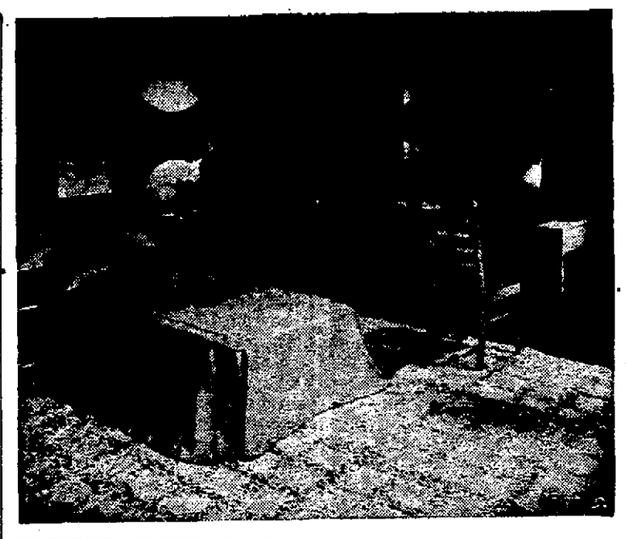
The reason such protection is required is that in summer, roofs often reach temperatures of 150 degrees. This superheated air quickly penetrates through the thin roofing, boards anad plaster and makes the interior much hotter than the outside air. The millions of dead air cells in each cubic inch of mineral wool, however slows down this heat passage enormously. In winter, the insulation works in reverse, preventing the escape of costly heat.

FUEL PRICES RISE

It will be more important than ever to conserve fuel next winter, both from the economic and comfort standpoint, government experts say. The demand for fuel of all kinds is far ahead of production and oil shortages "for several years to come," are predicted by J. A. Krug, secretary of the interior.

Furthermore, the price of all fuels has risen; in some cases as much as 50 per cent since the war, and this in turn means that householders face enormously increased fuel bills unless all possible steps are taken to conserve fuel.

"Since the cost of insulation is usually paid for within three years," Construction Research Bureau engineers say, "it is decidedly poor economy for a home to go without this protection so important to comfort both summer and winter."



POPULAR CHOICE—Limed oak is becoming a favorite furniture choice for young home-makers because its light wood coloring is adaptable to so many color schemes and is equally at home in living room, bedroom or dining room. The clean cut styling of good modern furniture makes it ideal for the small apartment or home. Unique in the minimum of space it demands, its careful designing assures the maximum in storage space and beauty.

CANTON POST WINS

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Floyd Hughes Post No. 693 of Canton has been awarded the drum corps championship of the Ohio Veterans of Foreign Wars as a result of competition at the VFW 28th annual encampment.

Race Betting Facts Aired

CINCINNATI—(AP)— Racehorse betting operations have been found here in 25 places where liquor is sold, police notified the Ohio Liquor Control board Saturday.

Sgt. Russell Jones of the police gambling squad said the information had been given the state in accordance with an announcement that the board would act to rescind the liquor licenses of cafes where evidence of gambling was reported.

Auto Theft Ring Probed

CLEVELAND—(AP)—A 23-year-old Middletown, O., man was brought here Saturday from Toledo for questioning in connection with operations of a state-wide automobile theft ring, Capt. Joseph Canepa, head of the Cleveland automobile theft squad, reported.

Police said the ring used altered registration titles to dispose of the cars and sold all the stolen autos in Ohio to avoid federal prosecution.

Canepa declined to discuss the case further "until the investigation gets further along." No charges have been filed against the man.

Liederkranz Picnic Scheduled for Today

The Mansfield Liederkranz will hold its annual picnic today at GBU park north of the city. Lunch will be served at 1 p. m. and there will be an afternoon concert by the Little German band from Mansfield Senior High school.

Ponk rides and contests will be provided for the children. Bus service will be available on the hour from 11 a. m. to 10 p. m., from Fourth and Main streets.

Mansfield Juniors Win First Legion Tourney Test

Dillard Fails In Olympic Hurdle Test

Gregorio Pitches 6-Hitter

BELLEVUE — Safely past their first hurdle, the strong Mansfield American Legion junior baseball team will tangle with the Willard aggregation in the second round of the district 5 tournament today at 12:30.

With Lou (Double N-Hit) Gregorio pitching steady six-hit ball, the Mansfielders put the Lorain juniors away yesterday, 9 to 2. Willard defeated Fremont in its first game in the double-elimination joust, 3 to 1.

Earlier in the season, Mansfield romped over Willard, 11 to 3. Manager Dewey Durant will start Dutch Bader for the Mansfield crew today. Durant's outfit is undefeated in 12 games this year, although it was held to a tie last week.

PLAY IN OPENER

Lorain and Fremont meet in todays' opener at 10 a. m. with Sandusky and Galion playing for the second time at 3 p. m. Attica will meet the Lorain-Fremont winner at 5:30 p. m. The tourney will be concluded here next Saturday and Sunday with the victor going to the state meet.

Galion racked Sandusky yesterday, 14 to 9 while in an earlier contest Sandusky squashed Attica, 23 to 0, as two pitchers—Kiger, Curtis—gave up only one hit. The lone blow came in the first inning.

Wildness on the part of three Lorain pitchers made the Mansfield victory a breeze. The mound trio gave up eight free tickets to first and seven were tangled up in the scoring.

Buck McKeever opened the contest with a single and Mike Gruber and Sparkie Watts drew walks. A single by Joe Distl unloaded two runs. Then in the fourth, Watts strolled and took second on a passed ball. Again it was a single by Distl which plated a run.

SOME MORE RUNS

After walking in the fifth, Gruber hooked second and came in on another passed ball. Distl's third single set the stage for run No. 6. He pilfered second, went to third on a bobble and rode home on Ken McCally's single. A walk to Cy Elsass followed by Bader's double pushed another run over in the seventh.

The final tallies came on two walks, Gregorio's double, a passed ball and McKeever's single.

Gregorio walked only one and whiffed five.

McKeever collided with McCally going after a foul pop and was shaken up. He may not play today.

Blue Goose Four Can Jump Into N-J 'A' Golf Lead

Blue Goose Tavern, which led most of the first half before being overtaken by Smokehouse, has an excellent chance to jump into the lead in the News-Journal A golf league second half race.

The Taverns are tied with Myers Supply and Flexible Conveyor for the lead and have a chance to pick up an extra point this week, having been tied with Smokehouse in medal score last week. Blue Goose will meet Penn Auto-Sporting Goods.

Other pairings for Tuesday are Smokehouse and Flexible Conveyor, Myers Supply and PD's Bar, and Orr Typewriter and Ideal Billiards.

Following Tuesday's play, the league will take its usual two-week mid-summer layoff.

Football Drills Open This Week; Some Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

HERE WE ARE smack dab in the midst of a couple thrilling major league baseball flag chases and what happens? . . . Comes a publicity release from the All-America conference with a lot of figures and other info. . . . Chief among this stuff is the fact, now get this, that the Los Angeles Dons will begin football drills next Wednesday. . . . That means that 55 young huskies will be battling for the 35 places on the roster of Jimmy Phelan's first pro squad. . . . Following the Dons within a fortnight will be the other seven All-America clubs. . . . The champion Cleveland Browns will be next to last to start training. . . . Paul Brown's lads will report to Bowling Green university July 26 with the New York Yankees gong July 28 at Cheshire, Conn. . . . There are 300 rookies in the crop of 450 candidates for the eight clubs. . . . Among the group is Mansfielder Dick McMullen who will be trying for a guard position with the Baltimore Colts. . . . The AAFC played to more than 2,000,000 fans in 1947 and Admiral Jonas Ingram, boss of the loop, expects an increase of 300,000 customers for the 56 conference and eight exhibition games. . . . Ingram says, "The strength of the various clubs has been so well equalized by the acquisition of new talent and off-season deals that each of the eight clubs is a possible contender." . . . Wanna bet the Browns won't win again?

WINNER of the Hot Stove Major Baseball league will compete in the 1948 state tournament of the National Amateur Baseball Federation. . . . Of course, the Mansfield team will try for the junior division title. . . . State champion will go to the national joust. . . . Tim Gerberich of the Elks team in the Junior league must have set some kind of a record Friday afternoon when he struck out six opponents in the first inning. . . . His catcher dropped three third strikes, allowing the batters to reach the initial hassock. . . . 13 Illinois graduates are playing pro-baseball—three holding down major league posts. . . . They are: Lou Boudreau, Indians; Hoot Evers, Tigers, and Howie Judson, White Sox. . . . Half of Indiana's varsity football squad is subject to the draft, along with two-thirds of the frosh grid squad. . . . Bucky Walters of the Reds is in his 19th year in organized baseball.

★ ★ ★

DICK POTH, Madison high school's fine all-around athlete, has pitched three games for the Madison team in the County junior baseball league. . . . He has given up just seven hits in the three tilts. . . . Dick hurled a one-hitter against Lucas, gained a no-hitter over Lexington and then was blasted for six hits by Bellville. . . . Lima's Terriers have really been having a string of bad luck in the Class D Ohio-Indiana baseball league. . . . The Terriers have lost 19 games by one run and have been clipped in seven extra-inning tilts. . . . Needless to say they're mired in the second division. . . . 569 birdies and 22 eagles have been rammed home in the two days of the annual Columbus Open golf meet. . . . Had George Schoux, the leader, not called that penalty stroke on himself yesterday he would have come home in 129 strokes, tying Jimmy Demaret's PGA record for 36 holes. . . . In the semi-finals of yesterday's Olympic high hurdle trials, Harrison Dillard easily defeated Craig Dixon and Clyde Scott, the Arkansas footballer. . . . Yet the latter timber toppers took advantage of Dillard's clumsiness in the finals and qualified for the trip to London. . . .

Grays Sign Ralph Majors; Battle Massillon 9 Today

Manager Lefty Deeds of the Mansfield Grays yesterday announced that the club has signed Ralph Major, former four-sport star at Senior high school who has been playing for the Mansfield Hawks and American Legion Post 72 softball team.

The Grays will entertain the Massillon Highways, a team which defeated them, 5-4, last year at 2:30 p. m. today in Blue Goose park.

Major, slim halfback who two years ago gained more yards than the combined Tyger football opponents, will be given a trial in the outfield according to Deeds. In high school he played shortstop in the diamond sport. He was a starter on the basketball team and a good hurdler in track.

Major will be in uniform for today's game but probably will see action as a substitute, if at all.

HAMMETT STARTS

Jack Hammett will be the Gray starting pitcher while the rest of the lineup will be the same as the past several Sunday's. Jim Meeting will lead off and play center field followed by Second Baseman Shelly Swank, Third Baseman Red Hamman, Shortstop Kenny Funk, Right-fielder Dubby Lockhart, and Catcher Wilbur Wade.

Hammett has won three and lost one since leaving Ohio State this spring. The Grays now sport nine wins in 18 games, after losing five of the initial seven contests. In his four complete games, Hammett has six runs and 22 hits.

★

The Madison township Hot Stove league team will be host to Crestline American Legion Juniors immediately following the Mansfield Grays-Massillon game this afternoon.

The game was scheduled to follow instead of precede the Grays' tilt to guarantee Madison a chance to finish its ball game.

Lanky Hurler Seeks Eighth Tavern Win

Lanky Jerry Novacic, will go after his fourth victory of the season this afternoon when he takes the mound for T and E Tavern against the New London Merchants at New London.

The game which finds T and E still looking for its eighth victory, will get under way at 1:30 p. m. Mansfield time.

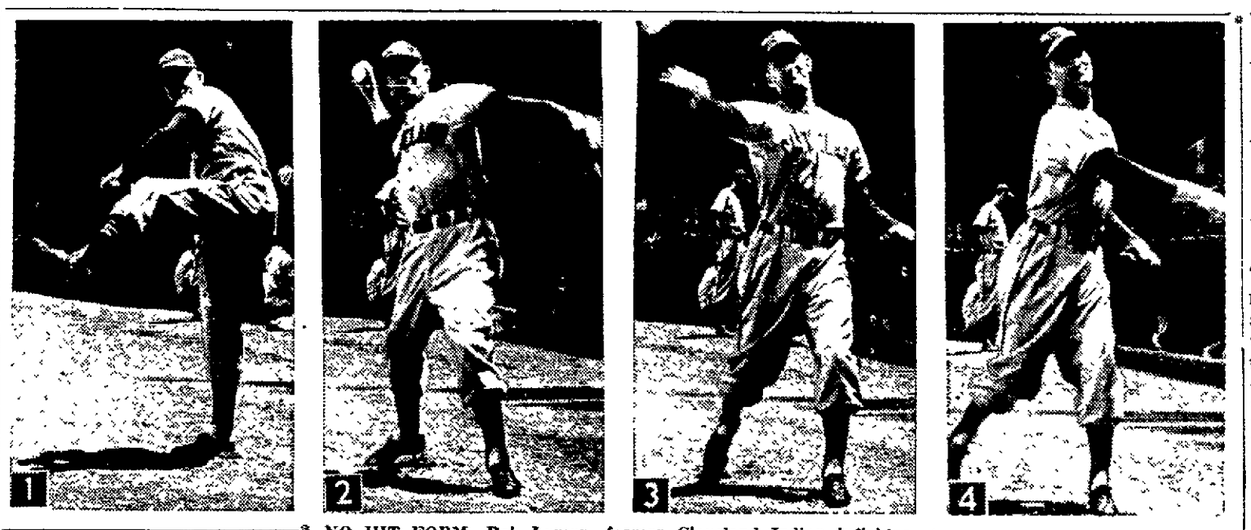
One of the seven victories of the Tavern team was a 6-5 early season win over New London.

Other games in the area will find the Shelby Blues entertaining the Anchor-Hocking Glass team of Lancaster, Bellville playing Lucas.

The Shelby American Legion Juniors and Mansfield Monarchs will meet at 2:30 p. m. this afternoon in a baseball game at Tillman park.

Breaks Record

HARVE DE GRACE, Md.—(AP)—Crispin Oglebay's Noble Pulse broke the track record and ran off yesterday with the $7,500 added Eastern Shore stakes.



NO HIT FORM—Bob Lemon, former Cleveland Indian infielder-outfielder, exhibits the form which enabled him to toss a no-hitter against the Detroit Tigers this year. Lemon has been the leading pitcher on the Cleveland staff this season. He has won 12, lost nine.

Lindell Hit Wins Game For Yanks

WASHINGTON — (AP)— Johnny Lindell singled with the bases loaded and none out in the tenth inning yesterday to spark the New York Yankees to a 5-2 victory over the Washington Senators.

The blow drove in two runs and enabled Vic Raschi, who began the frame with a walk, to gain his 10th victory of the year against three defeats. Mickey Haefner was charged with the loss.

All-Star Centerfielder Joe DiMaggio did not start for the Yanks but he delivered a pinch-hit single in the ninth. DiMaggio is nursing lame heels and his knees also are bothering him. It was the first time this season that DiMaggio failed to start a game.

Reds Salvage Victory Over Cards, 4 to 3

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Johnny Vandermeer held the St. Louis Cardinals to five hits through six innings, then worked out of a three-run seventh inning uprising to salvage a 4 to 3 victory for the Cincinnati Reds last night.

Grady Hatton's sixth inning home run with no one on base proved the winning run.

The Reds started their drive against Murry Dickson in the second inning when Ted Kluszewski doubled along the right field line. He went to third on Hatton's ground out when Virgil Stallcup also doubled.

The Reds picked up two more runs in the fourth on a single by Hank Sauer, double by Hatton and long fly by Stallcup which brought Hatton in from third where he had gone on a passed ball.

HOMER STARTS RALLY

Nippy Jones homered with Terry Moore on base to start the Redbird rally. Bill Baker singled and Al Brazle ran for him. Ralph Lapointe walked and with two out Marty Marion singled, sending Brazle home. Stan Musial, who went hitless in four trips, fouled out to end the inning.

A foul ball from the bat of Hatton struck a fuse box on one of the light standards at Sportsman's park, causing the lights in one part of the park to go out.

Play was resumed after a 15-minute delay.

The lights affected were along the third base side near home plate.

Mansfield Moose Plays Carey Softball Team

The Moose lodge Traveling softball league will swing back into action this afternoon after a one-week layoff.

Carey will be host to both league-leading Bucyrus and Mansfield in a double-header. The Mansfield team will be seeking its third win in seven league starts.

Cleveland Indians Battle St. Louis Browns Twice

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The Cleveland Indians meet the St. Louis Browns in a double header today with Bob Lemon and Bob Feller doing the pitching.

And, except for an exhibition game Wednesday night in the stadium with the Brooklyn Dodgers, they will be traveling until July 27, defending their shaky American league leadership.

On Monday night, the Tribe goes to Dayton to play an exhibition game with their club there in the Central league, then back to Cleveland for the Dodgers Wednesday. Thursday night they open their official trip with the Philadelphia Athletics—now one half game behind them.

The outcome of the Indians-Browns contests and the Athletics-Boston Red Sox doubleheader today will determine the standings of the A's and Cleveland when they play Thursday.

Feller will be trying for his 10th of the season while Lemon wants his 13th victory.

In the All-Star game at St. Louis Tuesday Cleveland will have four entries: Manager Lou Boudreau, Joe Gordon, Ken Keltner and Lemon.

Detroit Nips White Sox In Tight Contest

DETROIT —(AP)— The Detroit Tigers scored early and then held on tight against numerous Chicago White Sox threats to win their sixth ball game in a row yesterday, 5-4.

Dizzy Trout was the winner, but old Diz was lifted from the game in the eighth inning after allowing eight hits and six bases on balls. Art Houteman took over and barely hung on through a lively White Sox rally in the ninth to protect Trout's ninth victory of the season.

It was one of the most futile games of the year for the Sox. They made 11 hits, received six bases on balls and profited twice by Tiger errors. But, scoring only four times, they left 17 men stranded.

EARLY LEAD

The Tigers jumped into an early lead by scoring twice in the first inning and knocking starter and loser Joe Haynes from the box with only one man out. Against three successors, the Tigers scored again in the third, the fifth and the eighth.

The Sox got to Trout for one run in the first and then were held in check until the sixth, when Don Kolloway scored on Luke Appling's bounder.

In the ninth, trailing 5-2, they rallied for two runs on three hits before Houtteman induced Tony Lupien to foul to Paul Campbell to end the uprising and the game.

Cerdan Gains Middle Crown

BRUSSELS — (AP) — Marcel Cerdan regained his European middleweight championship last night by defeating Cyrille Delannoit of Belgium, on points in a gruelling 15 round fight before 15,000 fans at the Palais Des Sports.

It was a close decision and the crowd booed the three officials.

The Associated Press score card gave six rounds to each man and called the other three even.

Delannoit won the title from Cerdan in a surprise victory last May 23 and he gave the veteran Frenchman a terrific tussle last night.

Washington Wins

PRINCETON, N. J. — (AP) — The University of Washington's four-oared crew with coxswain qualified for the Olympic rowing squad and a trip to London next month by whipping Yale and the West Side club of Buffalo, N. Y., in the final tryout race on Lake Carnegie.

Minor Loops Draw Crowds

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Attendance in baseball's Minor league parks is running more than a million persons ahead of last season's banner pace, the president of the Minor leagues said yesterday.

In a summary of a recent survey, President George M. Trautman of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues predicted the Minors probably would break the 1947 attendance mark of 41,516,736 customers by a wide margin.

Trautman said part of the patronage boost could be credited to six new leagues brought into the association since the close of the 1947 season. But, he said the primary reason was just plain increased interest in Minor league baseball.

Trautman did not release this year's attendance figures.

Boston Gets Four In 1st To Beat A's

PHILADELPHIA —(AP— Jack Kramer, who appears to have found himself after a slow start with the Boston Red Sox, won his seventh straight game yesterday shutting out the Philadelphia Athletics 4 to 0.

The former World Series ace of the St. Louis Browns gave up 10 hits, but was tight in the clutches and choked off a half-dozen budding rallies by the Athletics to score his ninth victory against three losses. By losing, the A's dropped a half-game behind first place Cleveland.

Kramer was staked to a four-run lead in the opening inning when Vern Stephens cracked his 17th home run of the year with two mates on base. A moment later Bobby Doerr connected for his 15th circuit smash. And that ended the scoring for the day.

FIRST OF YEAR

Bill McCahan, sore-armed sophomore, pitched his first complete game of the year for the A's and did a commendable job, holding the Sox to seven hits. But McCahan gave up no less than 11 walks.

Ted Williams sat out the game on the bench. Manager Joe McCarthy said the slugging outfielder has a pulled cartilage in his side. He may be able to play today, but it is doubtful whether he'll be able to go in the all-star game Tuesday.

Big Bill Voiselle Hurls Braves to Win Over Phillies

BOSTON—(AP)—Big Bill Voiselle hurled the top place Boston Braves to a 4-3 win over the Phillies last night before a 25,023 crowd.

Shortstop Alvin Dark hit safely in his 22nd consecutive game as the Tribesmen strengthened their first place Naftional league lead.

The Tribesmen clinched the issue against starter Dutch Leonard with a three run rally in the third inning, during which they belted out three hits, including Phil Masi's double and singles by Jeff Heath and Al Dark, who hit safely for his 22nd straight game.

Del Ennis belted his 12th homer for the Phillies in the ninth inning.

Voiselle had a six hitter until two were out in the ninth when he needed help from Clyde Shoun who fanned Al Lakeman

Leading Indians Defeat Columbus

INDIANAPOLIS — (AP) — The league-leading Indianapolis Indians broke a five-game losing streak to turn back the challenging Columbus Red Birds last night, 4-3.

Bob Malloy marked up his 12th victory and his fourth straight as he set the Birds down with seven hits. Harvey Haddix also went the route, giving up nine hits to the Indians.

Fonville And Dodd Also Out

EVANSTON, Ill. —(AP)— Two mighty sprinters, Barney Ewell and Mel Patton, and a middle distance double winner, Mal Whitfield, won the right yesterday to lead one of the strongest of all American Olympic track teams to the games of the fourteenth Olympiad in London starting July 29.

A series of disasters, however, eliminated some of the greatest names of trackdom.

Charles Fonville of Michigan, who has made 58 feet ¼ inch in the shot, almost a foot better than the world record, will be left behind, as will Gil Dodds, the peer of the milers. Harrison Dillard of Baldwin-Wallace, regarded as the best high hurdler in the world, qualified for the 100 meter dash but quit in despair in the hurdle final.

Despite these blows Head Coach Dean Cromwell was happy and confident. "We will win seven or eight firsts for sure," he said, and named a total of 14 events in which America has good chances.

Long-striding, Pel-Mel Patton from the University of Southern California won the 200 meter final by a yard from Ewell, the 31-year old Penn State alumnus, to reverse the order of finish in Friday's 100 meter dash. Thus both became double qualifiers and both showed performances in line with the great sprint traditions of the United States.

EQUALS RECORD

Patton won the 200 in 20.7, which equals the unofficial world record for the race around a curve. Ewell's 100 meter time was 10.2, which also equals the world mark.

In all, 33 places were filled in 11 final tryout events before a crowd of 20,000 in Dyche Stadium, rounding out the team which comprises three athletes for each of 22 track and field events, plus two relay teams.

Whitfield, representing the Army and Air Force team and a student at Ohio State, was the only double winner, and his times were such as to brand him a contender at London regardless of the field assembled. He took the 800 meters in 1:50.6, and then 400 meters in 47.6. Both are the fastest times made by an American this year.

The three great casualties came from varying causes. Dodds had a pulled achilles tendon and did not even compete. Fonville, who had a sore back, did 54 feet 1⅜ inches, and that was only good enough for fourth place, just outside the team. Dillard apparently couldn't hurdle.

SPARKLING MARKS

Among the marks that sparkled, in the tryouts boding well for London were: Verne McGrew, Rice, and George Stanich, Los Angeles Athletic Club, 6 feet 8¼ inches in the high jump; Francis Delaney, San Francisco Olympic Club, 55 feet 1¾ inches, in the shot.

There was a mounting gasp as Harrison Dillard knocked down the second and fourth hurdles in the 110 meter hurdle finals, and then drew up helplessly in front of the seventh one, pushing it down with his hands as if he had no more strength for leaping.

Thus the man who had bettered the world record for the 120 yard high hurdles with 13.6, and who was regarded as a shoo-in at London, failed to make the team in his favorite event.

William Porter, of Northwestern, won the high hurdles brilliantly by two yards in 13.9, with Craig Dixon of the University of California at Los Angeles second, and Clyde (Smackover) Scott of Arkansas third.

Even with Fonville out of it,

Brooklyn Dodgers Move Into First Division Again

NEW YORK —(AP)— The Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday moved into the first division in the National league pennant race for the first time since mid-May.

Leo Durocher's defending champions trounced the Giants, 15-10 and took over fourth place from the stumbling New Yorkers.

Trailing, 8-5 going into the seventh inning, the Dodgers staged a seven-run rally to clinch the decision. Jackie Robinson highlighted the uprising with a three-run inside the park home run.

The Giants employed seven pitchers with only Paul Erickson, who p itched the ninth, holding the Dodgers hitless. The Giants collected 12 hits off four Brooklyn hurlers including homers by Whitey Lockman and Walker Cooper.

Injuries Soar In American Camp; Bucky Harris Blasts Bob Feller

By JACK HAND

ST. LOUIS —(AP)— Injuries and hot words yesterday seared the American league's chances against the National league in major league baseball's annual all-star game here Tuesday.

Ted Williams, the Boston Red Sox, the junior circuit's top hitter, sat out yesterday's game between Boston and the Philadelphia Athletics because of pulled cartilege in his side. He may not be able to play Tuesday.

At Washington Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees, also was on the bench, hoping that his tender heels would permit him to play in the annual dream game on Tuesday.

Those two last-minute developments, however, were nothing compared to the blast of Manager Stanley (Bucky) Harris of the Yankees, who will pilot the American leaguers, when informed that Cleveland speed-baller Bobby Feller had withdrawn from the squad.

Harris said that as long as he was connected with the all-star selections Feller never would receive another bid.

A Cleveland club spokesman said that Feller, who withdrew last year because of a claimed sore back, had suggested he be replaced because he would pitch for the Indians today and would not be of any use to the all-stars on Tuesday.

Harris said that Joe Dobson of the Red Sox would replace Feller.

Both Williams and DiMaggio were picked for the team by the fans. Feller, however, was named to the team by Harris

The injury to Williams, suffered Thursday night, may rob the 15th annual game of its main attraction—the bat duel between Williams and Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Teddy fared poorly in his lone world series chance with the Boston Red Sox, but he has ruined the National in these all-star affairs, batting a cool .500 in five appearances. In 1946 he humbled the Nats with two homers and five runs batted in during a 12-0 rout. His ninth-inning homer won the 1941 contest at Detroit.

The big man of the National is Musial, who has been hitting over .400 in recent weeks en route to one of his greatest years. For the first time in his career, the St. Louis Cardinal star is rivalling Williams in extra base power.

Harris, who bossed the New York Yankee to the American league flag and world series triumph last year, must start Williams and the seven additional players who were named in the National fan pool of several million voters.

That means the American will open with George McQuinn of New York on first, Joe Gordon of Cleveland at second, Lou Boudreau of Cleveland at shortstop and George Kell of Detroit at third.

In addition to Williams in left field, the American starting outfield includes DiMaggio of the Yanks and Pat Mullin of the Detroit Tigers, the lone newcomer. Buddy Rosar of the surprising Philadelphia A's will be the catcher.

For pitching, Harris can choose from an eight-man squad that includes Hal Newhouser of Detroit, Dobson of Boston and Bob Lemon of Cleveland, Vic Raschi and Joe Page of New York, Joe Coleman of Philadelphia, Walt Masterson of Washington and Joe Haynes of Chicago.

Hot George Schoux Leads at Columbus

By FRITZ HOWELL(Ohio AP Sports Editor

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Curly-haired George Schoux, 29-year old foot-lose professional from San Francisco, breezed so far ahead of the field at the half-way mark in the third annual $10,000 Columbus Open tourney yesterday that he started giving away strokes.

The 29-year-old 140-pounder, who turned pro just two years ago after returning from a war-time construction job in Hawaii, ripped rugged Wyandote's terrain apart with a startling 32-32-64, added it to an opening 34-32—66 for a 130 total, and settled back with a four-stroke edge going into today's 36-hole stretch drive.

Schoux doesn't have a job, and he is about to become a dad, so he needs the $2000 top prize. And judging from the way he batted in eight birdies, while missing par only once, it looks as if he might win it.

LONE OVER PAR

That lone over-par hole, the 426-yard par four 13th, brought forth some of the Schoux drama. He was nicely on the green in two, 12 feet from the cup, but in lining up his birdie putt he touched the ball, moving it a fraction of an inch.

He called a penalty stroke on himself, despite objections from the scorer, missed the 12-footer, and took a one-over-par five. But at that, he wound up the 36 holes an even dozen under even figures.

Stewart (Skip) Alexander, the bespectacled husky from Lexington, N. C., who paced the first round with 32-32—64, skidded to 70 but clung to the second spot with 134. Traps cost him several strokes.

Tied for third were Lloyd Mangrum, the 1946 national open champion from Chicago, and Johnny Bula, the air line official from Phoenix, who deadlocked at 135. Mangrum had a 69 yesterday after an opening 66, while Bulla, who boasted the most amazing hole of the day, tacked a 68 to his opening 67.

On the 457-yard par five 15th hole Bulla cracked his drive around the 325-yard marker, getting plenty of roll on the sun-baked fairway. Then he punched a nine-iron into the cup for a double-eagle deuce. Bulla estimated he could have had a 59, if makable putts had dropped.

Ellsworth Vines, the reformed tennis king, ground out his second straight 68, and the Iowa City, Ia., giant wheeled into the fourth spot with 136. Frankie Stranahan, Toledo's British and Canadian amateur champion, scored a four-under par 67 for a 140 total and a two-stroke edge over his nearest Simon-Pure foe, Danny Carmichael of Columbus. Carmichael lost four strokes to par on the last three holes.

HOME IN 29

Bill Nary of Phoenix also dropped into the 140 slot with the day's most unusual round. He went out in 38 strokes, two over par, but came home in 29 blows, six under, for a course record on that half of the layout. He had 67 yesterday, 73 Friday.

Tied at 138 were Al Smith of Winston-Salem, N. C.; Dr. Cary Middlecoff of Memphis; Bobby Locke, the defending champion and pre-tourney favorite from South Africa; Herman Keiser, the former Masters champion from Akron; Clayton Haefner, the drawling guy from Charlotte, N. C.; Denny Shute of Akron, former PGA champ, and Jim Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y.

Selways Pitch Shoes In Match at Galion

CANTON — (AP) — The Canton Selway Carpet Cleaners, Ohio's horseshoe pitching championship team, will invade Indianapolis July 18, for a crack at the Indianapolis All-Stars' world title.

The Selways will warm up for the All-Stars in a state league match today at Galion against the Ohio horseshoe team of Columbus.

TEE TIME

By Charley Stine

(News-Journal Sports Writer)

COLUMBUS—By the time this sees the light of day, the Columbus Open will be in its third day and one or more of the country's top professionals will likely be far ahead of the pack. Judging purely on their showing in Friday's opening 18 holes we wouldn't be surprised if it were a comparative darkhorse—Ellsworth Vines, the ex-tennis ace.

We were among the 3500-odd galleryites Friday who saw Vines play good, consistent golf and wind up tied for fourth place. Yet he gave the impression as being one of the few in the tournament who could completely master the tricky Wyandot layout.

Althongh short in comparison to most tournament courses, Wyandot has some tricky ravines and dog-legs. Quite a few of the holes require two long irons rather than a wood to reach the green.

On these holes Vines seems to be at his best. He was always in the middle of the fairway and though sometimes over the green, was never off to the side.

Vines' fine play possibly had something to do with spurring Skip Alexander into a 64 and a first-round lead. . . . Alexander was in trouble with practically every drive, but when Vines put his approach on the green, Alexander would tighten up and lay his up alongside. . . . Playing along with the two apparently affected the play of the third member, George Shoux, a comparative unknown, who fired 66 to tie for second.

About one-third of the gallery tailed the threesome composed of Lloyd Mangrum, Frank Stranahan and Johnny Bulla. . . . Only three others had any following at all. That was Vines and Co., Bobby Locke and the threesome of Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Chick Harbert and the veteran Ky Laffoon. . . .

The latter group was by far the most colorful of the lot. . . . Herbert, who was the favorite of anyone who saw him, spent as much time talking to the crowd as he did playing. . . . Hatless and with a tee stuck behind his ear, he made quite a sight, strutting his better-than-200 pounds down the fairway with full knickers flopping in the breeze. . . . Only two others, Schoux, and, of course, Bobby Locke, wore the knee breeches.

For folks going to attend the tournament today — don't miss someone that practically everyone did the first day. That is Prespero Gianvito, the one-armed former Columbusite now playing out of Keiwanee, Illinois. . . . Gianvito may be a few strokes behind the leaders, but just watching the man smack 250-yard drives with one arm is an inspiring sight. . . . The one-armed marvel had little following Friday, . . . apparently because everyone in Columbus had seen him perform. . . . Also playing most of the way without a solitary supporter were Sammy Byrd and Clayton Haefner, both of whom went well under par. . . . There were just too many to watch.

Locke was a little disappointing to many as his putter was ragged. . . . He is a rather "dull" competitor, compared with Toney Penna with whom he was playing and Chick Harbert. . . . Penna lost his temper when he missed several fairway shots, but always broke into a grin and sank some of the best putts of the day.

4 Westbrook Golfers Play

Four Westbrook Country club golfers will be among the group going after Frank Stranahan's Ohio Amateur championship at Dayton's Miami Valley country club this week.

Playing from here will be Dale Rose, Al Hager, Vic Solters, and Westbrook champion Carl Wiseman.

The four will leave this morning and plan to play a practice round to get familiar with the course before tomorrow's opening 18 holes. The top 90 will remain after Monday's play and Tuesday night the list will be cut to 64 and match play started. Two eighteen hole matches per day will end the joust on Saturday, the finals and semi's being 36-hole matches.

Injuries Hit Junior Loop All-Star Team

Leo Durocher, current manager of the Brooklyn team which won the flag for Burt Shotton last season, has named only six pitchers to the National squad. He will sink or swim with Ewell Blackwell of Cincinnati, Elmer Riddle of Pittsburgh, Johnny Schmitz of Chicago, Johnny Sain of Boston, Harry Brecheen of St. Louis and Ralph Branca of Brooklyn.

Unlike Harris whose 25-man American league team will be top-heavy with six members of his own Yankee club, Durocher has only two Dodgers on the National squad. Six New York Giants have been picked.

Only three holdovers from the '47 National league team will start as the fans have dictated a new deal for the old league. Johnny Mize of New York at first base, Enos Slaughter of St. Louis in right field and Walker Cooper of New York as catcher are the only survivors.

Eddie Stanky, who was traded to Boston after a successful career at Brooklyn, was the original second base choice, but he had to bow out due to an ankle injury. Red Schoendienst of St. Louis, runner-up in the close voting, takes over.

Pee Wee Reese of Brooklyn is the starting shortstop with Andy Pafko of Chicago, a converted center fielder, playing third. Musial will be in left and rookie Richie Ashburn, the lone Philadelphia Phil on the squad, in center.

Both starting lineups must play the first three innings. After that the managers can change them around at will with the exception of pitchers, who can work only three innings. Only in case of an extra inning game can a pitcher overstay that limit.

Hager Gets 36

Al Hager and Carl Wiseman had a 36 and 37, respectively, in the Westbrook country club golf league Friday evening. Vic Salter and Bill Black each had a 38.

Young College Swimmers Shatter Olympic Records

By CHARLES A. GUMICH

DETROIT —(AP)— Philadelphian Joe Verdeur and California's Ann Curtis, 22-year-old collegians, beat Olympic records yesterday in tests at River Rouge park for berths on the American swimming team leaving next week for the 1948 games in London.

Verdeur set an American long-course (50-meter) record for the men's 200-meter breast stroke at 2 minutes 36.3 seconds to win his place on the American team. His time was 6.2 seconds better than the mark set at the 1936 Berlin Olympics by Tetsuo Hamuro of Japan.

The Philadelphian, a student at LaSalle College in his home town, was far off the best mark he made at 2:30 in an exhibition during summer training at Yale university. He holds an unofficial world short course (25-meter) record of 2:30.5 in the 200-meter breast stroke.

GETS SECOND SPOT

Keith Carter of Purdue university, already a member of the London-bound team as the result of winning second in the 100-meter free style finals two days ago, chased Verdeur to the finish touch in second place, and will swim in two races—breast-stroke and free style—at the London Wembley pool competitions opening July 29.

Third and last place to qualify for the London Olympics in the breast stroke went to Bob Sohl of the University of Michigan.

Miss Curtis beat the Olympic 400-meter free style record for women without half trying in preliminary competition. The University of California junior year co-ed was timed at 5 minutes 25.9 seconds, half a second faster than the mark made by Hendrika Maestenbroek of Holland at the Berlin games in 1936.

Two Purdue university co-eds won places on the American team. They are Jeanne Wilson of Chicago, holder of seven American records, and Carol Pence of St. Louis, Mo., who finished one-two in the women's 200-meter breast stroke. Clara Lamore of Providence, R. I., won third and a boat ride to the Olympics with the Purdue pair.

The men's final 100-meter backstroke race was won by Yale's swimming captain, Allen Stack, in 1:06.9. The others who made the team in this event are Robert Cowell of Pittsburgh, second, and Howard Patterson of Michigan State College, third.

The American team membership will be completed today in finals of the men's and women's high platform diving, the men's 1500-meter free style, women's 400-meter free style, men's 200-meter free style, six places on the 400 meter relay squad and women's 100-meter back stroke.

Quotations Going Up

Dollar Bonds Reflect World Peace Trends

By JOSEPH S. ROSAPEPE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Quotations of foreign dollar bonds in the United States—rising and falling with political developments—closely reflected the temper of world peace during the first half of 1948, Wall Street brokers say.

Dollar bonds are loans floated in the United States by foreign governments or corporations. Their principal and interest are payable in U. S. dollars.

Among events which depressed these bonds were: Czechoslovakia being taken over by the communists, the uncertainty before the Italian elections, recurrent crises in Berlin, repeated rumors of pound devaluation and Scandinavian relations with Russia.

Other developments have bolstered European securities. Evidence of how ERP stimulated European recovery, favorable crop reports throughout Europe, the influx of dollar-spending American tourists, plus political developments like communist setbacks in France and Italy and the castigation of Tito by the Cominform have been supporting factors.

One of the sharpest but shortest episodes which affected dollar bonds favorably was the exchange of notes between the United States and Russia in May.

Since then European dollar bonds have continued to recover the values which had dropped to particularly low levels in March and April.

By July many had made substantial progress in approaching the high levels of the first of the year.

Scandinavian issues have been particularly sensitive to European political trends. Copenhagen 4½s of 1953 which reached a high of 79 on Jan. 2, and dropped to 53½ in March, were back up to 77 at the end of June.

GENERALLY UPWARD

Norway 4½s of 1956 were quoted at 97⅜ in January, fell to 75 in March and at mid-year stood at 80. Denmark 4½s of 1962, which began the year at 82, declined to 54 in March and by the end of June had gone to 69¼.

Bonds of Italy—first from a former enemy nation to be readmitted to trading in the United States—reflected political stresses in Italy. Typical were Italian public utilities ⅜s of 1977 which were listed at 19½ in January. After dropping to 12 before the April elections, they had risen to 17¼ by the end of June.

Even Czechoslovakian issues, which took the sharpest drop, losing more than half their quoted values, had begun to recover substantially.

Czechoslovak 8s of 1952 in January were listed at 110. After dropping to 53 at the end of April by June they had climbed to 60.

Belgian and Dutch dollar bonds seemed less affected than others. Netherlands 3¾s of 1957 which in January were quoted at 97⅞ then declined to 89½ in the spring, were back to 90½ in June. Belgium 6s of 1955 listed at 109 in January, slipped to 106⅛ in mid-spring and at the end of June were at 107.

Brokers say most of the trading in foreign bonds today is done by American investors. Before the war, however, the bulk of activity was provided by foreign buyers.

In the past, European investors would enter the market for dollar obligations, when they thought they saw good buys, confident of their ability to appraise the European situation more skillfully than Americans.

Now, however, these potential traders are limited by their acute shortage of dollars. They are also reluctant to buy "cheap" dollar bonds since the move might expose them to tax penalties and forced repatriation by their governments.

European dollar bonds oustanding in the U. S. on Jan. 1, 1948 totaled $1,393,900,000, according to a report by the Institute of International Finance of New York university.

Total foreign dollar bonds outstanding in the U. S. amounted to $4,509,100,000, including securities issued by countries in Latin America and the Far East, Canada and Mexico.

Of the total European bonds outstanding, however, $1,144,400,000, or 82.1, were in default as to interest payments. German issues which have not yet been readmitted to trading here account for 58.7 per cent of the defaulted European issues.

Dollar bonds of all countries in Europe having bonds outstanding here are in default as to interest in varying degrees, except those of France, Belgium, Finland and Ireland, which in mid-1948 were current in their debt service payments.

Farm Price Act Defined

Larger Crops Mean Less Price Support

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Department of Agriculture officials say the new long-range farm law, approved in the closing hours of congress, moves toward a philosophy of plenty. The law, known as the Agricultural act of 1948, works this way:

It continues, with some changes, the present high wartime price supports through 1949. Then the long-range plan, with lower price support, goes into effect. After 1949 the more abundant the crop, the less support the farmer will receive. The government may provide this support by making loans, purchasing crops or other means.

Department spokesmen say the purpose is to give some support to abundant crops, but not so much support that the man who has to buy food has to pay prices too high for his pocketbook. If prices start sliding downward because of an oversupply, the federal aid money to farmers will be increased.

This may encourage them not to cut crops too sharply. This ties in price support with the law of supply and demand. The experts hope it will create abundance without waste. They say this is the first time there has been such an arrangement covering major crops.

The new law has a new method of figuring parity prices. The parity formula attempts to define the buying power of farm products during a period of fair farm profits. Then it attempts to insure the farmer the same buying power today. (As an instance, if two bushels of wheat, in a given period, bought a pair of shoes, today's price for wheat would be set so that two bushels would be sufficient to buy a pair of shoes, although in dollars the price is twice as high. More than 900 items the farmer buys are used in determining the price he should receive for products he sells.)

The new parity will be based on prices in the 1910-14 period. But in addition it will attempt to take into consideration changes that have taken place in farming practices and demand for farm products since then. For instance, it costs less to produce grain today than it did in 1910-14 because grain planting and harvesting machines have been invented, reducing farm labor. Also the demand for grain has changed.

Farm officials say in general this will tend to reduce grain prices and increase prices for livestock and dairy products.

The law spells out the way the secretary of agriculture may support prices of the "basic" commodities — corn, wheat, cotton, peanuts, rice and tobacco. He may support other products at his discretion. The tobacco price will be set at 90 per cent of parity indefinitely. The other five basic commodities may be supported at from 60 to 90 per cent of parity.

200 Watch Casting

Martin Pahls Wins Over 12 Others

Approximately 200 Mansfielders looked on as Martin Pahls led a group of 13 Mansfielders in the first casting contest at Liberty Park lake Friday night with a final score of 94 points in 10 casts.

The other Mansfield casters who competed and their scores were Glenn Heinberger, 88; Earl J. Horning, 86; Mrs. Martin Jahls and Kenneth L. Woodman, 84; Howard Fox and H. King, 79; William Hahn, 77; Clarence "Duke" Hassinger, 76; David Karsmizki, 75; Richard Hahn, 73; Vern Jones, 61, and Leo Karsmizki, 57.

The contestants each made 10 casts at five 30-inch rings anchored in the lake—starting with a score of 100 and losing one point for each foot of the accuracy ring.

David Karsmizki, 11, surprised all the contestants by scoring 75 after only five weeks' experience with rod and reel. Leo Karsmizki, his father, was both proud and surprised, when he acknowledged defeat to his son with a score of 57.

"I taught the kid," he said.

A casting contest, jointly sponsored by the Richland County Fish and Game Protetctive association and the Mansfield Casting club, will be held every Friday evening at 6:30 p. m. at Liberty Park lake.

Two Sought In $118 Holdup

Police yesterday investigated the strong-armed robbery of $118 from Walter Comsha, Massillon, who was attacked in front of the K and D cafe, 29 East Fourth street, shortly after midnight, Saturday.

Comsha related to police that he was struck over the right eye by two men as he started to enter his car. He said he had been drinking at the bar with two men and that when he walked outside the men were waiting for him.

After engaging him in a short conversatiton, he said the taller of the two men hit him, took his wallet and pushed him into the car. Comsha did not report the incident to police until several hours later.

Gen. Eichelberger Praised By Japs

TOKYO—(AP)—Three influential Japanese newspapers — Nippon Keizai, Mainichi and Jiji Shimpo —expressed regret today that Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, Eighth Army commander, is leaving.

The newspapers praised the American general for his sympathy toward Japan and for his part in ordering relief supplies to quake stricken Fukui last month. General Eichelberger will leave for the United States on Aug. 4 for reassignment and early retirement from the army.

AND SOME OTHER THINGS TO THINK OF

While you're with us let us overhaul you for good Spring and Summer going.

- We'll change your oils and greases,
- We'll adjust your brakes,
- We'll tune your engine,
- We'll scrub and clean you,
- We'll align your wheels.

We'll do everything that's needed.

DON'T DRIVE WITH YOUR FINGERS CROSSED

OURS is the greatest bathhouse a car or truck ever saw. First we give the "Old Faithful" treatment with hot steam under pressure, for salt crust, rust spots, and the barnacles of winter. Then to the exterior we apply the soap, water and polish technique that we call our Fountain of Youth. If a little rouge is needed, or some special massage, we have everything it takes.

★ ★ ★

Of course we have a pre-bath routine that people like. With summer coming on it's almost a necessity. This is what we do.

PLANNING 'THE STORY'—Louis A. Bromfield (left) discusses with H. B. Soulen, president of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, the format for "The Mansfield Story," the text of which Bromfield is writing. The Chamber yesterday announced a list of $155 in prizes to be offered for the best pictures submitted for inclusion in the book, which will tell the story of Mansfield —the ideal community, neither urban nor rural but a plaesant blend of the tow.

Ex-Mansfielder, 87, Ranks As 'Grand Lady of Convent'

Old-timers in Mansfield will be interested in the story of Sister Blanche, which appeared recently in The Columbus Citizen. Sister Blanche is the daughter of the late Mr and Mrs Joseph Allonas and was Helen Allonas before entering the sisterhood of the Catholic church

Sister Blanche, now 87, took her vows with the Sisters of St Francis of Mary Immaculate at Joliet, Ill., in 1878 Her parents resided on Prescott street Their big red brick home was one of the show places of the north end of town

Now she is known as the "grand lady of the convent," at Granville where on June 30 she observed her 70th anniversary with the sisterhood The story tells of Sister Blanche's prayer life at the convent, where she arises early each morning to pray in the chapel at Our Lady of Mercy school.

By the time the other nine sisters at the convent arise at 5 30 a m, Sister Blanche has been praying for almost an hour according to the story Sister Blanche went to her first mission as superior at the age of 23 and since that time has served in all of the order's 52 missions except the one at Johnstown, Pa.

GOLD MINING SLOWS

SYDNEY, Australia — (AP) — Gold production in Australia is still declining, although experts say a great fortune is waiting to be mined The ouput for April was 61,036 fine ounces valued at $2,099,520 In March it was 65,007 ounces and in April last year 66,856 Although still greater than during the war years, the production of gold is lower than pre-war figures In 1939, 1,645,697 fine ounces were produced, but last year the total output was down to 1,088,003 ounces.

Soviet Split Envisioned By Churchill

Allies Urged To Stand Firm

WOODFORD, Eng.—(AP)—Western allies were urged Saturday by Winston Churchill, Britain's wartime leader, to stand firm in the face of Soviet pressure in Berlin. He declared that to yield would be a step in the direction of war.

Churchill speculated that a political crisis may be developing inside Russia, particularly in the light of the cominform's denunciation of Marshall Tito of Yugoslavia.

"Their prime interest," he said of the Russian rulers, "is to preserve their personal power over the hundreds of millions of people of many different races whom they rule with a rod of iron.

"We cannot tell what internal stresses are at work in this grim oligarchy. It would seem to me that they must be very severe at the present time and that one part of the dictatorship is working separately or even contrary to, the other.

"How else can you explain the Soviet solemn denunication and excommunication of Yugoslavia from the ring of satellite states at the same moment when they were bringing the crisis in Berlin to its climax?"

KREMLIN IN CONTROL

"It must never be forgotten," Churchill said, "that with Russia we are dealing not with a great nation that can express its free will but with 13 men in the Kremlin who have made themselves the masters of the brave Russian people and who rule them with far more dictatorship than was ever shown by any Russian czar since the days of Ivan the Terrible.

"No one can tell what these 13 holocausts in the Kremlin will do. They do not reason as we do in the western world."

The Conservative party leader said the "safest course for us and other western democracies is to pursue as we are doing, a plain, fair and straightforward policy."

It must be based, he declared "on our undoubted rights and on those instances of humanity which forbid us either to leave the Germans of Berlin, who have courageously stood with us, to Soviet vengeance or to let them all be starved to death."

Churchill reiterated his support of Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's foreign policy. "Although it is not perhaps very skillful," he said, "it is at any rate based on sound lines."

Attacking the labor governments fiscal policies, Churchill expressed the hope that "better use" will be made of Marshall plan aid than of the American loan to Britain.

Questioning the government's right to accept United States help, he declared:

"When I see the present socialist government denouncing capitalism in all its forms, mocking with derision and contempt the tremendous free enterprise capitalist system on which the mighty production of the United States is founded, I cannot help feeling that as a nation we are not acting honorably or even honestly."

48 Register For 'Y' Camp

Forty-eight girls between the ages of 10 and 15 have registered for the 10 days of day camping which begins at the YWCA at 9 a. m. Monday.

Registration will remain open Monday morning. Those who register Monday will go to the health department immediately for their physical examinations. Those who have already registered have been examined.

On Monday the campers will choose a name for this year's camp. Camping will continue daily Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to noon until July 23.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—

Rev. Willard J Swank, pastor of the Main Street Evangelical U. B. church, will celebrate his birthday today by doing what he does every Sunday, preaching to his congregation.

Rev. Shawk

Rev. and Mrs. Shawk have just returned to the parsonage at 240 South Main street after attending a one-week church conference at Linwood Park.

Rev. Shawk came to Mansfield in 1944 from Akron where he had been pastor of the Boulevard Evangelical church for eight years. He has been a pastor for more than 20 years.

His hobbies are reading, studying physiology in which he has an M. A. degree from Ohio State, and fishing.

Also celebrating a birthday today, his 54th, is Louis A. Them, advertising solicitor for The News-Journal. Them, a native of Mansfield, has been in the advertising department since The News-Journal was formed through a merger of two papers.

He is a member of the Masonic order and the First English Lutheran church.

Them spends his spare time in the basement workshop of his home at 20 West Arch street. There he has a complete assortment of tools for his hobby of woodworking and machine shop work.

—by Swan Cleaners

The leading male role in the 'Stull Family Tree' is none other than Roger Eugene who very ably made his debut on June 25 on the stage of the Mansfield General Hospital His volume is strong and his voice is clear, tips the scales at 7 lbs 6 oz. Parents Mr. and Mrs. E. E Stull, 288 Reform Street are mighty happy.

A miniature heart throb all wrapped in pink, with dark eyes and hair, is the proud possession of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Fisher, 623 Maple street. This darling Diaper Deb is Marsha Kay Fisher who weighed 5 lbs 5½ oz. upon her arrival at Mansfield General Hospital on the 27th of June

There's a new masculine voice around the Austin Domain in the person of Grant Austin. Tickling the scales at a mere 4 lb 8oz he makes the entire family sit up at will Mansfield General first heard him on June 27th. Mr and Mrs. Franklin Austin, Hanna Road are the sitters

Oh Me, Oh My. Dear me suz, Grandad just can't explode enough adjectives fast enough over little Sherry Jean Norton who balanced the scales at Mansfield General Hospital on June 30 at exactly 5 lb. 10 oz. This precious miss will be home to her many friends at 107 Penn Ave. the home of her parents Mr and Mrs Earl Norton.

The Diaper Debs jumped for joy on June 25, at the sight of husky Maurice Charles Elder II of 58 Harman Ave Maurice made his noisy entrance at Mansfield General Hospital Nursery Department weighing in at 6 lbs. 1. oz. Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Elder now have met their master.

There's a sweet bundle of happiness at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aldo A. Simmons, 221 W. Fourth St. Her name is Cynthia Aidan Simmons This angelic little bundle arrived at Mansfield General on June 23 weighing 7 lbs. 4½ oz.

Among the ranks of this seasons most captivating young ladies is Susan Jo Betz, Daughter of Mr. and Mrs Edward J. Betz, 520 Harter Ave. This cradle charmer weighed in at Mansfield General Hospital on June 30 and made the scales sing to the tune of 6 lbs 4½ oz.

"Waaaaa," he says to any and all comers 'cause he's just big enough to be the bully of the Mr. and Mrs. Gordon E. Ford Household. Vetsville will hear more of him because Gordon Eugene II, Class of July 1, Mansfield General Hospital, expects to stick around awhile.

"The Stork Set" gave a special welcome to Mardell Louise Alexander when she arrived at Mansfield General Hospital. Mardell is the endearing daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L Alexander, 1160 Ashland Road, who claims she weighed 7 lbs 8 ozs when she made her first public appearance on the 30th of June

Simply tickled blue over their future football hero are Mr and Mrs. Eugene C. Rust of 13 Flint St. Alan Dennis, the apple of their eye bounced off the scales after weighing in at 7 lbs 8 oz at the Mansfield General Hospital on June 27th. He's being heard, don't you imagine.

The answer to every prayer is Nancy Jane Theaker, Angelic daughter of Mr and Mrs Richard Theaker, 164 S Adams St Her arrival was formally announced at the Mansfield General on June 23 when she weighed exactly 6 lbs 15 ozs

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Patterson, 386 Overlook Rd., filled a pink bassinette with a charming little "miss" of the name of Patricia Ann. Pat led the Stork parade weighing 6 lbs. 6½ ozs when she first announced herself at Shelby Memorial Hospital of June 28th.

Government Expected to Run In Red

Jump In Spending Figure Forecast

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Prospects are that President Truman will advise the country late this month that the government is going to run in the red this year after two years solidly in the black.

Informed officials said Saturday the government spending figure for the fiscal year which began July 1 will jump to about $42,000,000,000 when the present revision of January budget estimates is completed. The president's January estimate was $39,700,000,000.

Meanwhile, the $4,600,000,000 tax cut—which Mr. Truman is expected to blame chiefly for throwing the government in the red—should cut the revenue estimate down a little below $40,000,000,000. The January forecast was $44,500,000,000.

Actual government spending thus would exceed income by more than $2,000,000,000 between now and next June 30—a period including five months of the presidential term at which both Mr. Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican nominee, are aiming.

Technically, however, a bookkeeping switch ordered by Congress would convert that apparent deficit into not only a "balanced budget" but also a nearly $1,000,000,000 surplus of receipts over spending.

Congress directed that $3,000,000,000 to be spend on foreign aid this year be charged to the fiscal year that ended this June 30—before the money was spent—and not counted again this year when the money is paid out.

The congressional bookkeeping system pared the record surplus for last fiscal year to an apparent $5,419,000,000 from what Secretary of Treasury Snyder called a "true" surplus of $8,419,000,000.

By reverse action, it would "improve" the book showing for this year, knocking down the President's prospective $42,000,000,000 figure on actual outlay to $39,000,000,000 and turning a threatened deficit into a surplus.

Whatever the revised budget figures are that the President presents in the closing week of this month, they can be thrown out of kilter by developments during the course of the 12-month period they'll cover.

For example, the revised forecast President Truman made 12 months ago for the fiscal year just ended overestimated spending by $700,000,000 not taking into account the subsequent order of Congress to boost the figure $3,000,000,000 with a book entry.

He underestimated receipts far more—forecasting $3,000,000,000 less than the final figure, even though he did not anticipate the tax cut that alone kept the year-end receipts total from going even higher.

Girl Scouts Given Awards

Girl Scout troop 61 held its six-month court of awards Friday night at North Lake park. A covered-dish dinner and a talk on the story of the origin of Girl Scouting by Mrs. Howard Wenning featured the affair.

Second class awards were given to Betty Steele, Carolyn Marshall, Jeanette Cory, Barbara Colango, Mary Kay Simons, Jo Ann Brucato, Marilyn Burger and Leanne Lump.

Presentations were made by Mrs. Garland Harris, leader of the troop, and Mrs. William Marshall, assistant leader.

Children Pick Books on Pets, Sports

Richland county children served by the bookmobile prefer books about pets, baseball, and Indians, Mrs. Lois Pennell, county librarian, reports.

At the same time, their parents prefer as their summer reading fare, books regarding their vocations and avocations. They ask for books on rose culture, canning, farm shop practice, and history and early families of Richland county.

The bookmobile schedule for the week includes:

Tuesday—Bowman school, 10 a. m. to 12 noon; Pavonia, Pittenger's store, 3 to 4:30 p. m., Lexington band stand, 7 to 8:30 p. m.

Wednesday—Maple Lake park, 10 to 10:45 a. m., Plymouth branch library, 2 to 4:30 p. m.

Thursday — Olivesburg, general store, 7 to 8:30 p. m.

Friday—Lucas post office, 7 to 8:30 p. m.

Corn Price Level Drops

CHICAGO — (AP) — The grain market took a government forecast for an unprecedented wheat, corn and oats crop without too much excitement Saturday.

Corn had some shaky moments and mostly finished lower, but oats were down only slightly and wheat ended with a steady undertone.

With a record-breaking corn crop predicted, the near-by deliveries of this grain met the biggest selling.

July corn sank to the lowest level since early March while September corn sank to a new low since the mid-February price break. Losses were reduced before the close.

Wheat closed ¼c lower to ⅝c higher, July $2.29⅜, corn was 3⅝c lower to ⅜c higher, July $1.99-1.99¼, oats were unchanged to ⅝c lower, July 88⅝-½c, and soybeans were 3c to 3½c lower, July $4.00. All grains contracts were under last year's prices at this time.

Richman to Close For Week Vacation

In keeping with a long-established custom, Richman Brothers' store for men at 37 West Third street will be closed from Monday, July 19, until Monday, July 26, in order to give employes their usual summer vacation.

Richman Brothers give their store as well as their factory employes two vacations a year with pay. The winter vacation usually comes during the week between Christmas and New Year.

Crash Toll Reaches 4

BUCYRUS — The death toll of Friday night's two-car smash-up on the outskirts of Bucyrus climbed to four late yesterday afternoon when Archie Cooper, 28, died in City hospital.

His death left no survivors to the head-on collision on State Route 98, one and a half miles east of town.

Others who died in the fatal accident were: John Savage, 25, and Orville Hoover, 28, both of Bucyrus and Laverne Steigerwalt, 26, of New Washington. All were occupants of one car and were killed outright.

Cooper, a resident of Bucyrus, was alone in the other vehicle. He was taken to city hospital with two broken arms, a fractured hip and head and chest injuries.

Besides his wife, Mary Caporini, Cooper leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper, of Crestline; two sons, Patrick and Barry, three brother and sisters. Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at Holy Trinity church. Burial will be in the Catholic cemetery.

Surviving Hoover are his wife, Wilma James; two sons, Ronald and Wayne; and his mother, Mrs. Hazel Shirkey of Bucyrus. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Wise funeral home. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

Surviving Steigerwalt are his wife, Charlotte Shepp; one daughter, Barbara Ann and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Steigerwalt of Bucyrus. Funeral services will be held Monday at 1:30 p. m. at the Munz funeral home. Burial will be in the Brokensword cemetery.

Services for Savage are incomplete.

Jane Cowl Injured

LA JOLLA, Calif. —(AP)— Actress Jane Cowl of New York was injured Saturday when the door of a moving station wagon swung open and she was thrown to the pavement. She suffered possible concussion and severe knee lacerations.

Civil Rights Plan Backed By O'Dwyer

NEW YORK —(AP)—Mayor William O'Dwyer told President Truman and Democratic leaders Saturday that the president's civil rights program "must be backed to the hilt."

O'Dwyer also said in a telegram that the Taft-Hartley law "must be repealed." He called for a "courageous stand" on taxes, price control and housing, and asked for finanical aid to the new state of Israel.

The mayor's telegram was addressed specifically to Mr. Truman, Sen. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, Democratic national chairman, Sen. Francis P. Myers of Pennsylvania and Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois.

O'Dwyer called for "an effective, sustained and extended Marshall plan without strings for all areas that need it," and a "determined effort to establish a strong United Nations."

The mayor Friday announced his support of President Truman for the Democratic nomination. Until then, he was a leader of coalition forces seeking a candidate other than Mr. Truman.

In his telegram, O'Dwyer added:

"Unless we wish to hand the future of the world over to reactionaries of both right and left we must unite behind a hard-hitting, sincere, dynamic and progressive program for the Democratic party."

As part of the program he outlined for the party, O'Dwyer said "we must give generous financial aid to Israel."

"We must modify the arms embargo to permit this beleaguered nation to defend itself against aggression," he added.

On domestic policy, he said Mr. Truman's civil rights program "must be backed to the hilt. We can no longer compromise with bigotry, discrimination and inequality."

He said "the monstrous Republican-inspired Taft-Hartley bill must be repealed. Return must be made to the constructive policy of the Wagner act."

O'Dwyer assailed "the Republican help-the-rich tax program" and called for price control.

At least 3,000 patrons and friends of the 'and Trust company visited the various bank departments yesterday between 9:30 a. m. and 9 p. m. to wish bank officials and employes "good luck" and continued success.

It was the bank's fiftieth anniversary and "open house" was held in commemoration of the event.

Long before noon the bank began to take on the appearance of a gay and lush garden, as baskets and bouquets of flowers began arriving from friends in Mansfield and bankers from all over the state. These were placed against a background of gold leaf decorations and potted plants. By 3 p. m. the count was 33 basket and bouquets of roses, carnations and gladioli.

In three hours yesterday morning, 1,800 red roses were given out to women visitors and it was estimated that by the end of the day the number had passed 2,000.

Bank officers and board members, headed by Charles H Hughes, president, greeted visitors as they came in the door. They were shown through the bank departments by employes and served punch as they completed the tour of inspection. Wives of officials and employes took turns serving as hostesses.

Among out-of-town guests were 23 bankers from all over the state. They came from as far south as Cincinnati and as far north as Cleveland.

Clarification Asked on Claim

The Farmers Savings and Trust company has filed a petition in common pleas court seeking to compel the Society for Savings in the City of Cleveland to set up its claims in a Mansfield property.

The plaintiff says it has an execution on a judgment for $2,708, against a property on Sherman avenue belonging to Allen LeRoy and Hazel Bowman, who also are defendants in the case. But, the plaintiff says, the property could not be sold because the Cleveland bank claims to have some lien in the property.

The action also asks that the property be ordered sold and the proceeds distributed according to priorities. Attorneys Weldon, Huston and Keyser represent the plaintiff.

Teachers Choose New President

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo. — (AP) — John M. Eklund, Denver public school teacher, defeated Joseph F. Landis of Cleveland, O., 478 to 369, Saturday in the presidential election of the American Federation of Teachers (AFL).

Landis had sought re-election for a sixth one-year term. The "progressive caucus," which had backed Eklund, also elected its entire slate of 15 national vice presidents.

Tears Greet Landis Rites

GLENDALE, Calif. —(AP)— The beautiful body of Carole Landis was committed to a grave in Forest Lawn cemetery Saturday as scores of filmdom's great and would-be great watched through tear-dimmed eyes.

The flower-banked Church of the Recessional, atop a grassy hill, was filled to its capacity of 300 and thousands of fans and the curious stood solemnly outside while a brief, simple funeral oration was delivered.

It was there in the same cemetery that lie the remains of many another Hollywood celebrity, including Jean Harlow, Carole Lombard, John Gilbert, Tom Mix, Wallace Reid, Ben Turpin, Joe Penner and Irving Thalberg.

Bishop Fred L. Pyman of the Evangelical Orthodox Church at Santa Monica officiated at the services for the 29-year-old blonde Miss Landis, who ended her life with a sleeping potion last Monday.

Author Dies at 92

NASSAU, Bahamas - (AP)— Dr. Charles Sumner Dolley, 92, author of many scientific books and founder of the first biochemical laboratory in the United States, died Saturday. A native of Ohio, he was graduated from Johns Hopkins university and studied at Heidelburg. He established the first biochemical laboratory at Swarthmore college.

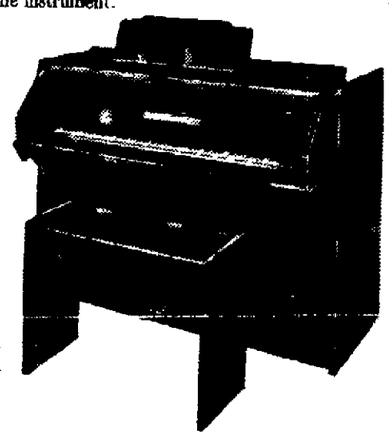
Cathedral Music
A COMPACT, MODERN AND INEXPENSIVE INSTRUMENT
Minshall-Estey Organ

Lauded by musicians and clergy for its beautiful true organ tones, its thrilling sonority which surprises listeners because of its size, the Minshall-Estey is being installed in churches and homes as fast as the skill of its makers can produce this fine instrument.



It is the answer to the need for a REAL organ, which by utilizing the science of electronics can produce the essential tones of the older pipe organs which require so much space, and expense to install.
Simple to install, the Minshall-Estey takes no more room than the average piano, is surprisingly inexpensive, and thrilling to hear.

Hear and enjoy this new organ in our showrooms.

Europeans Face Even More Work Despite Marshall Plan

Production Must Attain '52 Deadline

Quotas Near 1938 Peak, Still Short

By SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Europeans think they will have to live even more poorly and work even harder to meet the main hope of the Marshall plan—to be able to pay their day-to-day bills without help by the end of the plan in 1952.

This comes from the Economic Commission for Europe, part of the United Nations machinery. It has just met in Geneva.

The commission's report draws a picture of a European treadmill on which the workers are running faster but falling farther behind all the time. Yet European industry is working so hard that it has already passed its prewar 1938 production rates.

Europe almost has to meet its daily bills by 1952. There is little hope that the United States, or the rest of the world, will keep on subsidizing Europe indefinitely.

Congress recognized the fact that the pull would be hard when it wrote the Marshall plan act. The act says it hopes Europe can get along by 1952 without "extraordinary aid" from the outside. That is, it foresees some help may still be needed.

Government experts add that if Europe does still need help by 1953 they hope it will have recovered enough so that it can swing loans instead of taking more gifts.

The irony for Europe is that it is doing a much better job of recovery now than it did after World War I. That's despite the fact that the second war lasted longer and caused more destruction.

Factory workers have done the best job. Factories had passed their 1938 production quotas by last December, if you leave out Germany, which was producing only one third of 1938.

AGRICULTURE WEAK

The heavy industries recovered faster than those that turn out consumers' goods, which is all to the good, because Europe had to rebuild factories, railroads, docks before it could enjoy new radios, dresses, table linens.

Steel was up to 104 3 per cent of 1938 by last autumn. Textiles were still ten per cent behind.

To compare the two postwar periods, the ECE report says it took Europe six years to get back to prewar production in the '20s. This time it took only a year and a half.

Farms have been slower. Crops were only up to 74 per cent of prewar in the 1946-47 season. And Europe's population has grown, so the smaller crops have to go to 9,000,000 more people, boosting still more the need for food imports. Italy, which has had some of the biggest chunks of American help, now has 2,700,000 more people, the largest jump in population in Europe.

The figures prove that Europe has consciously gone hungry in order to make the best use of its money. The ECE report shows that, although food crops were low, Europe was buying 10 per cent less food from overseas in 1947 than it did before the war. But at the same time it was buying 20 per cent more raw materials and manufactures — the things it needs to get back to work.

In 1947 Europe sold 64 per cent of what it sold in 1938 and bought about 79 per cent.

The important hole in Europe's pocket lies in the loss of the "invisible" income it had before the war—dividends on investments and profit from such services as insurance.

Britain in particular had to cash in a lot of such wealth to pay for the war and for the years since. And Britain has suffered the greatest self-denial since the war of any European nation. It is the only one for which the export index is higher now than imports.

Since 1938 Europe has lost $2,700,000,000 in "invisible" income which used to help pay its bills for food and raw materials. Presumably the gap will have to be filled by turning out that much more goods to sell.

It's 'Fascinating Work'

After 27 Years, Cashier Still Likes Job

MISS ACKERMAN . . . At Cashier's Desk.

Sitting at a desk eight hours a day adding up columns of figures may not be your idea of an interesting job, but to Miss Elsie Ackerman of 310 Lexington avenue, it's "fascinating work."

Miss Ackerman, chief cashier at the F. W. Woolworth store, 31 North Park street, isn't speaking as a novice. She has been on the job for 27 years.

She was honored last week by fellow-employes at a dinner for workers with 25 or more years of service with the company. As it turned out, the dinner was in her honor — because she's the only employe of the firm in Mansfield with more than 25 years of service.

Miss Ackerman, a pleasant-featured woman whose years of service belie her appearance, started what became her life career in 1921 in Marion, her home town.

Since then, she has always worked in the office — "behind the scenes rather than behind counters," she commented — and she says she wouldn't want to change jobs.

"Things have changed a lot since I started," Miss Ackerman said. "Back in the old days, we did all our addition and multiplication by hand."

WORK MORE COMPLEX

"Now," she said as she pointed to an adding machine and calculator, "most everything's done by machines and that part of the work, at least, is easier.

"But of course," she added, "office work is more complex today. We do more work in the office and do not send in so many reports to the central offices."

Dime stores have changed in other ways, too. Higher prices have brought a demand for "cleaner merchandise," Miss Ackerman said, and more careful accounting.

"We have adding machines now instead of toting up the figures ourselves, but we certainly have a lot more adding to do, too," she said.

"But I'm not complaining. I like bookwork much better than sales and, I'm glad I've never had to work behind the counters, except for a few weeks in Columbus several years ago. I guess I just naturally was drawn to bookkeeping."

Her work keeps Miss Ackerman well occupied. Outside of her job, she's interested in music and "I like to watch the Cleveland Indians."

She is very proud of the wrist watch and scroll which were presented to her at the ceremony last week. She believes she has "a fine job."

"And there's loads of satisfaction in having a job one likes and doing it the best one knows how," she said.

Girl Acrobat Survives Fall

CLIFFSIDE PARK, N. J.—(AP) A girl acrobat who had promised her mother to quit the act next Saturday fell 110 feet from a broken trapeze in Palisades amusement park Friday while 15,000 persons watched in unbelieving horror.

Although she suffered a broken right ankle, a fractured left leg and a fractured pelvis, the girl, Miss Valentine Davie, 21, of New York City, said smiling from her Englewood hospital bed:

"I guess I was lucky wasn't I? But I'll never go up again—never."

Wall Street Financier Collects Art

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK — (AP) — "Living with a Van Gogh painting makes a better man of me," says Sam A. Lewisohn, whose houseful of modern art makes an art lover's eyes pop out of his head.

He lives with one of the best Van Goghs, and probably the most famous, "L'Arlesienne," which is reproduced on the jacket of the new and enlarged edition of his "Painters and Personality: A Collector's View of Modern Art" (Harper), first published a decade ago.

He also lives with paintings by Renoir, Cezanne, Gauguin, Rouault, Daumier, Rousseau (The Douanier), Matisse, Braque, Bonnard, Dufy, Manet, Monet, Picasso and numerous Americans, among them Ryder, Sterne, Marin, Prendergast Davies, Kuniyoshi, Blume, Levine, MacIver, and many others, with about 40 of the works he owns reproduced among the 140 pictures in the book.

"I see something new in them all the time," he says. "Then when one of them goes out on loan to a museum, it's interesting to rearrange the others. But I have to guard against letting them take too much of my time. I still have to do a day's work."

For Lewisohn, who has his office in Wall street, a day's work comes in connection with his position as a member of the firm of Lewisohn and company, as president of Miami Copper, General Development, Kerr Lake Mining, South American Gold & Platinum; or as director, trustee or officer of several museums, charitable foundations, American Prison association; or in writing books, of which the last was "Human Leadership In Industry" (1945); or preparing speeches such as the recent one for the opening of the Philharmonic's summer concerts at Lewisohn stadoum.

The Lewisohn collection was founded by Sam A.'s father, but it was Sam A. who, at 22, some 40 years ago, began to make the selections. At the start the purchases were as "bourgeois" as the next man's. He says: They consisted largely of works of the Barbizon school. He concedes other choices were mistakes. Now he is much surer of what he wants, and what to avoid. He explains, for instance, rapping the table for emphasis:

"I will not be fashionable!"

Picasso, he thinks, is too fashionable; so are the nonobjective painters and the abstractionists, though he owns one Stuart Davis. He wants more than technique in his art.

In his book he says that the charm of different artists "is the result of the uniqueness of their personality and their ability to express their individuality in paint." There are "Vignettes" of more than 20 artists, and shorter descriptions of about 40 others.

California Shop 'Lend-Leases' Fine Hats

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.—(AP)—You can't buy a hat at Renee Boetschi's hat shop.

Renee carries nothing but the finest chapeaux from the finest American and French designers, but her hats are not for sale—they are for rent.

This lend-lease hat shop was established for women who believe that variety in their hat wardrobe will do a lot for their morale, at a reasonable price. Because it's variety that counts, Miss Boetschi plans to have new hats flown in regularly from Paris and New York in addition to those she buys in California.

It was the combination of high prices and the added stimulus of "something different" that prompted Miss Boetschi to open her unique hat service.

"Many women," she says, "want to look chic, but cannot afford special hats for special occasions or costumes. By renting their hats they can have three for the price one would cost."

You can rent a hat for an evening, a week-end or for a trip; even a group of hats for an entire wedding party. Each hat is disinfected by a new light ray method before being sent out again.

Prospective renters must leave a deposit and sign a contract agreeing to return the hat or hats within a specified time. Charges are based on the number of hats and the length of time they are kept. Domestic hats rent for $5 for 24 hours; it's $7.50 for an imported model. Over a longer period the daily fee is somewhat less.

To eliminate the embarrassing possibility of a client recognizing a hat she has worn the week before, Renee keeps a detailed file on each customer. There ar no duplicat hats in the collection. Many of her customers are Hollywood actresses, and other fashion conscious women in Los Angeles, Hollywood and Beverly Hills say they've found the shop a practical solution to their hat problems.

Born and educated in Brussels, Renee studied to be an interior decorator. Her last job before leaving Belgium for the United States was assisting in the decorating of a miniature Swiss castle on the estate of King Leopold as his Christmas gift to his children.

Her arrival in this country and the outbreak of the war occurred almost simultaneously, so she settled down to interior decorating—until she hit upon another way to make a living, renting hats.

Walter White Says—

Day of Reckoning Nears For Dems at Philadelphia

Beneath the surface of the slam bang Democratic convention in Philadelphia will lie the most acute moral decision of our time. A fantastic melange of forces will be working overtime to sidetrack Truman and nominate Eisenhower, Douglas or almost anybody in place of the present occupant of the White House. The anti-Truman crowd is made up of the most ill-assorted and conflicting elements in American political history.

WHITE

There are Jews, understandably enough passionately concerned with the denial of human rights to their co-religionists in Palestine, who are bracketed in uncomfortable alliance with Dixie demogagogues determined to crucify Truman for his advocacy of action instead of talk against racial and religious bigotry.

The former are bitter against Truman for what they correctly claim has been a vacillating policy on Israel—concentrating their anger on the president and almost ignoring the culpability of the oil interests, Great Britain, and of the career boys in the state department who continue to shape our foreign policy no matter who occupies the White House.

The professional southerners are determined to get Truman not only to stop his civil rights program but also to make him an example which will deter any future occupant of the White House, irrespective of party, from taking any decisive action against violation of civil rights, upon which the political fortunes of the sub-Potomac officeholders depend.

Even more startling is the proposed alliance between northern liberals like James Roosevelt, Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York, Chester Bowles, Mayor Hubert Humphrey of Minneapolis and Chicago's political boss, Jake Arvey, on the one hand, with Governors Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, Ben Laney of Arkansas, William Tuck of Virginia and Beauford Jester of Texas.

The former group cannot possibly be ignorant of the fact that the most grievous blows to human liberty during the past decade have been dealt by the coalition of reactionary southern Democrats and ultra-conservative Republicans in the Congress. It is conceivable that Messrs. Roosevelt, O'Dwyer, Bowles, Humphrey and Arvey have exacted from Messrs. Thurmond, Laney, Hill, Tuck, and Jester a promise to go at least as far as the equivocal planks on lynching, the poll tax, fair employment practice and segregation in the Republican platform, or the more forthright recommendations of the president's committee on civil rights which was headed by Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric.

Conceivable, in the light of the blistering diatribes Thurmond and the other southerners have continually leveled against the civil rights program these past few months, is quite a word. It takes the imagination of a Jules Verne to envisage any such commitments being made by the southern signers of the telegram for a pre-convention caucus.

If no such pledges have been exacted by Messrs. Roosevelt, O'Dwyer, Bowles, Humphrey, Arvey et al, there is no other conclusion which less fevered Americans can reach than that the northerners are willing at the very least to jeopardize or to scuttle if necessary the fight for civil liberty to achieve the displacement of Truman as the Democratic nominee. The President is accused of making mistakes which no reasonable person would deny. But the card core of the most virulent opposition to him is based upon the fact that Truman did take the most decisive action any president in the history of the United States has taken on the basic issue of the Bill of Rights protecting to the hilt every American citizen.

Not even Truman would claim that the present occupant of the White House is the wisest or the one possessed of the most dramatic radic and platform personality who ever lived at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue. But the pathetic dilemma of the liberals is mirrored with tragic clarity in the spectacle of their being bracketed with the southern rebels, the real estate and power lobbies, the infuriated advocates of Palestinian partition and the gloating conservatives of the extreme right wing of the GOP whose nostrils are filled with the sweet scent of a victory which is being tossed into their laps.

The Democratic party can demonstrate its right to exist only by discarding fear and opportunism at Philadelphia and adopting an unequivocal position on civil rights such as the President's committee recommended. If it does not have the courage to cleanse itself of the barnacles of bigotry its southern wing has affixed to it, it has no right to continue to exist. The day of reckoning has come.

Moths lay their eggs among the threads of clothing, in the pile of furniture upholstering, in rugs, and in tiny cracks and crevices.

Shirley Temple Sits Down Hard

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— Shirley Temple, a trouper, doesn't often cry for help. But the script called for her descent, at full speed, a steep flight of stairs while she was wearing a 1913 model hobble skirt. And Shirley called for quarter after she tumbled and sat down hard.

Padding, for herself and the stairs, was ordered in reshooting the scene, a sequence in "Baltimore Escapade." With two more tumbles she finally made the descent successfully.

CONVICTED SECOND TIME

CLEVELAND—(AP)—John Harvey Haley, 17, given a new trial by order of the U. S. Supreme court, was back in Ohio penitentiary today. He was again convicted of first degree murder in the 1945 robbery killing of confectioner William Karam.

Reds Rejecting Yugoslav Bid

LONDON— (AP) — Communist parties throughout Europe began following Russia's lead today in turning down an invitation to the fifth Yugoslav Communist congress in Belgrade July 21.

Rejections were reported today by communist headquarters in Rome, Budapest and Prague. Russia gave her refusal Wednesday.

Meanwhile in Moscow Tass, the Soviet news agency, said a Soviet army delegation has arrived in Albania and has been welcomed by "thousands of inhabitants."

British Conduct Quiet Purge of Communists

KING LEOPOLD . . . With Son, Prince Baudoin

'Break' Expected Soon

People of Belgium Face Delicate Issue

By ANTHONY TYS

BRUSSELS—(AP)—Important developments in the Belgian "royal question" are expected soon.

Prime Minister Paul-Henri Spaak doggedly is pursuing confidential talks with King Leopold, virtually exiled in Switzerland, in an attempt to settle the issue

Former Minister J Albert de Vleeschauwer, chairman of the parliamentary group of the Christian Social party (rightist Catholic), Leopold's strongest supporters, recently said developments must be expected very soon

De Vleeschauwer said Prince Baudouin, heir-apparent to the throne, will take his seat in the Belgian Senate early in September when he becomes 18 The Belgian constitution provides royal princes are entitled to sit as senators when they are 18. It is also customary at this age for them to enter the Royal Military school in Brussels to begin their training as future army officers

To do this, Prince Baudouin would have to leave his father's residence at Le Reposir—which appropriately enough means a resting place or wayside shelter—in Pregny, near Geneva, Switzerland.

King Leopold of the Belgians (constitutionally he is sovereign not of the country, but of the people, and by their will) is in a curious legal position He is not deposed, he just does not reign at the moment. He is not in exile, theoretically there is no law to prevent him, as a private person, from coming home to Brussels

The regent of the kingdom is Prince Charles, the late King Albert's second son, born in Brussels in October 1903 and thus two years younger than Leopold The regency was proclaimed while Leopold was a prisoner of the Germans during World War II.

Not a voice was raised in protest when Prince Charles was proclaimed regent by parliament Sept. 20, 1944, or when he took the constitutional oath next day. But when the Allied forces penetrated into Austria and liberated King Leopold, a deep cleavage was revealed in Belgian opinion on the subject of the king's return.

DEEP CLEAVAGE

This cleavage is both political and territorial The socialists with the communists and a majority of the liberal party, are against Leopold's return to the throne. The Christian Social party, formerly called the Catholic party and representing the right wing in parliament, wants him back

Geographically, there appear to be more supporters of King Leopold in the Flemish region of Belgium than in the Walloon (or French speaking) part of the country

While there have been accusations against King Leopold that he has shown himself a "reactionary" and a "pro-German," Prime Minister Spaak's statement that the conflict is based on political grounds entirely and that the king's honor is not and never has been tarnished, has done much to clear the air

During the "18 days campaign," between May 10, 1940, when Belgium was invaded, and May 28, when the Belgian army capitulated, there were misunderstandings between the king and his ministers, apparently due in part to misinformation on both sides and a reluctance on the part of the military, including the king, to communicate strategic plans to the politicians.

Apart from the king's conduct of the war, another matter of private nature has had a far-reaching psychological effect. This was his morganatic marriage to Miss Lilian Mary Baels, daughter of a Belgian industrialist Leopold gave his bride, who was born in 1917, the title of Princess de Rethy.

'Unfit' Aides Transferred Or Removed

Brunette Threatens To Enliven Inquiry

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON —(AP)— Great Britain's purge of communists from government posts is starting more quietly than a similar cleansing in the United States, but a brunette named Ann has enlivened the proceedings.

She is 30-year-old Ann George, private secretary to the minister of education, George Tomlinson. Small, keen, an ardent trade unionist, she was the first civil servant to be suspended after a declaration by Prime Minister Attlee that only persons of utmost reliability may be employed in any work involving security of the state.

The prime minister, in a statement to the House of Commons, said membership in the communist party or a reputation for being a fellow traveler are grounds to raise a presumption that a civil servant is unfit for certain posts.

In a careful approach to a ticklish issue, Attlee outlined a plan to investigate suspicions quietly, dismiss persons inconspicuously, or transfer them to other jobs with the least possible stir

The British, on the whole less alarmed about communism than Americans, resolved to clean out the public service without any roaring scandals The whole enterprise, which also applies to facists, was taken out of the field of parliamentary inquiry and the courts

First the prime minister set up an advisory commission and named to it three former civil servants, all men of high repute and broad understanding

SUSPECTS GET LEAVE

Ministers who hear about communists or fascists or persons closely associated with communist or fascist enterprises serving in key positions must place such persons on leave, with pay, and certify the cases to the commission.

The treasury, which has charge of the purge machinery, said "about 25" persons now are on leave with pay awaiting action by the ministers or the commission Miss George was the very first to go and she reacted with such vigor that well-planned intentions to carry on the purge quietly may be upset.

An impressive speaker with wide support in trade unions, Miss George was quick to defend herself in public. Asked directly whether she is a communist, she replied: "No employer has a right to ask such a question."

Siam Police Greet Party With Bullets

BANGKOK —(AP)— Latest reports from a "tiger gang" party in North Siam sound more and more like Hollywood script writer on a binge.

That was the party at which Siamese police wined and dined with 1,000 guests, then started shooting it out with the hosts—chieftains of the notorious "tiger gang" of bandits

One host was killed on the spot. But his brother took to an elephant's back and crashed off into the jungle via pachyderm.

Altogether the booze and bullets binge—held to warm two fancy new houses the "tigers" had built—cost 15 lives, 10 gangsters and five villagers, including two children Four police were seriously wounded.

Methodists Pick Bishops

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Dr Hazen G Werner of Madison, N J, the new bishop of the Ohio area of the Methodist church was pastor of the Grace Methodist church in Dayton from 1934 to 1945

The new bishop, one of four named at the church conference in Indianapolis, was active in work with juvenile delinquents while in Dayton. He led a long fight for more recreational centers. He was a leader in Masonic circles as well as in the field of religion.

As bishop, he will maintain his residence in Columbus

Fifty-year-old Bishop Werner is a native of Detroit and a graduate of Albion (Mich) college Before going to the Dayton church he served at Westlawn and Cass avenue churches in Detroit and Court street church in Flint Mich

He is married and the father of two children

For the past three years Dr Werner has served as professor of theology at Drew Theological seminary, Madison, N. J.

Consecration exercises for the new bishops will be held Sunday in Indianapolis with Bishop G Bromley Oxnam of New York officiating

'I Remember When . . .'

'Underground Railroad' Freed Slaves

"Uncle" John Finney, colored Springfield township pioneer, who "prayed" slaves to freedom, is well remembered by Mrs Laura Reinhart, 1430 Springmill road.

"Everyone in Springfield township knew 'Uncle John' and his underground railroad operations when I was a child," Mrs. Reinhart began.

"I remember hearing them tell how a group of slaves came to Finney's farm one night. 'Uncle John' hid them in the barn for the night. But soldiers were following the slaves and appeared at the farm early in the morning

"Finney invited the soldiers in for breakfast, and being a very religious man, proceeded to ask Grace His prayer lasted for half an hour and while he prayed the slaves escaped safely to freedom."

The old Finney homestead, now a part of the W W Doolittle dairy farm, still stands on the Lexington-Plymouth road, some 10 miles southwest of Mansfield 'Uncle John,' who Mrs Reinhart remembers as a huge man of more than 300 pounds, holds a prominent place in A J. Baughman's History of Richland County

Still more on the religious nature of the man who believed that no one should be sold as slaves, was recorded by Mrs Reinhart's late husband, V E Reinhart

A letter to the Cleveland Plain Dealer for use in "Know Your Ohio" series, as written by Reinhart, read

RECITES ANECDOTE

"Mr Finney, or 'Uncle John,' as we knew him had a niece by the name of Miss Ella Watts, who lived with him In the spring Miss Watts gave a party to the young folks in the neighborhood (Reinhart attended the party) Knowing 'Uncle John's' aptitude for prayer where two or three gathered together, Miss Watts told her guests apologetically that 'Uncle John had family worship at 8 p m and retired at 8 30 p m and not to come 'till 9 p m

"Well, the guests arrived at the appointed time and were having a good time as a prelude to the games they expected to have later on when, behind who should enter but 'Uncle John' with his 300 and some pounds weight!

"'Well, well, my young friends,' said 'Uncle John,' 'I heard your young voices and laughter and I've always loved young people so I couldn't withstand the temptation to come and talk to you a while. You know, I haven't many days to live and I may not have a chance to see you all together again and we know not what a day may bring forth And now, while we are all together I think we better kneel and have a word of prayer'."

"And was the prayer long and fervent and loud!

"Well, after a few words of counsel and admonition he bade the young folks good night and retired Then Miss Watts came in for a kidding in attempting to outgeneral 'Uncle John '

Cantinflas Talks With His Elbows

By CARLOS R. ESCUDERO

NEW YORK — (AP) — This fellow Cantinflas is "a blabbermouth trying to stay afloat in a flood of words—his own words."

That's Mario Moreno's description of himself. Moreno is Cantinflas, Latin America's favorite comedian. On his way home to Mexico from Europe he paused to look carefully at New York and Broadway and to talk about Cantinflas.

The Mexican comedian has ways that are very much his own. Cantinflas burbling full speed ahead sounds like the tea party in "Alice In Wonderland," all by himself.

In a few months Cantinflas will go to work in Hollywood, but he does not make any more sense in English than he does in Spanish. He talks with his elbows, he pleads with his face. His language is in gestures rather than in words. The words are a sort of juggler's act with sound. His sharp, sly thursts come in fitful starts, half sentences and wordy bursts.

Some critics say he is a master of pantomime in a class with Charles Chaplin. He is popular from California to New York by way of Texas, from Mexico to Argentina and in Spain. The Brazilians know him too.

Cantinflas is a great spoiler of stuffed shirts and a politician's gadfly. He is part of the Mexican tradition of clever lampooning in caricature and political skits.

Cantinflas is now 34. He spent three years in the theater and has been in pictures for 10 Seven years ago he became actor-producer He is slight, of medium height His eyes are expressive, his large mouth curves upward. His ears are large, set high.

He can be impertinent and deceptively meek. The character he represents is the Mexico City "Pelado," a man-in-the-gutter type, roughly equivalent to an adult dead-end kid in New York.

His costume is a pair of dirty trousers always on the point of disaster, a collarless shirt of cheap muslin

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Looking Toward a Larger Mansfield

NEED FOR adapting Mansfield's municipal program of progress to the reasonable requirements of a considerably larger city is seen in recent and current steps toward expanding various services to reach a steadily increasing population and extension of corporation bounds.

Announcement by Acting Postmaster Curtis L. Ford of route and service changes in mail delivery, soon to become effective, recognizes a need in this particular field, and a comparison of present post office business with that of the time when the federal building now in use was completed in 1914, strongly urges quick action on the long-deferred addition for which ground has been purchased to the east of present post office.

Progress of action toward annexing the village of South Boulevards, adjoining Mansfield, on Lexington avenue, provides another example of need for broadening the vision of what will be required in the not distant future, as it seems not unlikely that territorial expansion in other directions will soon be up for consideration.

Bus transportation, under provisions of a recently granted franchise, may be expected to expand routes in accordance with increasing needs, and it is anticipated, when shortages have been overcome, telephone service will be available to all who desire it—which also applies to electric current. While the supply of natural gas in this area is at least temporarily insufficient to meet all winter requirements it is hoped that this condition will improve as distribution facilities are made more adequate.

Responsibilities devolving directly on Mansfield, as a municipality, include assurance of a sufficient water supply, sewage system modernization and expansion, fire and police protection, street improvements, regulation of traffic in keeping with needs of a larger city, and, in a general way, doing the things which will contribute to the further advancement of Mansfield and to maintenance of high standing among Ohio cities.

Whether or not such a program of progress can be successfully carried through without some changes in methods of operation of city government, with possible requirement for greater managerial ability than is sometimes evidenced under the present plan, is a suitable and timely subject for discussion—and possible action.

Quakers Plan 'Good Will' Offering

THE American Friends Service committee plans to send a gift of $25,000 worth of the drug streptomycin to the people of Russia "as a testimony of good will." The gift will go to the Russian Red Cross and Red Crescent for distribution.

The Friends probably will not wonder about it, but other observers may speculate whether the givers will receive any credit in Russia. It is recalled that recently Russia sent a relatively small quantity of food into its zone of Germany, the first such shipment, heralding it with an extensive propaganda campaign. The propaganda must have been received bitterly by those who knew that Russia previously had removed large stores of food from Germany and also had fed its troops there on German food.

Correspondents in Germany contrasted this blast of propaganda with the lack of mention in the Russian-controlled press of the large amounts of food and other needed goods sent into all of Germany, including the Russian zone, by American individuals and relief agencies. There is little enough mention in the other zones of Germany of these gifts and of the food sent by the governments of the United States and Great Britain.

Be that as it may, the American Quakers doubtless will consider their gift as a good deed done, with or without credit. In the case of the streptomycin, although Russians at large may never know the source of a drug which helps to heal their bodies, it is of some comfort to reason that the drug must be used by trained physicians, most of whom probably will learn whence it came.

Nursing Profession Needs Recruits

POST-WAR normalcy has been attained in many feminine careers, but not in nursing. Shortage in this field still plagues hospitals, worries all in the field of health. Three hazards continue to undermine nursing: Low pay, lack of professional prestige, and Dan Cupid.

Medical reports indicate that the national average pay of general duty nurses is $170 to $175 monthly. Girls with far less training can earn more than this in some other kinds of work.

Many civilian hospitals could well copy the practice in Army and Navy of ranking nurses as commissioned officers. Instead there are many instances where they are still regarded without dignity, and as "semi-educated domestics or automatic instrument dispensers." Part of the difficulty in hospitals arises from the high operating costs of these institutions, coupled with increased patronage and lack of other help.

Of the 90,000 nurses-in-training in an average year, 30 per cent drop out before diploma time, mostly for marriage. Many of the graduates also are lost to the profession through marriage. It seems that a nurse is a good candidate for matrimony.

Nursing care is essential for national health. How to fill the ranks of trained nurses and keep them filled becomes a serious question.

Should Women Be Ministers?

AT THE RECENT Lambeth conference of Anglican churchmen in London an appeal was made for the ordination of women to the ministry. In the memorial proposing that men and women be merged into a common priesthood the board said that women have a distinctive contribution to make to the church.

Women now hold responsible positions in politics, industry, schools and professions. It is logical that the church should follow. Some churches already offer ordination for women, but there are few women ministers.

Y is one of the most important letters in the alphabet—it's all that stands between "yours" and "ours."

Lack of Palestine Policy Troublesome

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

WHEN the whole history of modern Palestine is written, it will be one of the most sordid and contemptible stories in the record of the human race. In it many forces have played roles, most of them ignoble. These forces range from the British government, whether Labor or Tory, to the kind of rich and timid American Jew who is more concerned with his own social and business situation than with the sufferings of a persecuted people.

BROMFIELD

The Palestine story is imperfectly understood by the great part of the American people. This is so partly because the story has been a complex and muddled one, partly because its roots go back to the Balfour Declaration at the end of the First World War and partly because there has been an incredible amount of deliberately deceptive propaganda.

Simply the record is this—that the Balfour Declaration set up Palestine under a joint mandate of the American and British governments as a homeland for the Jewish people and in particular for the persecuted Jew everywhere in the world. This government refused the mandate and the fate of Palestine was left to Great Britain which, from then onward, used the potential state as a pawn in its own Near-Eastern politics.

* * *

British Lion Lost Roar.

MEANWHILE the British Empire fell apart and the home islands sank to the level of a small nation struggling for its existance. No longer was the British lion able to roar its orders and impose order, law and some degree of justice.

The Lion, poor and feeble, was reduced to dealing with the miserable Arab natives by intrigue and appeasement. Little Palestine and the Jewish settlers, who did such an heroic work in converting wretched worn-out arid land to a high state of productivity, became the victims together with a Jewish population in Europe, which was being slowly starved and tortured to death.

The entire British policy was one of appeasing the small and corrupt Arab minority which exploited viciously the miserable remainder of its own countrymen.

Meanwhile the responsibilities of the British Empire, very great ones, were dumped into the lap of the U. S. which, with its muddled and meaningless policies, has only complicated an already shameful and evil situation.

Mr. Truman's administration first forced the absurd partition plan upon the United Nations, then almost immediately repudiated it. And finally Mr. Truman, in a whimsical and abrupt decision, recognized the new Israeli nation. Next came the wretched war between Arabs and the desperate Jewish settler population.

But worst of all has been the fundamental attitude of Mr. Truman and our state department. Pushed now this way, now that by the oil interests and by the Jewish vote in New York City, they have treated the various divided, wretched and corrupt Arab and Egyptian states as if they were dignified, powerful, democratic nations.

Actually they fit not one of these categories. On a world scale, it is as if the good, respectable and law-abiding citizens of a town treated the lowly riff-raff as equals and tried perpetually to appease.

All this is the prelude not only to anarchy but to the creation of a Balkan fire-trap in the Near East. And it makes this nation the sucker in relation to Great Britain, to Russia and to the wretched Arab and Egyptian states

* * *

Statesmanship Lacking.

NOWHERE in the whole sordid story has there been any evidence of statesmanship, long range policy or any indication justice or a desire to establish a lasting world government as represented by the U. N.

These lacks have increased enormously the human misery of hundreds of thousands of men, women and children. (Some children in adolescence have spent nearly all their lives in concentration camps, either those of Hitler or those established by the British on the island of Crete.)

The same errors and intrigue have immensely aggravated the situation in the Near Eastern tinder box. There is even great bitterness in France over the British maneuverings and intrigue in the area.

Palestine is no longer a local problem. It is no longer even a problem concerning a persecuted and suffering people. It has become a world problem with which peace itself is concerned.

This article is concerned only with the major aspects of this all-important problem. It is much too big to discuss adequately in one article. Next week the writer proposes some constructive policies. They are not essentially original. Most of them have already been proposed. Unfortunately they have been ignored or blocked by selfish interests, either trivial, national, corporate or individual.

A Letter Just To YOU

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I AM writing this today just to you. Not to the fifty thousand fans with whom I try to keep in touch, but just to you, personally. And I'm writing because I have a hunch you need it.

No, I'm not thinking that any tragedy has happened—I hope it hasn't. And I'm not aiming at any particular grief or loss or hurt. But you know how it is—there are days when you draw a blank. Everything looks lovely outside, everybody is nice inside. But you—you feel as if you didn't belong. You feel as if you had dropped out of everything and couldn't find your way back.

It's that sort of a day, isn't it? I had a hunch it was. I had a hunch it was because it's that sort of a day for me.

No, there's nothing especially wrong—just the same old grief and hurt and regret that gather on us like barnacles as we grow older and we can't shake off. So we go dragging through the day, feeling it's another waste . . . wondering what life is all about . . . wondering if it's worth the struggle. And like as not, we go to bed with the questions still unanswered and our hearts as heavy as when we woke.

I know—I've had more days like that than you'd guess. But I want to tell you something. No day is a waste unless we make it so. Life is worth while. It's worth the toughest struggle we can put up.

I know it looks as if we had been double-crossed somehow, but we haven't been.

Remember those other days when you seemed to live on tiptoe, grand days that just sang themselves along? Then remember this—the same force that made those days sing is still in you. The same courage with which you fought the battles on your peak times is running hot and vibrant through your blood today.

You still have all you ever had, and more, because although you do have days that seem to be blanks, you're richer for each one of them. And you're wiser.

You can't waste the day. You can't go through a day, however dreary, without being a bigger, stronger person.

Of course you can't always live on high, pardner. You're bound to feel depressed and blue and homesick at times. But you still have the force in you that you always had. You still have the world by the tail and you can swing it if you have the gumption.

Maybe this seems poor comfort—short of "up-and-attem" stuff when you're longing for a shoulder to cry on instead and soft words to kiss the bumps. Well, you can have my shoulder, pardner, and it's a pretty wide one, I'll kiss all the bumps you can bring me.

But I don't think that kissing bumps and crying on shoulders are the best medicine for what ails you. I think you have the best medicine inside yourself, in your own spunk, in your own ambition, in your own determination to get up and make a fresh start.

And now just for once I'm going to take my own advice. I'm going out and walk in my garden and say the Twenty-third Psalm and laugh at some silly bird and throw a chuckle across the fence to my neighbor. And then I'll come back and put my arms around you, dear, as I've wanted to do all along.

Come on, let's go!

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Eisenhower Really a Civilian At Heart

By DREW PEARSON

(Editor's Note: The brass ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, today goes to Dwight D. Eisenhower.)

* * *

PHILADELPHIA—When Dwight Eisenhower was a high-school boy in Abilene, Kansas, he used to play "Fly Lou," a game which consisted of putting pennies on the shady side of the street and waiting for a fly to light on one particular penny. When it did the owner took all the other pennies. In playing "Fly Lou," Eisenhower and his pals were always alert to see that no boy put syrup on a coin to attract a fly, for, as young Dwight said: "A fly is smart but even a fly can be tempted."

PEARSON

Democratic leaders at Philadelphia will have to put plenty of syrup on their coin to tempt Eisenhower to fly their way. But whether he lights now or not, Dwight Eisenhower's name is going to be in the political headlines from now until 1952, so here is a further attempt to appraise the most spotlighted man in America.

* * *

Brass Hat or Civilian?

BIGGEST question asked about Eisenhower is how would he act once in the White House—as a civilian or as a brass hat?

It is always risky to take a military man into high civilian office, as Eisenhower himself pointed out. However, those who watched him closely during the war credited Ike with leaning over backward to protect civilian rights. He championed the GI—and most of them are now strong for him, though dead against MacArthur. He gave a break to Negro troops and a chance to the heroic Japanese-Hawaiians to redeem the false accusation of having sabotaged at Pearl Harbar.

Yet Eisenhower let such close friends as Gen. John ("Court House") Lee get away with commandeering a whole hotel for himself, plus some of the worst examples of caste system of the war.

In Europe after the war, he arrested 70,000 Nazis, gave strict orders to let no Nazi hold any important job—an order flagrantly violated since by the Forrestal cabal. He also raised cain with his own generals for their treatment of displaced persons.

Eisenhower's chief trouble has been that he has surrounded himself with an iron curtain of brass hats. Once you get inside, you find a great human being, but cracking the curtain is sometimes as difficult as penetrating the wall around Russia. And this has continued to be somewhat true even now that the general is at Columbia.

When it came to working with the Russians, Eisenhower got along as well as anybody—perhaps better. With Marshal Zhukoff, the Red army commander in Berlin, he got along so famously that Moscow got suspicious and transferred the marshal. Zhukoff was too much under the spell of Ike's charm.

"Dealing with the Russians," Ike once explained, "is like dealing with your wife. You can lie to her once, or perhaps twice, but eventually she catches up with you. So you might as well tell the truth in the beginning."

* * *

Eisenhower's Mother.

WHEN Sam Goldwyn, who planned to produce a picture on Eisenhower, congratulated the general's aged mother on her son, she promptly replied:

"Which one?"

She was just as proud of all her seven sons as she was of the one whose name is a byword round the world. In fact Ike's mother may be one important key to his character. She came of a Swiss-German family which fled Europe to escape its wars; so the last thing she wanted was to have her son become a professional soldier.

Perhaps this antipathy for war was inherited by Eisenhower, and that he really meant what he told the graduating class at West Point last year.

"War is mankind's most tragic and stupid folly," he said, "to seek or advise its deliberate provocation is a black crime against all men. Though you follow the trade of warrior you do so in the spirit of Washington — not of Ghenghis Kahn.

"As a professional soldier you do not inherit a greater share than your citizen brothers of courage, endurance and fortitude. Neither does your commission confer upon you distinctive right or privilege . . . the arts and sciences, as well as the profession of arms, are bulwarks of security. And the greatest of all is the spirit—the will—for freedom and justice."

Assignment: America

Pepper's Queer Notion

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON — While it is true that political plans and fortunes have a habit of reversing themselves overnight, nevertheless it seems probable at this writing that General Eisenhower definitely has taken himself out of the Democratic presidential picture.

Unquestionably that situation brings a great deal of relief to those Republicans across the country who still believed that Ike might accept a so-called Democratic "draft."

However, it also brings considerable relief to a lot of American citizens—both Democratic and Republican — who, under other circumstances, would have willingly jumped party lines to vote for the general as president.

You hear them talking about it, from taxicab to tavern, from barber shop to grocery store—and those cynics who say Americans haven't grown up in their political thinking during recent years would do well to listen.

One of the chief reasons for the somewhat widespread relief at the general's stand-pat attitude was brought out into the open, in reverse fashion, recently by Senator Claude Pepper of Florida.

Senator Pepper normally is considered, even by his avowed political enemies, to be an extremely intelligent man. There are those who even hang the tag "brilliant" on him. Nevertheless, it was the senator who came up with one of the most curious propositions ever entertained by an intelligent solon of a country claiming to be a democracy.

He suggested that the general run for president on a non-partisan or "national" ticket, although admitting, of course, that the Democrats would have to name him their choice at Philadelphia to get things started.

However, in order to remove the "single party stigma" from the general's candidacy, Senator Pepper would permit him to choose his own vice-presidential running mate (presumably a Republican, to balance things out) and dictate his own platform.

* * *

Dangerous Experiment.

NOW, it would be an insult to the intelligence of readers to belabor the point and remind everyone that this sort of proposal follows a very definite foreign pattern which has grown more than somewhat distasteful to free peoplies during recent generations.

Suffice it to say that any similarity between a nationalistic, one-party type of government and a democratic type of government is purely coincidental!

Perhaps Senator Pepper—for whom this correspondent has no particular animosity — did not realize quite what he was proposing. In any case, there are other reasons why you hear many people expressing their relief that the general does not choose to run.

And the curious phase of the situation is the widespread fear that in all our trials and tribulations, we might make the mistake of setting a political pattern which would fit some future fuehrer.

(No one, incidentally, accuses Ike of such ambitions.)

To get an idea as to the aptness of such a parallel, look at the situation involving the so-called "Draft Ike" movement.

For one thing, it was composed of people who have almost nothing at all in common insofar as their ideologies or political theories are concerned.

For the most part, they actually are sworn enemies on such subjects as civil rights, states rights, social legislation and foreign policy.

For the most naive person could hardly hope that even an Eisenhower, with all his wartime record for excellent diplomacy, could reconcile the ideological differences between — for example — the rebellious southern bloc and the New-Dealish "Americans for Democratic Action" outfit.

Ironically, their distrust of President Truman grows out of exactly opposite reasoning. The one group thinks he has done too much on such highly inflammable issues as civil rights; the other thinks he has done enough. Literally, the only thing they have in common is their opposition toward the current White House incumbent.

Dave Boone Says:

EVERYBODY "demands" something these days. You hardly ever hear of a fellow just asking, requesting or proposing anything. "Demand" is the verb of the era.

* * *

What's become of the America in which the folks were a little less imperative and violent in their tone?

* * *

The "or else" mood fills the air. And I think most people are getting fed up on it.

* * *

I see where a movie is being proclaimed in New York as "a slashing, blazing, blood-mad terrorizer" with characters "out to kill or be killed"—and with an exhibit of "actual guns and weapons" in the theatre lobby. What a lot of help the war on juvenile delinquency and teen-age crime is getting these days!

Timely Editorial

Away From the Farm.

Last year, the Department of Agriculture estimates, nearly a million and a half persons moved from farms to cities and towns, while only a million migrated in the reverse direction.

This urban trek may seem surprising in view of the prevalent prosperity of the farming regions, reflected in record-breaking farm incomes and in soaring values of farmland.

However, labor productivity in agriculture has risen greatly in recent years, owing partly to good weather but also to a rapid increase in mechanization on the farm and to improved fertilization. Consequently the labor supply has, in effect, been greatly augmented.

Despite prosperity, many farms are too small or too poor to provide an adequate living for families even when prices are high. Finally, the pull of the industrialized communities in periods when jobs are abundant and wages high is always powerful. — Washington Post.

The Church

—By ANNE CAMPBELL

Wherever a town arises,
A church arises too.
As if God must have praises
For all His people do.

First comes the humble dwelling,
And then the mighty church,
With altars so compelling
That they reward our search.

Our deep, unshaken feeling
That nobler walls must stand
Makes church bells keep on pealing
Their message through the land.

Farmer's Diary

An Old Elm Tree Falls

By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE view from our wide kitchen window to the east is serene and restful. Far across our own and our neighbor's bottom fields, a courtly elm has dignified the landscape for many years.

Alone, in the pasture, its tall top was divided and latticed. Its roots extended in deep ridges that merged with the trunk. From the earliest purple-bloom of springtime through the deep rich green of summer, to the yellow seared leaves of autumn, it was always there, like a firm and unchanging friend.

Long years ago — most likely in May or June — a flat seed came on the wind, and rested where the earth was naturally moist. Elm seeds are surrounded by a broad, hairy, papery wing, a half inch or more in diameter, that serves as a sail. The seed grew and flourished. By the time it was tall, the surrounding woods had been cleared away and it gave pasture shade to the herds of dairy cows that were kept in the Honey Creek bottom.

One side of the top became somewhat heavier than the other. The long arching branches trailed like plumes in summer and formed their lattice against the sky in wintertime. Nobody knew when the lignin within the trunk began to change from elastic toughness to the brittleness of age.

Nobody saw or heard the crash, during the last storm of wind, rain and hail. But when we looked again, the view from our window had changed.

Half the grand old trunk had split and was prone on the ground. The pasture fence was smashed. Naked roots thrust themselves out of the earth for a wide space around, and the twisted trunk that remained held up bravely, pathetically, only a small part of the original beauteous verdure.

It is easy to love an elm. So gracious, so courtly, so useful and strong a tree, it stands out on the American landscape from Maine to Florida, from Canada to the Gulf. Transplanted to the far West, it grows successfully there, too. It is deep-rooted in the history of every community.

Elm wood is tough, heavy, hard and cross grained — not good firewood, if a man has to split it. It makes wheel hubs, hoops and staves, ships and furniture. It is said the Iroquois Indians used elm bark for canoes and for ropes, by twisting it.

Dutch elm disease, for which there is no known cure, has broken quarantine during the war years, and now threatens to stamp out the native elms, as the chestnuts have been destroyed by blight. U. S. Forestry Service researchers will need the moral and financial support of every citizen-tax payer to combat the menace.

As Cerf Tells It

Myron Cohen, a comparatively new, but highly-popular comedy monologist, gets a big laugh with his story of the merchant who wails, "Here it is June, with the whole Spring over already, and business is terrible." His optimistic partner counsels, "Cheer up! It's always this way before Christmas."

101 Years Of Service

In This Community Is the Background of

The Farmers Savings & Trust Co.

Just one hundred and one years ago, on July 2, 1847, a number of Mansfield's prominent citizens signed a Certificate of Association agreeing to subscribe the necessary capital stock to organize a branch of The State Bank of Ohio, known as The Farmers Bank. Today, 101 Years later, this same bank having grown with the community through all these years, is serving Mansfield with completely modern banking services . . . now, The Farmers Savings and Trust Co.

The Financial Statement Appearing Below Discloses Several Very Interesting Facts Concerning Our Steady Growth

1. Over $4,000,000.00 has been loaned to Mansfield Citizens and industries.
2. The Capital, Surplus and Reserves total over $700,000.00. Reserves increase depositor's protection to over $800,000.00.
3. Cash and Government Bonds represent more than 50 per cent of deposits.
4. During our 101st year deposits have increased over two millions, viz: $2,329,385.80.
5. We direct your attention to the strong Board of Directors and Advisory Board. These men are successful in their own business, and bring to this bank a conservative outlook which contributes to our financial strength.

Gov. Herbert Declines To Ask Session

Pours Cold Water On Bender's Idea

By H. H. DAUGHERTY

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert said last week he would not "consider for ten seconds" a special legislature session to join the national, state and local tickets on the November election ballot.

The chief executive thus poured cold water on a suggestion made by Congressman-at-Large George H. Bender of Cleveland.

Most Republicans believe that with President Truman heading the Democratic ticket, the Republican Dewey-Warren ticket will sweep the nation carrying Republican state and local tickets with them in the anticipated landslide.

By joining the national, state and local tickets, Congressman Bender and many other Republican leaders believe the job of electing Republican state and local tickets would be easier.

The governor's statement, however, does not bar the possibility of the legislature being called into special session for some other purpose and then taking up the subject of the ... at the executive's request. So far there is no indication that Governor Herbert is considering calling a special legislative session for any purpose.

SEPARATED IN 1940

The national and state tickets were separated in 1940 at a special legislative session called by Gov. John W. Bricker for the specific purpose of making the separation. The session was held in June and the law providing for the separation was passed as an emergency measure to make it immediately effective and bar a referendum on it.

It was definite at that time that P... Roosevelt would be nominated for a third term a... h the tickets joined, he would be able to pull the Democrat state and local ti... into office with him. On the seperated tickets, Roosevelt carried the state by 146,000 and Bricker by 364,000.

The Ohio legislature is predominantly Republican and would be able to pass a law rejoining the national state and county tickets as an emergency measure if it were called to do so. The Republicans still have better than a two-thirds majority in the House of Representatives notwithstanding they have lost 12 members by death. The count now is 111 Republicans to 16 Democrats. In the Senate the Republicans control by a count of 32 to 4.

Alvis Carries Hard Punch

'Cons' Respect Ohio Pen Chief

By RICHARD HULL WESP

COLUMBUS—(AP)—After a month of watching their new warden in action, the 4,000 inmates in the Ohio State penitentiary have pegged Ralph W. Alvis as a redhead with a hard punch and a quick smile.

A soft spoken ex-football player, "Red" Alvis is known as a "good guy" in a community of embittered men whose admiration is hard to win and easy to lose.

Last month when he took over the job of mayor of Columbus's "city within a city" Alvis already had gained a reputation for being a trouble-shooter with an uncanny talent for rooting out crime and corruption.

As acting warden for three months before his permanent appointment, Alvis put out of business a drug ring operating within the pen's walls and uncovered a cache of illegal benzedrine valued at $1,500.

All of that was just by way of learning the ins and outs of the job so far as Alvis was concerned.

The state penitentiary is a long way from where Red Alvis expected to go when he began playing football in Sebring, a little over 30 years ago.

In those days he wanted to be a football coach, and when he captained West Virginia Wesleyan's 1927 team it looked as though his coaching career was just around the corner.

Then, a bid from the Ironton Tanks drew him into professional football and the big money that went with it. After two seasons with the Tanks he struck richer pay dirt with the Brooklyn Dodgers, but he also made the discovery that "professional football takes a lot out of a guy."

GIVES UP COACHING

"I decided to get out of it while the getting was good," he told a friend recently and Alvis began looking for a coaching job.

It was the middle of the depression and it wasn't long before Alvis decided coache were a drug on the market. When he was offered a job as an Ohio state highway patrolman Alvis jumped at it, and that was the beginning of a career that has taken him into some of the top criminology jobs in Ohio.

RALPH ALVIS

Promotions came fast, and in less than ten years he was a highway patrol major. In 1945 he took a leave of absence to become acting superintendent of the Boys' Industrial school in Lancaster.

His big job there was to stop escapes which had become almost wholesale. He made quick work of stopping them and was promoted in 1946 to the London Prison farm where he was assistant superintendent until he moved into the penitentiary this year.

Alvis, who probably knows more convicts by name than any other man in the penitentiary, has some pretty definite ideas about running a prison.

For example, one of the first things he did after he became warden was to permit the prisoners to smoke in the penitentiary yard. He also put a stop to the old fashioned "lock step," an awkward way of bunching prisoners together while they are marching. They now march in regular army formation.

"It's not an easy thing for a man to spend part of his life in a place like this," Alvis remarked recently. "One of our biggest jobs is to help the men keep their self respect. When they lose that there's not very much we can do for them."

In the high-ceilinged, 114-year-old warden's quarters, Alvis and his wife—a former nurse at University hospital in Columbus—live with their two small daughters in a world that's completely separated from the penitentiary.

The only suggestion of the prison is their convict servant staff. The warden is proud of his cook, a prisoner, whose specialty is homemade ice cream.

China Dollar Hits New Low

SHANGHAI—(AP)—The Chinese dollar crashed to its lowest point in history Saturday—6,000,000 to $1—on the black market.

Commodity prices soared. The Stock Exchange closed five minutes after it opened. Thousands of police combed marts for black marketeers dealing in U. S. and Hong Kong money.

The black market, which is China's main money mart, closed yesterday at 4,000,000 Chinese to $1.

What Do They Mean When They Call Me Cheap?

Don't Be Alarmed, Reddy, Old Boy - - -

The dictionary defines "cheap" as being: "A small cost or price as compared with the usual price or real value." You represent the Ohio Public Service Company and in view of steadily rising living costs, critical material shortages and increased production costs, they are proud that you are "cheap." That you give value far in excess of your actual cost to merit such a description.

Cool, Regal Gen. Clay Fights Berlin Crisis

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

BERLIN—(AP)—If Gen. Lucius Du Bignon Clay had had his way he'd be cat fishing in Georgia this summer instead of commander of the American occupation in this crisis-ridden city.

It is no exaggeration to say that most of Berlin's 3,250,000 Germans and its 25,000 Allied inhabitants are extremely glad the Army turned down his request for retirement last October.

Clay is the best known American in Germany—perhaps the best known man of any nationality. He is widely known even behind the Iron Curtain of the Russian occupation zone, if only through the invective hurled at him daily by the communist press.

GEN. CLAY

Millions of Germans, in the surrounding Russian zone as well as in Berlin, look hopefully upon 51-year-old Clay as the leading symbol of American democracy. During these days of blockaded Berlin's critical struggle between Russia and the west, many a Berliner is cheered as he passes Clay's OMGUS (Office of Military Government for Germany, U. S.) headquarters.

The 2,000,000 Germans of western Berlin gratefully credit Clay with instituting the emergency air freight service which is now bringing in food and other supplies with a day-and-night plane armada from western Germany.

Clay also is generally credited, even by British critics, with having done the ablest and most efficient administrative job of any of the military governors of the four occupying powers.

The No. 1 American in Germany is slim, of medium height, with dark bushy eyebrows, thin features, an acquiline nose, deep-socketed eyes, a piercing glance and deliberate smile.

He is the son of a southern Senator of the "Reconstruction" period, Alexander Stephen Clay of Georgia, and was a senate page in his youth.

HE'S HEAVY SMOKER

Clay chain smokes, consuming three packs of cigarets per day, drinks coffee all day long and puts kinetic energy into everything he does.

He is extremely popular with the press, German as well as Allied, because he is always frank and accessible.

Symbolic of Clay's occupation policies is the always open door which connects his office with that of his personal assistant, WAC Capt. Margaret Allen. It is not even closed when Clay is in intimate conference with his British counterpart, Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, during this "second battle of Berlin."

The open door is symbolic of the "goldfish bowl" policy which Clay decreed for his administration—"open decisions openly arrived at, as far as the Americans in Germany are concerned."

Clay was described during the war by one of his earliest backers, former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, as "a man who could run General Motors or Gen. Eisenhower's armies."

In November, 1944, when a crisis developed in the supply line to Allied forces on Cherbourg peninsula, Clay was summoned from Washington and is credited with being largely responsible for breaking the bottleneck in short order. From that job he went back to America to handle war mobilization and reconversion problems.

In some respects Clay is still the engineer. Some observers feel he handles creation of a democratic Germany as something of an engineering operation, with himself at the controls.

He laid down for the occupation a formula known as the "four D's"—denazification, demilitarization, decentralization and democratization. Even his critics concede that he has executed these with vigorous technical efficiency and with, as one put it, "more resounding statistical success than anywhere else in Germany."

'ROMAN EMPEROR'

The British sometimes feel that Clay is domineering. A high British official here once said of Clay, after a hard bargaining session, that "he looks like a Roman emperor—and acts like one."

However, newspaper correspondents, as well as Clay's military government aides and his Army subordinates, have found that his soft voice and patient charm do not entirely hide a stubbornness and a capacity for occasional bursts of temper.

Clay is a strict disciplinarian with his staff. He has an alert mind with rapid grasp of essentials and a penetrating intelligence frequently impatient with slower minds.

His relations with the other three military governors generally have been reported cordial. During the current crisis he confers with Robertson and the French Deputy Military Governor, Gen. Roger Noiret, almost daily. Clay has said he has "had differences with Brian (Gen. Robertson) but we always manage to work them out."

The American commander also generally has cordial personal relations with Soviet Marshal Sokolovsky. It is reported that when Sokolovsky made his angry walkout on the Allied Control council March 20, which wrecked four-power government for Germany, he later called to assure Clay "Sorry—but this is nothing personal."

Another Billion-Dollar Crop Predicted for Ohio Farmers

State Heads For Record Cash Income

Agriculture Dept. Sees 'Good Year'

By FRED J. ZUSY

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Barring unexpected bad breaks in weather, Ohio farmers appear headed toward a second successive record year in cash income.

Last year they took in $1,052,400,000 for livestock, livestock products and crops. This was an all-time high.

Based on cash receipts for the first four months of this year, heavier crop production prospects, higher prices and the national trend for the first half of the year, the figure should be well above that this year.

PREDICT GOOD YEAR

Good spring planting and growing weather, plus ample moisture since, leads observers at the Agriculture department and the weather bureau to predict a very good year for Ohio and most of the nation.

Farm marketings in Ohio the first four months this year totaled $292,582,000, against $276,666,000 in the same period in 1947.

The most recent report of the Agriculture department shows that for the entire country cash receipts are up three per cent over last year. So the upward trend in Ohio can be figured extended into May and June.

PRICES RISE

The department said yesterday that not only are heavy crop prospects indicated generally, but that prices declines at harvest time are likely to be small. It added that price trends in recent weeks have generally continued upward.

Record meat and animal prices, especially, are expected to add millions to the income of Buckeye farmers.

In 1947, $764,500,000 of the total cash income came from livestock and livestock products.

In the first four months this year nearly 80 per cent of the cash receipts came from this source.

Shelby Airport Approved By VA

SHELBY—Shelby's new airport, "Sky Haven," has been accredited to accept students under the G.I. bill of rights.

William Fischer, co-owner of the Shelby airport, announced yesterday that the contracting section of the Veterans Administration in Cleveland authorized the field to start accepting students Wednesday.

More than 40 former servicemen here have signified their intentions of taking the course.

Road Extension Planned In Galion

GALION — City officials are going ahead with preliminary work in planning the extension of West Church street to the state road, it was learned after a conference with the state district engineer at Ashland. The conference was held in regard to constructing a bridge over Whetstone creek, west of West Church street. In Ashland, for the conference, were Mayor H. H. Hartmann, Service-Safety Director John F. Porter, and Crawford County Commissioners Walter Sargel of Galion.

Mt. Gilead Street Repairs Approved

MT. GILEAD — Highland avenue here is going to get some much needed repairs.

City council approved a petition presented by Douglas Neville and George Chubb and signed by all property owners on the street.

Improvements will consist of paving, curbing, paving and curbing sidewalks. Work will start after an estimate is made.

Estill arranged to leave today with his wife and plans to return July 20.

Work Starts On Schools

Excavating In Ashland

ASHLAND—The first project in Ashland's $400,000 school enlargement program will get under way tomorrow when excavation starts on the addition to the Osborn elementary school on East Main street.

The school improvements were made possible through a bond issue overwhelmingly approved by Ashland voters last November following a spirited campaign by PTA and school interests.

Construction of the addition, providing 11 new classrooms, gym, shower, locker and restroom facilities as well as a kitchen and lunchroom, will give Osborn school adequate facilities for pupils in that district. Milton township children who have been divided among all schools of the city heretofore will also benefit.

Present plans call for sending all the Milton township rural pupils to Osborn to ease the overcrowding of other elementary schools.

The project is expected to be completed in 300 days by the De-Hamel Construction of Cleveland.

Next project will be the enlargement of Lincoln elementary school. The two expansion projects are expected to be completed at the same time.

Plymouth Beekeeper Says—

Farmers Use Bees to Multiply Crops

Richland county farmers are doing something about a serious decline in seed production, which scientists trace to a shortage of bees.

Clarence Vogel of Plymouth, prominent county beekeeper, says farmers are awakening to the simple biological connection between bees and crop production. Without pollinating insects such as bees, most plant life cannot continue.

To most city folk, bees mean honey. But to the modern farmer, they are an instrument of farm fertility—a tiny but by no means unimportant instrument.

More and more farmers are turning to bees to increase their crop production. And with good reason, Vogel says.

"For example," he said, "A farmer in this neighborhood in previous years had been getting about a bushel of clover seed from each acre of clover.

"Last year I set a few hives on this man's farm. The results were startling. Production that year was more than two and a half bushels per acre—an increase of 150 per cent."

POPULATION DECLINE

For the last several decades, the bee population of Richland county, as throughout the nation, has been declining. The slump, Vogel said, is caused by automobiles, bug poisons, airplanes and "mean-tempered bees themselves."

Now modern science is coming to the aid of farmers and increased crop production. The department of agriculture says new "tailor-made" bees may do for the farmer what hybrid corn did for the corn grower.

Scientists are designing new bees just like automobile designers mold a car. Besides being gentle, they may have other characteristics to endear them to farmers.

Bees have a sex life unique to the animal kingdom. Science, through long investigation and experimentation, has discovered how to imbreed successfully with the bee.

In nature, a virgin queen bee leaves the hive on a short "marriage flight" and mates high in the air with a male or a "drone." She then returns to the hive and begins laying eggs. The eggs that come in contact with fertilizing substance from the drone hatch as workers. Those that do not do so hatch as drones.

The queen mates only once in her lifetime. Her mate may be a very poor bee from a beekeeper's viewpoint. His children may be lazy or poor honey producers.

"For years beekeepers have been trying to improve their bee families simply by getting high-priced queens. They could not control her choice of a mate," Vogel said.

But now, according to the department of agriculture, scientists have discovered that if a virgin queen is put to sleep with carbon dioxide gas, she starts laying eggs at once, without being mated.

Then, by a complex method of inbreeding, scientists can produce characteristics that farmers want in a great number of queen bees. This year production is expected to reach almost an assembly-line basis. By 1950, they say, new model bees may be available in quantities.

"Eventually," Vogel said, "Science may produce new types of bees which not only will provide more efficient pollination, but also will produce better honey."

Thus, science may point the way toward an America flowing with better milk and honey.

Municipal Income Tax Sought for Ashland

ASHLAND—A municipal income tax for Ashland was unanimously recommended by the newly-appointed citizen's committee.

At a special meeting Friday night to discuss plans for increasing the city's revenue for street improvements, the committee proposed the tax and urged city council to enact legislation governing it.

The committee of 15, representing a cross section of Ashland business and industrial life, recommended that the tax be limited to a few years.

Mayor Louis E. Mansfield, chairman of the committee, presided as members made a study of the income tax ordinance now in effect in Toledo.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS

In addition, the committee also recommended that property owners be assessed for all street improvements not coming under the classification of street repairs. This, the committee pointed out, would lessen the drain on city funds.

Amount of the tax was left to the discretion of city council. Joseph McClure, secretary of the Ashland chamber of commerce, reported that a C. of C. estimate places the city's total annual income at $21,000,000. This includes income of corporations, business, professions, investment, salaries and wages on all persons living in or working in Ashland.

Labor representatives on the committee stated that 30 per cent of employes of some local industries reside outside of Ashland, deriving their living from the city but contributed no taxes to its upkeep.

Tom V. Withers, city finance director, was asked to make a survey to determine the approximate total income of the city.

The committee was appointed at city council's request after the city's coffers were found to contain no available funds for badly needed improvements. The mayor estimated that more than $400,000 is needed for such repairs.

DENIES CHARGE

Pinball Tax Proposed In Loudonville

Council Requested To Pave Street

LOUDONVILLE — A municipal tax on pinball and music machines will be proposed at the July 19 session of the village council.

Already termed a "nuisance tax," the measure was tabled at the last village meeting because of the illness of Myron Oliver, city solicitor.

Property owners on North Market street are expected to petition council for concrete streets.

Plagued with the unpaved street for three years, council members have taken initial steps to grade the walks. A Mansfield engineering firm has been contacted and is expected to submit a bid in the near future.

The Kinsey Players, a theatrical troupe, will perform in Loudonville in the fall. Council granted the local American Legion post permission to sponsor the show here.

Harry Graf, former Loudonville resident, is owner of the traveling show.

Farrar Again School Head

MT. GILEAD — O. H. Farrar, principal of Defiance schools, has been named superintendent of the Mt. Gilead schools, a position he formerly held.

Before coming to Mt. Gilead, Farrar taught at Logan and was principal of the Sugar Grove schools for two years. A graduate of Ohio University at Athens, he now is studying for his Ph. D. degree at Ohio State university. He is a former president of the States Principal's association

The new superintendent succeeds D. L. Musselman, superintendent here for nine years. Musselman has accepted a position as headmaster of the renowned Columbus Boychoir school.

Gordon Campbell of Columbus, grade school principal here, has resigned to join Musselman on the faculty of the Boychoir school.

New Army Radio Series Opens

SHELBY—Col R W Dyer commanding officer of the 831st Specialized Depot, has announced that a new series of programs would be presented by the Army over Station WTAG, Ashland.

The programs are scheduled each Friday evening at 6 30 EST The introductory program Friday, consisted largely of the depot's history, its purposes and functions Each week it will feature a different town, village or community.

The Jaycee committee in charge of the insect-control program will spray Seltzer Park next Thursday in an all out war against insects.

New London Church to Hear Saga

Death March Alumni Meet

NEW LONDON — Parish members of the Our Lady of Lourdes church here are likely to hear the story of their pastor's reunion with his one-time Army altar boy in place of the usual sermon Sunday.

Father John E. Duffy, survivor of the Bataan death march, met an unexpected comrade of the ill-fated march when he visited Detroit to address the First Friday club luncheon at the Book-Cadillac hotel.

When he first saw William A. Nolan, 11954 Lakepointe avenue, in the hotel lobby, they did not recognize each other, though the two men were in the same prison camp for a time

WEIGHED ONLY 85

"That is to be expected," Father Duffy explains. "The last time he saw me I weighed only 85 pounds. The boy only weighed 90 pounds and had his hair all shaved off." Now Father Duffy weighs 185 and Nolan 150

"The last time we were together was in May, 1943, when I said mass for the American prisoners at Lipa, in the Philippines and he served as altar boy," Father Duffy relates.

A few days later Father Duffy was accused by the Japs of starting a revolt among the prisoners and was taken from the camp

READS LIKE FICTION

Father Duffy's war experiences read like fiction. On the Bataan death march he was bayoneted twice and finally was left for dead He was rescued by Filipinos and for nearly a year directed guerrilla activities before being recaptured

Later, while being transferred to Japan, the ship he was on was sunk and two other ships were bombed and strafed by American planes After the war he spent a year in Army hospitals and was retired as a colonel in 1946.

In Father Duffy's talk to 800 members of the First Friday club, he said that the last war was caused because the world was placing material desires above God.

"Japan aped the materialistic progress of the United States and then tried to take more land The world must turn to God if we want peace," he said

TALE OF TWO BUDDIES—Father John E. Duffy (left) first met William A. Nolan in a Jap prisoner-of-war camp. They met unexpectedly again in Detroit last week.

New Teachers At Crestline

CRESTLINE — Mrs Albert McJunkin and Mrs Fritz Varga were hired at the meeting of the board of education to fill the vacancies made by the resignation of Miss Clara Miller and Miss Marilyn Whitacre

The budget for the ensuing year was tentatively approved.

New Ashland Music Head

ASHLAND — Calvin Rogers, instructor in violin at Ashland college for the past year will succeed Miss Eunice Lea Kettering as head of the college department of music when school opens in September.

Miss Kettering is retiring as head of the department after 12 years She will continue as associate professor of music and will teach music literature courses which are now required of all music students

In announcing the resignation of Miss Kettering, President R. W. Bixler said, "Miss Kettering has sought to be relieved of administrative duties for some time and this spring tendered her resignation. It is with reluctance that it is accepted We are, however, most happy that she will remain on the staff to give her rich experience to succeeding students."

Butler Church to Elect Officers

BUTLER—The annual election of officers of the Evangelical U B church will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m

Rev and Mrs E A Rothgeb attended the summer assembly of the Evangelical United Brethren church at Linwood Park, Vermilion

County Wide Granges to Hold Picnic

Crawford Event Set for Sunday

SHELBY — The Granges of Crawford county will hold a county picnic next Sunday afternoon.

Grange Deputy James Krauter said the picnic will be held at the Crawford county fairgrounds in the public dining room formerly used as an officers' mess hall. Holmes-Liberty Grange is arranging the picnic dinner and will serve coffee.

After the dinner a program will be presented under the direction of Pomona Lecturer Wilford Snyder of Mt. Zion. The picnic is scheduled for late noon.

Radio station WRFD of Worthington will broadcast a Crawford County Day program from Bucyrus on July 17. A number of special broadcasts will feature the day's activities, including several broadcasts from the new office and plant of the Crawford Farm Bureau Cooperative association. Arrangements are being made for half hour Grange broadcast from 3:05 p m. to 3:30 p. m.

Movies, Fish Fry Highlight Joint Galion Church Outing

GALION—Moving pictures and a fish fry highlighted the annual joint outing of the Men's Brotherhood and Ladies' Aid society of Peace Lutheran church.

Staged Thursday evening at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sargel, southeast of Galion, more than 200 were present. Fish was prepared by Fred Ernst and was served as a part of a potluck supper.

With Rev. Philip E. Auer as master of ceremonies, a program was presented which included three films shown by Marvin Adams, superintendent of the Crawford County Children's Home, assisted by Johnny Moore.

One of the pictures portrayed activity at the Lutheran Memorial camp at Fulton in Morrow county. Elmer Neumann, who is in charge of camp construction, spoke briefly regarding the location and size. Part of the camp has been completed and ready for use by young people of the denomination.

Music was furnished by the Brotherhood orchestra under the direction of Clinton B. Sloane.

For their hospitality and efforts in helping to make the outing a success, Mr. and Mrs. Sargel were presented with gifts from the two organizations. Mrs. Sargel received glass goblets and her husband a box of cigars.

Ruth Sheriff Wed To E. M. Fellmeth

REV. CHARLES F. SHERIFF, pastor of the St. Matthew's Lutheran church, officiated for the marriage of his daughter, Marjorie Ruth Sheriff, and Eugene Marvin Fellmeth of Canal Fulton, O., when they exchanged vows Saturday evening at 7:30 in the family church. The pretty double ring open church service was attended by a large group of friends and relatives.

A program of nuptial music was played by Mrs. Charles Ness and Mrs. John Cole was the soloist.

The ceremony was performed before a background of ferns, palms and two beauty baskets and altar vases of white glads and carnations. Tall candlesticks tied with white satin bows and decorated with greenery decorated the aisle. Two seven branch candelabra were placed at the foot of the chancel steps.

Miss Sheriff, given in marriage by her brother, Robert E. Sheriff, wore a formal wedding gown of white satin, fashioned with folds of satin in the form of a bertha which outlined the dropped shoulder and sheer yoke. Self-covered buttons trimmed the back of the dress from the neckline to the low waistline. A double butterfly bow trimmed the back and the bodice had a pleated peplum where it joined the full wide skirt which extended into a long train. She wore an imported English silk illusion veil which was held in place with a Chantilly lace Mary of Scot bonnet.

She carried a white Bible which was topped with a white orchid, tied with white satin streamers.

Mrs. Robert E. Sheriff of Columbus, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Mary Simon and Miss Jean Wentz of Mansfield; Miss Ruth Traup of Omaha, Neb., and Mrs. Kale Canfield of Pittsford, N. Y. Anne Norton of Lorain,

Elfriede Jundt Changes Name To Mrs. Donald Moreland

MISS ELFRIEDE JUNDT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jundt, 223 West Third street, became the bride of Donald Moreland, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Moreland sr., 258 Essex avenue, Bloomfield, N. J., Friday evening at 7:30 p. m. before the altar of the Grace Gospel church. Rev. William Moreland jr., Greenville, O., brother of the bridegroom, performed the nuptials.

He was assisted by Rev. James D. Davey, pastor of the church. Nuptial music was played by Miss Haldyne Spriggens of Warren, friend of the couple. Soloist was Miss Mary Nash and George McNair played violin numbers.

Background for the pretty wedding was of palms and two baskets of mixed flowers carrying out the pastel color scheme. Lighted candelabra illuminated the scene.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Jundt was attired in an ivory satin gown, made with high neckline with sheer yoke, outlined with seed pearls and beads. The bodice was long and fitted and the full skirt extended into a chapel train. The gown was buttoned down the back and the sleeves were of leg-o-mutton style. Her fingertip length veil of illusion was lace trimmed, and held in place with a heart-shaped tiara of seed pearls. The same design was used in the lace trim. She carried a white handkerchief which had been carried by her mother on her confirmation and wedding days.

She also wore the traditional "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue." Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. Her fan-shaped bouquet was of white larkspur, glads, rosebuds, baby breath and sweetpeas.

Miss Martha Perman of Wooster, maid of honor, was a college classmate of the bride. She was attired in a lime green frock with pink accessories and carried a colonial style bouquet of summer flowers in the pastel shades.

Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Ruth Snyder and Miss Eleanor Walters, close friends of the bride, who wore gowns of light pink with light blue accessories and Miss Marie Tomey of Greensburg, Pa., a college friend of the bride, who wore frosty blue with pink accessories. Miss Nancy Jane Moreland of Livingston, N. J., niece of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid, attired in a gown of the same style and color as Miss Tomey's.

Their bouquets corresponded to their gowns.

David Moreland of Livingston, N J, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer, attired in a white suit. Flower girl was Miss Jane Moreland, also a niece of the bridegroom, who wore a frock of yellow, patterned like that of the junior bridesmaid, with green accessories. She carried a miniature bouquet of pastel flowers.

Mrs. Jundt, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's double ring service, an aqua and brown dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Moreland wore an ice blue dress with black accessories with a corsage of pink roses.

Ushering the guests to their pews were Paul Gear of Alliance, David Stull and Edwin Schmidt, both of Mansfield, friends of the bridegroom.

Clarkson Moreland of Livingston, N. J., brother of the groom, served as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in the garden. The long serving table was centered with a large wedding cake. appointments in green and white and tall lighted candelabra. The six tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Two hundred guests were received by the bridal party.

Miss Naomi Pfaff took care of the guest book at the wedding and the reception.

After August 5 the couple will reside at 258 Essex avenue, Bloomfield, N. J.

Mrs. Moreland was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and the Missionary Training Institute of Nyack, N. Y. She received her bachelor of education degree. Mr. Moreland, a graduate of Bloomfield, N. J., high school, is also a graduate of the missionary school.

The bride is secretary of the coordinator of vocational educational education at the Mansfield Senior high school and Mr. Moreland is a student, working for his bachelor of theology. He served in the U. S. Navy for three years as a pharmacists mate.

Out-of-town guests were from Chicago, Bloomfield, N. J., Livingston, N. J., Alliance, Warren, Wooster, Vermillion, Greenville, Greensburg, Pa., Canton, Bellville, Lexington, Youngstown, Nashville, Tenn., and Columbia, South America.

Warren Steinkraus of Boston, Mass., on Thursday.

The wedding will be observed by open church at the Park Avenue Baptist church at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Hazeltine, Miss Morris and her college roommate, Miss Betty Beach of Berea, surprised the hostesses and guests by appearing in old fashioned costume. Mrs. Hazeltine wore a "gay-nineties" costume and Miss Morris was gowned as a bride, and Miss Beach as the groom.

Cards were the diversion of the evening with prizes awarded to Miss Nancy Twitchell, Mrs. Richard Harrison, Mrs. Hazeltine and the honoree.

Miss Morris found her shower gifts by bursting balloons which disclosed the hiding place of the miscellaneous gifts.

At the close of the evening refreshments were served buffet style from an attractively decorated table. The centerpiece was a miniature church and the miniature bride and groom were placed under a dainty archway of roses, appearing to enter the church. Tin urns were filled with rosebuds in the setting.

Seventeen were in attendance for the party.

MISS GUTHRIE BECOMES BRIDE OF MR. E. KAMPF

Shelby's Most Pure Heart of Mary Church Setting for Double Ring Wedding Ceremony.

SHELBY—The Most Pure Heart of Mary church was the setting for the wedding Saturday, June 26, of Miss Helen Guthrie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guthrie, West Main street, Shiloh, to Edgar Kempf, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kempf, 12 Grove avenue, Shelby. The double ring ceremony was solemnized at a nuptial high mass by Rev. Michael McFadden.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride approached the altar in a gown of white slipper satin designed with an off-shoulder marquisette yoke outlined with a band of satin trimmed with lace which also edged the long pointed sleeves. The full skirt extended in a cathedral train. Her finger-tip veil was held by a tiara of pearl orange blossoms and she carried white carnations centered with an orchid.

Dorothy Hedeen, sister of the bride, was matron of honor in a pink organdie dress styled with an off-shoulder bertha. Irma Kempf in green and Beda Kempf in Chartreuse, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. Their gowns were of ordandy and styled the same as the matron-of-honor. All carried mixed bouquets with contrasting ribbons.

Carl Kempf was best man for his brother. Ushers were Bruno Caporini, of Shelby and John Hedeen, of Ada.

A breakfast for the wedding party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gail Fichter, Shelby. A reception was held immediately after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. Candles and a four tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, centered the table.

The bride choose as her going away outfit a white two piece dress with white accessories. She wore an orchid corsage. After an undisclosed motor trip the Kempfs will return to their home on N. Gamble St., Shelby.

The bride and groom are graduates of Shelby high.

The bride's mother wore a grey dress with white accessories and a pink carnation corsage. The groom's mother wore a similar outfit.

The bride's jewelry included a pair of pearl earrings, a gift of the groom.

Wasson-Giles Wed

WILLARD — Announcement is made of the marriage on June 27 of Mrs. Leona Wasson and Virgil Giles, both of Willard. Rev. J. F. Herion performed the single-ring ceremony in the Methodist parsonage at Lakeside in the presence of a number of Willard friends.

Galion Man Wed In Detroit

GALION — Of interest here is the marriage of John Elliker, son of Rev. and Mrs. R. R. Elliker of Galion, to Janet Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McKim Carpenter of Woodmont road, Detroit. They are now residing in Alexandria, Va., following a two weeks honeymoon through the eastern states.

The wedding was solemnized Saturday, June 19, in St. Paul's Memorial Episcopal church, Detroit, with Rev. James S. Weddifield officiating for the double ring ceremony.

Guests were seated by Richard Carpenter, brother of the bride, and William Snyder of Galion. Dr. James Secrest, also of Galion, was best man.

Elfriede Jundt Changes Name To Mrs. Donald Moreland

MISS ELFRIEDE JUNDT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jundt, 223 West Third street, became the bride of Donald Moreland, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Moreland sr., 258 Essex avenue, Bloomfield, N. J., Friday evening at 7:30 p. m. before the altar of the Grace Gospel church. Rev. William Moreland jr., Greenville, O., brother of the bridegroom, performed the nuptials.

He was assisted by Rev. James D. Davey, pastor of the church. Nuptial music was played by Miss Haldyne Spriggens of Warren, friend of the couple. Soloist was Miss Mary Nash and George McNair played violin numbers.

Background for the pretty wedding was of palms and two baskets of mixed flowers carrying out the pastel color scheme. Lighted candelabra illuminated the scene.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Jundt was attired in an ivory satin gown, made with high neckline with sheer yoke, outlined with seed pearls and beads. The bodice was long and fitted and the full skirt extended into a chapel train. The gown was buttoned down the back and the sleeves were of leg-o-mutton style. Her fingertip length veil of illusion was lace trimmed, and held in place with a heart-shaped tiara of seed pearls. The same design was used in the lace trim. She carried a white handkerchief which had been carried by her mother on her confirmation and wedding days.

She also wore the traditional "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue." Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. Her fan-shaped bouquet was of white larkspur, glads, rosebuds, baby breath and sweetpeas.

Miss Martha Perman of Wooster, maid of honor, was a college classmate of the bride. She was attired in a lime green frock with pink accessories and carried a colonial style bouquet of summer flowers in the pastel shades.

Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Ruth Snyder and Miss Eleanor Walters, close friends of the bride, who wore gowns of light pink with light blue accessories and Miss Marie Tomey of Greensburg, Pa., a college friend of the bride, who wore frosty blue with pink accessories. Miss Nancy Jane Moreland of Livingston, N. J, niece of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid, attired in a gown of the same style and color as Miss Tomey's.

Their bouquets corresponded to their gowns.

David Moreland of Livingston, N. J., nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer, attired in a white suit. Flower girl was Miss Jane Moreland, also a niece of the bridegroom, who wore a frock of yellow, patterned like that of the junior bridesmaid, with green accessories. She carried a miniature bouquet of pastel flowers.

Mrs. Jundt, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's double ring service, an aqua and brown dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Moreland wore an ice blue dress with black accessories with a corsage of pink roses.

Ushering the guests to their pews were Paul Gear of Alliance, David Stull and Edwin Schmidt, both of Mansfield, friends of the bridegroom.

Clarkson Moreland of Livingston, N. J, brother of the groom, served as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in the garden. The long serving table was centered with a large wedding cake. appointments in green and white and tall lighted candelabra. The six tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Two hundred guests were received by the bridal party.

Miss Naomi Pfaff took care of the guest book at the wedding and the reception.

When the couple left for a cruise of the Great Lakes and a motor trip to Canada, the bride wore an aqua linen suit with gold accessories and a yellow orchid corsage.

After August 5 the couple will reside at 258 Essex avenue, Bloomfield, N. J.

Mrs. Moreland was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and the Missionary Training Institute of Nyack, N. Y. She received her bachelor of education degree. Mr. Moreland, a graduate of Bloomfield, N. J., high school, is also a graduate of the missionary school.

The bride is secretary of the coordinator of vocational educational education at the Mansfield Senior high school and Mr. Moreland is a student, working for his bachelor of theology. He served in the U. S. Navy for three years as a pharmacists mate.

Out-of-town guests were from Chicago, Bloomfield, N. J., Livingston, N. J., Alliance, Warren, Wooster, Vermillion, Greenville, Greensburg, Pa., Canton, Bellville, Lexington, Youngstown, Nashville, Tenn., and Columbia, South America.

Pagnard Home Scene of Party For Bride-Elect

The E. A. Pagnard home, 40 Douglas avenue, was the scene of the lovely pre-nuptial party honoring Miss Barbara Morris, bride-elect, Friday evening. Hostesses were Mrs. Pagnard and daughters, Miss Betty Pagnard and Mrs. Jane McBride. Miss Morris, foster daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hazeltine, 342 Davis road, will become the bride of Rev. Warren Steinkraus of Boston, Mass., on Thursday.

The wedding will be observed by open church at the Park Avenue Baptist church at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Hazeltine, Miss Morris and her college roommate, Miss Betty Beach of Berea, surprised the hostesses and guests by appearing in old fashioned costume. Mrs. Hazeltine wore a "gay-nineties" costume and Miss Morris was gowned as a bride, and Miss Beach as the groom.

Cards were the diversion of the evening with prizes awarded to Miss Nancy Twitchell, Mrs. Richard Harrison, Mrs. Hazeltine and the honoree.

Miss Morris found her shower gifts by bursting balloons which disclosed the hiding place of the miscellaneous gifts.

At the close of the evening refreshments were served buffet style from an attractively decorated table. The centerpiece was a miniature church and the miniature bride and groom were placed under a dainty archway of roses, appearing to enter the church. Tin urns were filled with rosebuds in the setting.

Seventeen were in attendance for the party.

MISS AUDREY STETZER

Announcement was made recently at a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Stetzer, 259 Ohio street, of the approaching marriage of their daughter, Audrey. Miss Stetzer will exchange nuptial vows with Robert E. Keefe, 710 Park avenue west, July 17, at 9:30 a. m. at the St. Peter's Catholic church.

Fourteen guests were in attendance at the party and presented the bride-elect with a white organdy apron on which each guest had embroidered her name. Prizes for the games were won by Miss Helen Stull of Bucyrus, Miss Helen Norris of Crestline and Mrs. Frank Schneider of Mansfield.

Refreshments were served buffet style from a candlelit table centered with a wedding bell motif.

Nuptial Vows Read For Miss Holborn and Mr. Karsmiski

BEFORE a background of palms, beauty baskets and altar vases of white mixed flowers, Miss Marilyn Eloise Holborn became the bride of Dean Allen Karsmiski. The scene was lighted with seven branch candelabra. Wedding vows were exchanged in the South Main Street Evangelical United Brethren church with Rev. Willard J. Shawk officiating on July 3 at 8 p. m.

Miss Holborn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Holborn, 38 Chestnut street, and Mr. Karsmiski is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Karsmiski, 27 Wolfe avenue.

Miss Pauline Statler was the organist and the vocal numbers were provided by Miss Betty Pagnard, Miss Joanne Soloman, Miss Shirley Rankin, and Miss Eleanor Homerick.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white figured organdy. It had a nylon yoke with an off-the-shoulder ruffle. A tight-fitting bodice extended to a point in the front. The full skirt, extending into a short train was finished with two wide ruffles. The finger tip veil was held in place by a beaded tiarra. The bride carried two gardenias surrounded by white rosebuds, tied with white satin streamers, on a white Bible. The gown was made by the bride's mother.

Miss Ruth Shipley of Fredericktown, a close friend of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a figured organdy dress of aqua made like the bride's. Her head dress was heart-shaped covered with matching material and veil. The flower girl, Cynthia Holborn, sister of the bride, wore a yellow organdy dress like the bride's with a matching veil cornered with yellow rosebuds. The maid of honor carried a bouquet of yellow carnation tied with aqua streamers. The flowergirl carried aqua carnations with yellow streamers.

Mrs. Holborn wore a navy blue crepe dress with pink accessories. Mrs. Karsmiski chose a powder blue dress with white accessories. Both mothers had pink rosebud corsages.

Carl Thrush friend of the groom was the best man for the ceremony.

Norman Cloes, cousin of the bride, and Tom Comstord friend of the groom escorted the guests to their pews.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Refreshments were served from a long table centered with a three-tiered wedding cake surrounded by ferns and carnations.

After their honeymoon to Wasage Beach on Georgian Bay, Ontario, Canada the bride and groom will be at home at 184 Vernon avenue.

The bride graduated from Mansfield Senior High school and is a member of the Treble choir. The groom attended Mansfield Senior High school and served in the U. S. Armed Forces. They both are employed at the Westinghouse Electric corporation.

Out-of-town guests were present from Bellville, Lucas, and St. Thomas, Ontario, Canada.

Nora Mabee Honored At Nuptial Party

For the pleasure of Miss Nora Mabee bride-elect of Edward Gorenflo of Marion, was the party and miscellaneous shower given recently by Mrs. William R. Mabee, 643 Coleman road. Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Ruth Taylor, sister of the bride, Mrs. William Mabee and Mrs. John Mabee, sisters-in-law and the bride's three nieces.

The evening was spent in games and contests with prizes presented to the bride. These were kitchen articles. The hostesses gave her a gift of crystal.

Thirty were in attendance and surprised Miss Mabee with many lovely gifts. At a late hour refreshments were served buffet style. The table was decorated with a bridal scene with the miniature bride and groom placed in front of the altar. Appointments were in pink and white and bouquets of pink and white carnations decorated the home.

The Mabee-Gorenflo wedding will be solemnized Sunday, July 18 at 1:30 p. m. at the St. Matthew's Lutheran church. The closed service will be preceded by a 15 minute musical program.

NITE LARK CLUB

Ontario Church Scene of Casad-Kaler Wedding Vows

A GOWN of Chantilly lace, in a lovely flower pattern, was chosen by Miss Helen Edith Casad for her wedding on Saturday at 3:30 p. m. The gown had a sheer yoke of silk net and a wide bertha trimmed the outer edge. The skirt fell into a long wide train and a bustle effect trimmed the low line of the bodice in the back. Matching her gown was a Juliet cap appliqued in Chantilly lace and outlined in pearls. This held the full fingertip French silk illusion veil which also was appliqued with flowers and pearl trim, on the edge.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, exchanged wedding vows with Arthur C. Kaler in the Ontario Community church with the Rev. R. W. McNary officiating for the double ring ceremony. Open church was observed. The service was performed before an altar decorated with two beauty baskets of assorted flowers, palms and seven branch candelabra. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Miss Casad is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry James Casad, 1832 Park avenue west, and Mr. Kaler is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kaler. He has been residing with his sister at R. D. 6, Mansfield.

Mrs. Park Arter played the program of nuptial music before the wedding.

The bride carried a shower bouquet of white shattered carnations centered with a corsage of white roses.

Miss Norma Konves, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. Miss Casad's only attendant wore petal pink taffeta. Her gown was made with a boat neckline and cap sleeves with detachable gauntlets. There was a bustle at the back of the low waist line. She wore a side flower arrangement in her hair that matched her bouquet of bachelor buttons and sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Casad chose a navy and white print dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. She had a corsage of white shattered carnations.

James E. Odenkirk, nephew of the bridegroom, was the best man.

Paul J. Herlihy, cousin of the bride, and Richard J. Casad, brother of the bride, escorted the guests to their pews.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception for 60 guests was held in the church parlors. A pastel color scheme was used throughout the room. A three-tiered cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, was the centerpiece. A three-tiered candelabra and a beauty basket of mixed flowers were placed on each side of the table, and a floral arrangement mixed with greenery was placed around the table.

The bride wore a white suit with white accessories and a corsage of white roses, taken from the wedding bouquet, for her honeymoon to an undisclosed destination. After July 15 the couple will be at home at 118 Helen avenue.

Mrs. Kaler graduated from Ontario high school and Mansfield Business college. She is a secretary in the Area Rent Office, Mansfield. Mr. Kaler is a graduate of Ontario high school and attended Montana School of Mines, University of Washington, and Ohio State University. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity. Mr. Kaler served five years in the U. S. Navy. He is employed at the Charles Hoffman Plumbing company.

Out-of-town guests were present from Tipton and Davenport, Iowa; Dayton, Coshocton and Wooster, Ohio.

Ruth Sheriff Wed Saturday In Formal Church Rite

cousin of the bride, was flower girl. David Gross served as ring bearer.

The attendants wore frosty crisp white marquisette over pastel shades of green, yellow and orchid. The matron of honor wore white over orchid and the four bridesmaids wore white over green or white over yellow. They were made with wide square necklines which were trimmed in wide ruffles and white girdles, which were shirred with bows in the back, to match the color of their underslip. Mrs. Sheriff carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses and carnations.

The bridesmaids carried arm bouquets of roses, carnations and glads in the pastel colors. The little flower girl wore a yellow net frock, floor length and ruffled and carried a basket of rose petals which she dropped in the path of the bride. Little David wore a white suit.

Mrs. Sheriff, mother of the bride, wore a two-piece crepe dress of powder blue with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Fellmeth, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a grey crepe dress with rose accessories and wore a corsage of red roses.

Ushering the guests to their pews were Chester La Buda of Warren, Donald Swigart of Canal Fulton, Douglas Byam of Toronto, Canada, and Kale Canfield of Canton.

Best man for the bridegroom was his brother, William Fellmeth jr., of Canal Fulton.

Two hundred and 50 guests were received in the garden of the Sheriff home immediately following the service. The serving table was centered with a five-tiered wedding cake, topped with miniature bridal couple. White flowers and individual boxes of fruit cake also decorated the table. The cake was served by Miss Nancee Isler of Wooster, cousin of the bride.

When the couple left on their wedding trip to Quebec, Montreal and other cities in the east and Canada, the bride wore a white palm beach suit with black and white accessories.

Mrs. Fellmeth is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and Wittenberg college, where she received her A. B. degree. Mr. Fellmeth is a graduate of Canal Fulton high school and Wittenberg college, where he also received his A. B. degree. He is a past president of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Brides of Now and Yesteryear Give Advice

By DOROTHY MONROE

YOUNG BRIDAL COUPLES contemplating honeymoons this year may well need the advice of those who have gone on the important trip before them.

Nine Mansfield women who have been married from two weeks to 50 years were interviewed this week and all were agreed that whatever you plan be sure that its something which will be mutually enjoyed. They also expressed the opinion that to a woman, the part of the honeymoon which contributes most to its success is "having the right man along."

It is interesting to note that those who have been married over longer periods of time realize the importance of the honeymoon in their "Book of Memories" and advise a dream trip at any cost—even though it be delayed for awhile—while more recently married brides lean toward planning with an eye toward thrift.

Mrs. Howard Wenning, 481 Woodward avenue, is observing her 18th anniversary this year and she advises, "Take a nice trip. Even borrow if you have to. You can take other trips but you can never take another honeymoon."

Not quite so vehement in her urgency is Mrs. B. C. Summerville, East Side Drive, but she joins Mrs. Wenning in her advice to "take a honeymoon with all the trimmings."

"That's one of the most important events of your lifetime," says Mrs. Summerville, "and you will retain many pleasant memories of your honeymoon without any regrets if you take the kind of trip prospective brides dream of."

Mrs. Summerville, who is observing her 45th anniversary this year, also urges young people to take their trips right after the wedding because "when you return you get right into homemaking duties and children start coming along and these deserve your first consideration."

Mrs. J. L. Stevens, 67 North Mulberry street, celebrated her golden wedding anniversary in April, 1947. She believes that it is very bad to postpone the honeymoon.

"Take your wedding trip right after you are married," says Mrs. Stevens, "and make it the best one you can afford even if it's only for a few days or a week end."

Mrs. Stevens qualifies her statement by adding a warning to "save enough back to go to housekeeping."

A bride who will complete her second week of married life Wednesday, July 14, is Mrs. Daryle Keith Mong, nee Marilyn Jeanne Schill. She had this to say, "We drove to North Carolina and before we left we planned to splurge a few times and economize the rest of the time."

"I think it's best to go someplace now, and do whatever you can afford —just so you both enjoy what you're doing. For example, we both like to play golf so we included that. It's important to get away by yourselves for a short time, at least."

Mrs. Donald Johnson who was Miss Jo Ann Ebersole before her marriage June 26 said, "Don's in school so we won't be furnishing a home of our own right away and we decided to go "all out" on our plans for a honeymoon."

To young couples who must start furnishing their homes when they return Mrs. Johnson advises a middle course. "Have fun on a less expensive trip but save enough for the things you will have to buy when you get home. It will be fun to shop for your home furnishings too.

Mrs. Johnson added a final tip to young couples. "Don't let finances keep you from taking some kind of a honeymoon or from being married. We didn't and we're getting along just fine."

Another bride of less than a month of Mrs. Donald Moore, nee Katherine Berges, who took her trip to the altar June 19. She doesn't believe in making complete plans for the honeymoon but suggests deciding on a place to go and making your plans as you go along. "Have fun while you're on your trip but don't go into debt. We saved some money because naturally we had to live when we came back. I think it's best to spend what money you have for the things you want to do even if you have to come home a little sooner."

Mrs. Charles E. Kerr, 232 Davis road, doesn't believe in postponing the honeymoon because "you never seem to find time later on."

"Take the best trip you can, conservatively," says Mrs. Kerr, who was married 26 years ago, "and remember the expenses you'll have when you get home.

"I guess I'm too practical to throw money away," adds Mrs. Kerr.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Creveling, 103 West Luther Place, have also celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary. Mrs. Creveling reminisces about her honeymoon too but it wasn't 50 years ago.

"We went on our honeymoon 15 years after we were married," she recalls. "You can have just as wonderful a honeymoon after 15 years of happy married life as you can starting the day you are married," Mrs. Creveling affirms. This is in direct contradiction to statements made by others of our interviewees but it is a strong testimonial for the possibility of having a more perfect honeymoon by waiting until the circumstances are more practical than right after the marriage

Another Mansfield woman who was a bride 20 years ago, Mrs. Arquette Rust jr., 120 Stewart avenue, agrees with Mrs. Creveling on the common-sense in postponing the honeymoon in some cases.

"Do what you can afford but if you have to go in debt, put off your trip until you have saved enough money," advises Mrs. Rust. "Start your financial budget with your feet on the ground because the way you spend your money when you are first married often reflects what our later life will be."

A poll of the country's married women, taken recently by a popular magazine, showed these results: 33 per cent said, "Spend all the money you can lay your hands on and take a trip to remember all your lifes;" 19 per cent said, "Watch your pennies. Marriage is no vacation and you might as well get right down to brass tacks," and 48 per cent said, "Steer a middle course. Have fun but remember to save enough for the gas bill as the shock of plunging from a luxurious hotel into a dishpan is almost more than a newly-made marriage can bear."

A Message From Robert S. Lemley, DDC
The Week of July 18th Is Vacation Week for the Entire Staff of Lemley's Dry Cleaners.
All work and no play 'tis said makes Jack a dull boy — well we believe that to be true — So rather than attempt to struggle through the entire Summer by staggering vacations, and having to cope with inexperienced help, we will close for the entire week of July 18th.
This way, we believe, will enable us to maintain our High Standard Dry Cleaning and Fur Storage Service.
So call us early this week and we will have your cleaning ready for you before vacation.

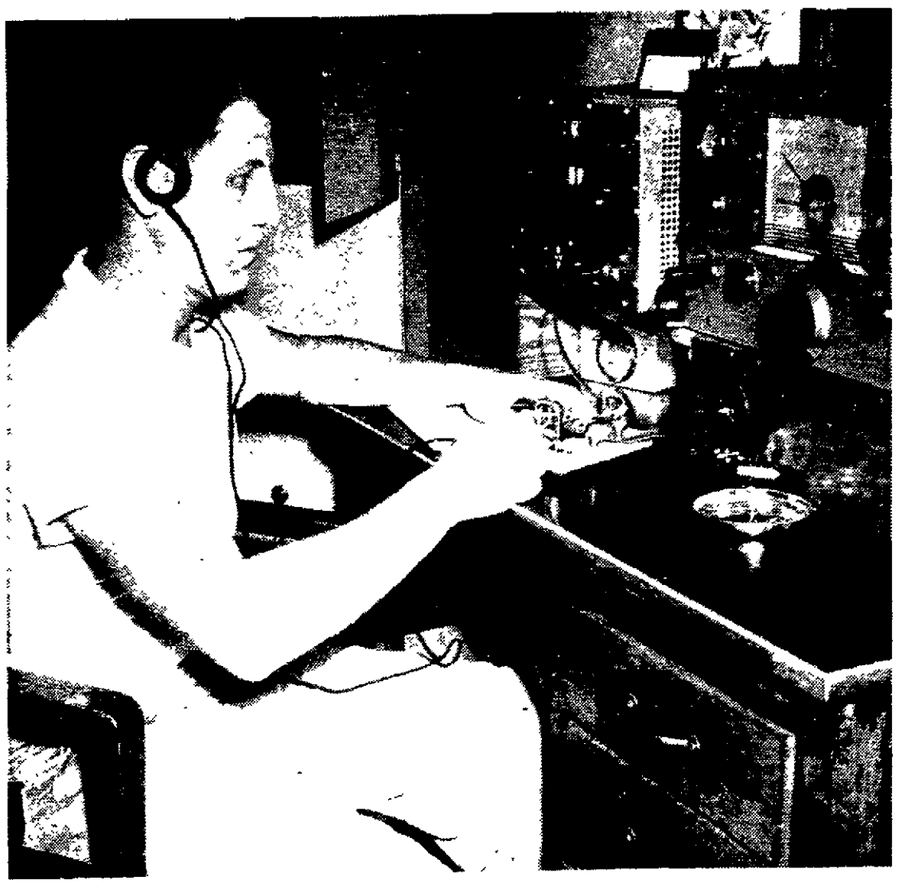
Mansfield Radio 'Hams' Pursue Fascinating Hobby



ADAM HOLZMILLER . . . In his radio workshop

By NORMAN DRESSER, N-J Sunday Editor

Adam Holzmiller, 283 Auburn street, frequently "talks" with friends in Australia and other wide-scattered parts of the world while sitting in a chair in his home here.

He's one of 50 radio "hams" in Mansfield—amateur radio enthusiasts who own and operate their own transmitters to pursue a hobby as enchanting to them as the allure of a beautiful woman.

Radio "hams" are a strange tribe. Usually they start out with a one or two tube receiver while still in high school. Building the outfit themselves at a cost of only a few dollars, they start tinkering with larger radios and dreaming of high-powered sets. Scarcely before they realize it, they're enthused by this fascinating hobby.

Holzmiller became interested in radio while in high school. By 1932, when he was 19, he received his first amateur radio license.

Today he has a 1000-watt transmitter and other complex radio equipment which fills an entire room in his bungalow on Auburn street. In his back yard is a 60-foot rotary beam antenna tower which represents an investment of many hundreds of dollars.

"I work DX (or foreign) stations) almost entirely, and transmission over such distances naturally requires a powerful station," Holzmiller said.

"Some hams just talk or gossip with friends in the city or state, others 'work traffic,' and still others, like myself, concentrate on DX stations. There are all sorts of different things to do, with a transmitter."

Holzmiller, like most hams in this country, belongs to the ARRL or American Radio Relay league. The league is a sort of self-governing body which represents all amateurs and has a membership of 55,000. He also is a member of the Intercity Radio club of Mansfield, composed of local radio hams.

REACHED 75 STATIONS

Like all DX operators, Holzmiller's principal objective is to talk with as many amateurs in foreign countries as possible. Up to now, he's reached approximately 75 different operators in foreign countries, including such faraway places as China, Russia, Australia, Germany.

The ARRL presents a plaque to hams who have achieved 100 "confirmed" exchanges with foreign operators. Thus far, he has 50 confirmed stations.

To rate a confirmed exchange, the operator must receive confirmation by mail from the foreign operator. Amateurs who operate transmitters design their own cards giving call letters and technical data on station power, time of exchange and so forth.

"Since the war it's been harder to get confirmed messages from many foreign operators simply because they haven't the money to print cards and pay postage," Holzmiller said. "This is especially true in Europe."

The hams take pride in designing their own cards, and some are of unusual appearance. Holzmiller likes to show one card from Guatemala City, Guatemala, which has a background of palm trees and other tropical fauna. The card was designed by the Guatemala ham's wife.

"There's an unusual story in connection with this," Holzmiller said. "This fellow, an American who works for Pan-American airways, surprised me not long ago by dropping by the house. He was on leave from Guatemala and made a special side-trip to look me up."

Many enduring friendships are made through the medium of the ether. And, occasionally, old friends pop up in unexpected places.

HEARS FROM FRIEND

Holzmiller, a Navy veteran, told of talking recently with an amateur radio operator in Sidney, Australia, to discover that the ham was an old friend whom Holzmiller had known when he was stationed in Australia during the war.

The Mansfielder's hobby paid off for Uncle Sam during the war. Like many other amateur radio operators, he served with the Navy as a chief petty officer in radar and radio work.

The hams take pride in the fact that they serve their country both in time of war and peace. Their wartime value lies in their training in what now has become a highly technical field. In peacetime, they furnish communications during emergencies such as floods or disasters such as the Texac City explosions last year. With normal communications destroyed, amateurs often can flash messages to authorities or the Red Cross.

Since the end of the war amateur radio operators have become more numerous, Holzmiller said.

"For one thing, lots of GI's have set up stations overseas. There are a lot of new stations, for example, in Germany. In some cases, the Army lets them use government equipment."

Russia's "Iron Curtain" is no barrier to amateurs, Holzmiller said. He declared that he had talked with many hams in Yugoslavia and Russia but, strangely enough, had never contacted a Polish amateur.

"It's not as bad as they say," he related. "I've talked to a lot of Russians and we exchanged technical data about our stations and even gossip a little."

"You'd be surprised how many foreign operators understand English. And another aid to the language barrier are the international 'Q' signals. The signals are a set of international code messages by which amateurs who can't understand each other's language still can exchange dope about signal power, transmitter output, and so forth."

Holzmiller uses a transmitter key rather than a microphone to "talk." He "pounds out" code at the rate of about 25 words a minute, and can receive at a higher rate.

Very few amateurs use voice transmitters because of the greatly increased power requirements. Also, code signals are much easier to understand than voice.

The hobby is a demanding one. If Holzmiller wants to "work" China or Japan, for example, he must get up before dawn because of the time difference between America and the Far East.

And how does his wife feel about his hobby?

"Well, when we first got married I tried to get her interested, but it was no go," he said. "I don't let my hobby interfere too much with my home life. It's an expensive hobby, but a lot of fun."

NEA Closes Convention

CLEVELAND —(INS)— The National Education association closed up shop Saturday on its 86th annual convention in Cleveland following a reaffirmation of the organization's plans for a nation-wide campaign for federal aid to education.

The NEA adjourned last night after voting unanimously to push for early congressional action on federal aid to the nation's public schools, which it termed "the primary immediate need of public education."

Miss Mabel Studebaker, a biology teacher of 24 years' experienc in the Erie, Pa., public school system, was elected president of the NEA yesterday without opposi-

Meet Polio 'Season' With Precautions, Not Panic

Meet the coming polio "season" with precaution not panic, advises Dr. Harry Wain, new city-county health commissioner

The odds are heavily in your favor that neither you nor your children will be stricken with infantile paralysis.

Statistics show that the virus attacks relatively few people. Twenty cases in a 100,000 population is considered an epidemic in relation to incidents of other diseases. Half of those who get the disease recover without crippling. Another fourth, receiving good care, recover with only slight permanent crippling.

"Mention of the disease is prone to strike fear in the hearts of parents, but I believe people become unduly concerned," the commissioner said.

"Unfortunately, there is no 'sure' precaution against polio. The disease itself is not conclusively understood as yet, but it is generally believed that good living habits lessen the chances of acquiring the disease, or if acquired, lessen the effect of the virus."

The general health rules, which Dr. Wain prescribes for both children and adults are:

1. Maintain the general body health at the highest possible level with plenty of rest and sleep, fresh air and sunshine and proper nourishment.

2. Observe scrupulous personal cleanliness, washing hands after eating and using the bathroom.

3. Avoid becoming fatigued. Evidence has been found that the overly-tired person makes an easier victim for the plague.

4 Avoid chilling Don't stay too long in very cold water. Don't swim in pools where the water may be unclean

LIVE, EAT CLEANLY

5. Have good environmental sanitation, clean homes and surroundings. Fight flies, rats and other vermin. Protect food from flies.

6. Avoid crowds and people who are ill during the outbreak of the disease.

No cases have been reported in Richland county so far this summer. Last year's total was 14 cases, final case appearing in November

The most important step, next to taking precautions, according to Dr. Wain, is to summon the family physician upon the first indication of sickness.

That sickness may either resemble the "summer flu" accompanied by diarrhea and pains through the abdominal region or be similiar to a cold with sore throat and mild fever.

These symptoms may or may not develop into stiffness of the neck, spine or limbs But BE ON THE SAFE SIDE. Send for the doctor and let him decide.

In a great many instances, early attention to the case prevents paralysis from developing.

The virus which causes the disease is too small to be seen under the most powerful microscope. According to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, founded by the late President Roosevelt, the infantile paralysis virus is most highly resistant to many things that kill bacteria and other more complicated forms of life.

It can withstand drying; can be subjected without destruction to many antiseptics and germacides; or it can be kept at temperatures far below freezing and retain its vitality. But is cannot be grown outside living cells as can most bacteria.

POLIO ATTACKS TISSUES

The polio virus attacks living tissues, generally the spinal cord and the central nervous system, The ability of the poliomyelitis virus to grow and multiply is not only dependent upon living cells, but is limited to a few cells of but few animals. Man, himself seems to be the best host for the virus.

The virus is found in sewage during epidemics. It's found in the intestinal tracts of people who aren't appreciably ill with polio For every person who comes down with the disease, hundreds may carry the virus. Whether they spread it to others hasn't been proved. For every person who has a parlyzing attack, six to eight may have only mild attacks with no paralysis.

In the United States, and some other countries, polio now apparently is affecting a higher percentage of older children in both city and country than it did 30 years ago. For many years it has affected a higher percentage of older children in rural areas than urban areas.

Some workers have remarked that countries with good sanitation seem to have more polio epidemics than countries where living conditions are poor.

There is a guess, but only a guess, as to why this happens. The guess is that in nations with poor sanitation, children may be exposed to the virus at a very young age and develop immunity.

In countries with good sanitation, according to this theory, children avoid the virus, and may be more susceptible to it when it does start to spread.

High rates of polio among American and British troops in the Philippines, Middle East and Far East are an interesting new development. In some cases, the troops had 10 times more polio than troops stationed at home. But there wasn't more polio among the native populations The troops either were exposed to the virus for the first time, or were exposed to a different strain of the virus than those prevalent in the United States or Britain.

There may be a dozen different strains of virus. No one yet knows. But the number complicates the search for a vaccine or other means of preventing the disease. Animal experiments indicate that immunity acquired from exposure to the virus is immunity only to that particular strain or its close relatives.

One team of workers found that when chimpanzees were fed the virus, they became intestinal carriers of it for several weeks or months. They develop specific neutralizing antibodies to the strain of virus used.

One thing is certain in any polio epidemic, or for that matter in any single case of the disease. Your March of Dimes contributions will come back to you for the treatment, either for you or your children. So don't spare the expense of calling a physician or seeing that the victim has the best possible care that can be given.

Butler Man Held on Non-Support Count

Lace Webb, 43, of Butler, was arrested yesterday by sheriff's deputies on a warrant charging non-support of three children.

Deputies said the warrant was received from law enforcement officials in Wayne county, W. Va. Webb was held in the county jail pending his return to West Virginia today.

Ships Attacked Almost Daily

Cannon-Armed Pirates Infest East Asia

CANTON, China —(AP)— Pirates, smugglers, hijackers and black marketeers are flourishing in waters all the way from southern China up to Korea and Japan.

The sea-going Oriental criminal is an anachronism—a combination of Captain Kidd and the rum-runners and hijackers of American prohibition days. But his tastes are more varied. He'll pirate anything from a boatload of rice to gold bullion. He'll smuggle anything from opium to people, as long as it brings a price

Until recently, piracy was generally confined to the coast of China, where it has actually been unchecked for a thousand years But the trade is now extending to the island-studded coast of Korea, which has ideal daylight hiding places for the thousands of boats sneaking up from as far south as Hong Kong and Formosa to Manchuria. Korea and the Japanese islands

The smuggling trade in the area where the Korean peninsula divides the Japanese and Yellow seas has become so profitable it has attracted armed hi-jackers. Many smugglers and their boats have just disappeared.

The Chinese pirate usually uses a junk armed with machine guns and perhaps light cannon He lies in wait along a network of rivers which carry cargo and passengers to Canton, or he lurks in the bays and inlets on both sides of Hong Kong to the southeast

In these areas, river junks towboats and motor vessels are attacked almost every day Few escape looting. Some end up with dead and wounded, and many a Chinese has had to pay ransom to stay out of pirate hands

Pirates recently fought a two-day air, sea and land battle near Hong Kong

A junk full of drugs in the inshore waters 35 miles west of the city were about to board and loot a junk carrying rice when a police launch showed up. The pirates opened up with machine guns and headed for shore, making the catch under cover of the fire. The police radioed Hong Kong for help

TWO-DAY BATTLE

Before long, a flying boat heavy with well-armed police roared to a landing on the river. Along a road on the shore other cops came in motor vans Then, for two days, on a villainous piece of real estate known as Tiger hill, the pirates fought off the cops

They finally escaped at night, leaving behind one wounded pirate - a woman!

The least violent of the pirates in the neighborhood work the rivers around Canton. They, too, have slit throats in their time, but now they are content to extort "protection" money on passing junks and river boats.

The worst of the buccaneers are said to hang out in notorious Bias bay, 45 miles east of Hong Kong. They call themselves the "navy" or the "Marine Corps" or the "United Democratic Army" of the communists of South China

To help flush them out, Chinese authorities have converted four American landing craft into small floating fortresses, each big enough to carry 100 soldiers, a small arsenal, and two-way radio.

The sea-going rackets also are increasing 1,500 miles to the northeast, and in many cases authorities there admit they are powerless to control completely the traffic in stolen or smuggled goods, dope and humans, reports Frank L. White, Associated Press staff correspondent in Tokyo, who recently made an 18-day trip to South Korea and southern Japan. He talked to allied authorities, local police, smugglers and their backers, black marketeers and people who travel without passports.

One Korean smuggler offered White a well-known American car, unobtainable at present in Tokyo and not too available in the states. He offered to deliver it at any spot White chose in Japan for $10,000 American money. He said the car would come from China and guaranteed it would arrive in first class condition.

"Another smuggler I met in a darkened alley by appointment," White says of his visit to Korea," "said he could guarantee to deliver me on the coast of Japan in two days. I debated the matter, but decided the American authorities might not like that type of entry, even to prove it could be done."

T. H. Ireland, a former Baltimore policeman now CID agent of the 24th U. S. Army corps at Pusan, Korea, told White authorities don't have enough manpower to stem the illegal sea traffic.

Ireland recently seized 100 pounds of smoking opium, valued at $1,000,000 American dollars, right on the Pusan docks. The dope had come from China in five fruit boxes aboard a 200-foot vessel which was English registered and Chinese operated. The opium, contained in tin cans covered by a single layer of apples, was destined for trans-shipment from Japan to the United States.

Cruelty Charge Faced By Mother

BUCYRUS—Hearing on charges of cruel and inhuman treatment against Mrs. Lillias Collins, 38, Bucyrus mother, has been tentatively set for Monday afternoon in the court of Probate Judge Constance R. Keller.

Mrs. Collins is at liberty under $500 bond after having been taken into custody June 7 when she admitted chaining two of her children to the stairway at her home.

'Least Agonizing' Season Nears

Here's Good News, Hay Fever Victims

CHICAGO—(AP)—The forthcoming hay fever season, says the Chicago Society of Allergy, may be the most joyful on record.

Or, viewing it from another angle, the least agonizing.

The reasons:

Some 20 new and a handful of older anti-hay fever drugs will be available in quantity for the first time to doctors throughout the country.

The American Academy of Allergy is putting on the biggest campaign in its history for the obliteration of pollen-producing weeds, grasses and trees.

Generally, hay fever isn't caused by hay, nor does it produce fever. The offenders are barb-tipped or sharp-edged specks of pollen that float in the air and can be carried for many miles. In sensitive persons they become an effect similar to a severe cold—red watery eyes, a burning sensation in the nostrils and a fagged-out feeling.

A member of the Chicago Society of Allergy said doctors will determine in the next few years which of the new so-called antihistaminic drugs like benadryl, antergan and pyribenzamine are most effective.

"In the meantime," he added, "these drugs can bring a lot of help to hay fever sufferers in general, and nearly every drug house is continuing work to find still better ones."

One house, Abbott laboratories, went beyond the symptoms and drugs and came up with a new pollen detector. Its inventor is Oren C. Durham, chief botanist for the laboratories.

MEASURES EFFECT

Durham's idea was to produce a low cost pollen counter that could give an accurate sample of conditions in the sufferer's home neighborhood. This device could measure the success of efforts to destroy pollen-producing weeds.

After four years of research, he was successful. No patent was taken out on the device. It was made available, royalty-free, for public benefit. This cut production costs to around $25 each. About 100 now are available in the United States.

There are three principal hay fever seasons—spring, when the willow, poplar and oak trees produce pollen, starting in March; summer, when grasses like timothy shower pollen into the air, and fall, when weeds such as the giant ragweed, plantain and cocklebur do their dirty work. The third period is the worst.

Trees and grasses as a source are relatively unimportant, but starting in August, and until the first killing frost, the ragweed plant is bemoaned by sufferers from coast to coast.

That is where the farmer and city gardener enter the picture.

Cutting weeds is not too effective as a prevention measure because too much time and work is required to get sufficient cooperation.

However, the task is simplified with a weed-killing chemical introduced during the war years called 2,4-D. When a fog of this chemical is sprayed on a weed bed before the flowers develop, the plants die before they can shed their pollen.

Farm advisers say a quarter-pound of the chemical in five to ten gallons of water will control the weeds over an acre of ground.

Now that the chemical is in mass production, allergists say, farmers have a potent weapon for removing the source of one of mankind's most troublesome irritations.

Hours Announced

The U. S. Marine Corps recruiting station will remain open Monday through Friday from 8 a. m. until 9 p. m., and on Saturdays from 8 a. m. until 4:30 p. m., it was announced yesterday.

A Marine sergeant will be on duty to accept enlistments

OUTDOORS

With

Mal Hartley

HOWDY, FOLKS

Let's get acquainted.

Now that Dick Schwab has handed me the reins for the summer, I want readers of the "outdoors" column to have a general view of my ideas at the offset.

Despite the light vein of my "Mutters" which have more or less regularly brought up the rear of the column, I take conservation seriously.

Why? Well, the answer to that question would fill a book. Several writers more able than myself have filled books on the subject.

Briefly, I regard conservation as the most vital issue of the times because the lack of it is slowly but surely choking off the world's ability to clothe, feed and provide comforts for the earth's human population.

Human beings have been acting like a horde of unthinking grasshoppers which spread devastation in its path. Unless we recognize and correct our faults, we shall eventually eat up the earth—and that will halt the picnic permanently.

Some hunters and fishermen perhaps think along lines of reforestation and water control only because they want more game and more fish. There's no fault in that. So long as they realize that we can't keep taking without giving, they have the basic concept of conservation.

It's a big subject, this matter of conservation. It touches every phase of our life. I'm not intending to preach about it too much, but I'll use it as a yardstick to measure the value or shortcomings of matters relating to the outdoors.

Notes In Brief:

The fifteenth annual meeting of the Midwest Association of Fish, Game and Conservation Commissioners will be held next week-end at Put-in-Bay, Lake Erie. . . . Every Ohioan interested in picnics or touring should have one of the new booklets issued by Standard Oil showing the location and facilities of picnic grounds and roadside parks throughout the state. The oil company made its own survey to gather the information after finding that even the highway department didn't have it. . . . Just in case anyone has overlooked the fact, Mansfield area is represented on the Ohio Conservation Commission. The representative is a man who is steadily moving to the front among the nation's conservationists, Louis Bromfield.

★

Money Well Spent

Ohio will receive $10,641 in 1949-50 to build highways in its national forests. This will be contingent on the appropriation of funds by Congress for a program it has already authorized.

Next in importance to the protection and preservation of national forests comes the matter of making them accessible to the public. In the long run, a wise policy in this respect might give the greatest protection of all against those who desire to convert the resources of the public lands to their own profit.

★

Fishing Chatter:

This information might be a little late for those who planned to devote the full week-end to fishing. But for the one-day guys, here it is Leesville lake, near Carrollton, holds the best promise of good fishing at the present time, according to the Ohio Conservation division's weekly report.

Leesville's average is 1.2 fish per hour per fisherman, second to Seneca's 1.46, but 97 per cent of the Leesville catch is made up of the tasty, stubby bluegill, one of the nicest panfish to be had in Ohio's waters.

Route 30 from Mansfield to Canton, picking up Route 43 there, will take you to Carrollton, where you can get directions to the lake. Another route is 30 to Wooster, 250 to New Philadelphia, 39 to Sherrodsville, and 212 into Leesville. It's close to 100 miles one way.

It's a long trip for anyone but dyed-in-the-fins fishermen. If you wish to stay closer home, try Charles Mill reservoir. It's rated "good" this week.

Mal's Mutters

About the only theory not advanced on the local bombing is that the fellow might have been dynamiting fish. No doubt the fact that there was no water means that the theory wouldn't hold water.

* * *

No one has been caught, but that is fully justified. The police have been so busy eliminating suspects that they haven't had much time to trail the culprit.

* * *

Anyway, the job can't be blamed on gamblers. Who'd be gambling around with a boom stick?

* * *

Investigators said it was a bum bomb. Might be. But the repercussions are still being felt.

Farm Tools Rates Top With Seven

With Mansfield's ambitious league softball program just past the halfway mark, only four aggregations still sport perfect records.

Farm Tools, Independent league, heads the list with eight straight victories while Park Avenue Baptist, Church league, has copped five straight. Komito's Clothes, Industrial circuit, and Ohio Brass, Girls' loop, each have four victories to their credit.

The Toolmen seek their eighth win Wednesday against Dominion Electric at North Lake park.

Only one night of play is scheduled this week at the Gorman-Rupp field. Lumbermens and Westinghouse will battle in a Girls' league encounter at 6:15 p. m., while Sons of Herman is scheduled to play Moose lodge at 8 p. m.

The latter teams are in the Class A league. The Hermans are defending champs while Moose trails VFW in the 1948 league standings.

Gorman-Rupp Team Opens Four-Game Slate Tonight

Mansfield Gorman-Rupp will meet the tough Akron Firestone team at Akron tonight in the first of four games for the team this week.

Two of the games will be played under the Gorman-Rupp lights including a tilt tomorrow night with the Sandusky Italian-Americans, who defeated the Grays three weeks ago.

Only North-Central Ohio Inter-City league game of the week will be played Thursday at Willard. Gorman-Rupp will be seeking its third league win in the second half season and be attempting to stay ahead of the hot Ashland Indians. The Indians won their first start in the second half by a 17-0 score over Willard.

Friday Gorman-Rupp will be host to a Lakewood team under the local lights.

League games on this week's schedule includes Ashland at Marion Tuesday, Mt. Vernon at Ashland Wednesday and Marion at Tiffin Thursday.

Mary Miller Tops Softball Batting List

Mary Miller, Lumbermens in the Girls' league, continues to set the batting pace in the six Mansfield softball leagues with a sky-high mark of .750. She has nine hits in 12 trips.

Tops among the men is Burkhart, First Methodist catcher, with 19 blows in 29 trips and a mark of .689. In the three Class A leagues, the leadership goes to Richard Eccles, Greystone Nite club, with an even .600.

Paul "Stub" Winebrenner, the Farm Tools pitcher, tops the Industrial circuit with .537.

Madison Baseball Nine Plays Two Road Tilts

Madison township, leaders of the County Junior league, will be on the road for two games this week. Monday Madison goes to Lexington and Thursday to Lucas.

Other games during the week will send Bellville to Lucas Monday and Lexington to Bellville Thursday.

Former Softball Men Plan Picnic

Another reunion of former Mansfield athletes is in the making.

This time it will be the men who played on the softball team in 1938, '39 and '40 which representer Beeber-Ross, Deluxe Cabs and Sons of Herman, respectively. Arrangement meeting for the picnic session is scheduled Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at Corner Lunch, Fred Carver announced last night.

Bucyrus Softball Field Busy Spot In Tourney Play

BUCYRUS—Lions club ball field will be a busy place the last week in July and the first two weeks in August when major softball tourneys are scheduled here.

Scheduled for July 24 and 25 is the American Legion Fifth District tournament which will attract approximately 16 teams.

Starting Monday, July 26 and continuing through the first two weeks of August is the district 1948 tournament of the Ohio Amateur Softball association which will include play in both men's and women's divisions. The event attracted 24 men's teams last year at Riverside Park, Mt. Vernon. The district embraces, Ashland, Crawford, Knox, Marion, Morrow, Richland and Wyandot counties. Ted Baker of Bucyrus will act as tournament manager.

Other events scheduled at Lions field, which is considered one of the best in the state, is the American Legion state tournament, August 29 and the Veterans of Foreign Wars state finals, Aug. 6, 7 and 8. The Moose state finals are tentatively scheduled here Aug 14 and 15.

Kansas Barred From Big Six

KANSAS CITY —(AP)— The Big Seven conference faculty committee yesterday voted to cancel all athletic contests with the University of Kansas during the academic year of 1948 and 1949.

The action came after a day-long meeting in which the committee considered the defiance expressed by K. U. toward the conference eligibility rules.

The committee left the door open for Kansas to reenter the fold, however. The stipulation was this:

K. U must by July 24, 1948, state its intention of abiding by the rules of the conference (the Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Athletic association.)

Just a week ago Chancellor Deane W. Mallot of the university tossed a bombshell in the circuit by announcing the Jayhawkers would play five athletes made ineligible by a reinterpretation of an elegibility rule.

Hot Stove Juniors Play 29 This Week

With no Cleveland trips lined up, the Hot Stove league baseball program will be back in full swing this week with 29 games on the schedule.

The Major league holds the spotlight of the program with three teams undefeated and two likely to fall during the week. Sons of Herman Colts and Ohio Sport Center, both undefeated, will tangle at Liberty park Monday while Friday Sons of Herman meets Zitzer's, also unbeaten.

In the Junior league Gene Hartnett's Police team seems fairly certain of maintaining its lead in two games with the Moose and Exchange club, both well down in the standings.

Twelve-year-old Larry Zartman and his Prospect park team will hold forth as the Hot Stove league's combination. Zartman has pitched Prospect to eight straight elementary league victories. Swinging in cleanup position he also leads the team at bat.

Bill Nicholson Blasts Triple For Triumph

CHICAGO — (AP) — Bill Nicholson, who homered to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates Friday, came through again for the Chicago Cubs here yesterday with a triple that came with two mates aboard in the eighth inning for a 4-2 victory and two straight in the series.

Johnny Schmitz held the Bucs to two hits, a single and double by Clyde Kulttz, for his eighth win. They combined Kluttz' two-bagger with two walks and an error by Hank Schenz for their runs in the second inning.

Extra base blows were the undoing of "Rip" Sewell. Bob Scheffing doubled and Roy Smalley tripled for one run in the fifth and then Andy Pafko, who bagged three of the Cubs' hits, pounded out his 12th homer to deadlock the score in the sixth.

Dillard Out In Olympic High Sticks

American prestige in the shot is in good hands. The Olympic record for the event is 53 feet 1 13/16 inches, held by Hans Woelke of Germany, and few Europeans this year have even approached 52 feet.

As if to compensate partially for the upsets, there popped up a trio of pole vaulters who showed championship class. Both Richard Morcum of Durham, N. H., and Gwinn Smith of the San Francisco Olympic Club cleared a lofty 14 feet 8⅛ inches. First place, however, went to Morcum because he had only three misses to four for Smith. Robert Richards completed the team with a vault of 14 feet 6⅛ inches.

Earle Meadows of Brownsville, Texas, who won the pole vault at the Berlin games in 1936 and was trying to make the team again, wound up a gallant sixth at 13 feet 6 inches.

Joe McCluskey, a member both of the 1932 and 1936 teams in the steeplechase, was fifth in his event, two places too late.

RACE A SCORCHER

The race that Dodds didn't run in, the 1,500 meters which is almost equivalent of the mile, was a scorcher, with Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin, noted for his finishing sprint, leading the bunched pack home. He was timed in a creditable 3.52.2, with Clem Eischen of Washington State and Roland Sink of Southern California right behind.

ALMOST DOES IT

Three broad jumpers came forward who bettered 25 feet, pointing to a possible one-two-three sweep at London. Willie Steele of San Diego State led with an arching leap of 26 feet 2 inches—and then jumped 26 feet 10 inches, which is one and three quarters better than Jesse Owens' mighty world record set in 1935.

However, the judges found he had fouled the jump off block by a scant quarter of an inch, so it didn't count. Herb Douglas of Pittsburgh did 25 feet 3 inches and Alonzo Wright of Wayne jumped 25 feet one and one quarter inches to make the team.

Fortune Gordien of Minnesota led the discus field as expected, with 166 feet 2 inches, but Victor Frank of Yale was close behind, with 165 feet 10¾ inches, and William Barten, another Army representative who almost lost out in the qualifying tests at Milwaukee, made the team in third place with 163 feet 9¾ inches.

Guy's Boat Makes Music

DETROIT — (AP) — Guy Lombardo, driving his dependable Miss Tempo VI, swept the three heats of the Henry Ford Memorial trophy powerboat race yesterday to win the trophy with 1,200 points.

The dance band leader gunned his aging craft to an average speed of 58.071 miles an hour to win the third and final heat by a handy margin. He had taken the first two heats with little opposition.

Lombardo averaged 59.42 miles per hour as he came in more than a lap ahead of Ed Stair jr.'s Katy-Did.

Danny Foster in Miss Great Lakes, given the best chance to challenge Lombardo according to pre-race dope, was running second when her propellor sheared off and drove a hole in her bottom.
